OVER EIFFEL TOWER IN WRIGHT BIPLANE

Count de Lambert Flies from Juvisy to Paris, 15 Miles, and Back Again.

WRIGHT WITNESSES FEAT

Calls It the Finest Flight Yet—Lambert Says He Reached a Height of 1,300 Feet.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The most remarkable cross-country flight ever accomplished in an aeroplane was made this afternoon by Count de Lambert. He left the Juvisy Aerodrome at 4:36 o'clock in a Wright machine, flew across Paris to the Eiffel Tower, circled it, and returned to his starting point, arriving safely at 5:25.

Lambert kept his plans secret from almost everybody, even from his wife, the only exceptions being two officials of the Aviation Society, one of whom at Port Aviation, kept the time of his departure and arrival, the other the time of arrival at the Eiffel Tower, on top of which he was stationed. In a beeline the Eiffel Tower is fifteen miles from Juvisy. The weather was ideal, the air being perfectly clear and without wind.

The crowd of 20,000 which was watching the beginning of Lambert's flight at Juvisy was amazed when the aviator and aeroplane crossed the boundary of the aerodrome and was dumfounded when they disappeared behind the brown semicircle of hills to the northward. Orville Wright, who had just come from Berlin, was among the spectators and was delighted when informed of the real object of the magnificent venture of his brother's first pupil. The general impression in the crowd at first was that Lambert had only gone for a little detour over the neighboring country. As time went on, however, and he did not reappear, the anxiety grew painfully intense. Automobiles were dispatched in every direction in search of tidings, and the telephones at Juvisy and Savigny were besieged by hundreds.

Meanwhile Paris was witnessing a spectacle unexampled in the history of the world. Just before 5 o'clock pedestrians near the Seine began to stop and gaze skyward in a southern direction and thousands upon thousands quickly gathered. At first the object they discovered sailing at a tremendous height was taken for a great kite, but it traveled with marvelous speed and soon was passing swiftly over the Palais Bourbon and Quai d'Orsay.

For a time there was no cheering. The people simply gazed in mute admiration at the strange thing cleaving the sky, to which the distance and the stately movement lent beauty and grace. Steadily it advanced and in a wide-spreading curve rounded the apex of the Eiffel Tower. Then it sailed directly away to the south. It was not until this moment that the wonderful nature of the feat being performed burst fully upon the multitude and it began to cheer. It was just growing dark and the spectators strained their eyes to keep the aeroplane in view till the last moment.

At 5:15 a telephone message reached the aerodrome saying that the aeroplane had been to Paris and was flying back to Juvisy. A scene of the wildest enthusiasm followed and the pent-up feelings of the waiting crowd found vent in shouts of joy.

Only a few minutes later the aeroplane loomed suddenly out of the growing twilight, looking in its pallid outlines, as it glided toward them, like a gigantic ghostly bird that might have winged its way through mystic space from an unknown world. It was then, flying 500 feet above the ground, some two miles to the northward, before the spectators in the tribunes were fairly aware of its nearness to them; then it swept past them and after two final rounds of the aerodrome floated quietly to earth.

Countess de Lambert embraced her husband with overflowing tears. Wright congratulated Lambert and declared that the flight was the finest he had ever known. Lambert was lifted into an automobile and taken in triumph to a restaurant, where his health was toasted in champagne to the strains of the "Marseillaise."

Lambert says he was 300 feet above the top of the Eiffel Tower when he circled it. In height, therefore, his flight was nearly equal to Wright's great record at Berlin, the tower itself being about 1,000 feet high.

Count de Lambert is one of the most enthusiastic aeronauts in France. He was the first passenger taken for a flight in France by Wilbur Wright, and it was with the Count de Lambert that the American aviator established his first record of an aeroplane flight carrying a passenger.

The wealthy Frenchman was taken for a flight for the first time at Le Mans on Sept. 28, 1908, and was taken up by the American aviator four weeks later, and then became Mr. Wright's first aeroplane pupil. On Nov. 17, 1908, the Count de Lambert made his first flights alone, remaining in the air for fifteen minutes in one ascension and twenty minutes in another. After this he made many flights, and being the owner of the first Wright machine sold in France he soon became one of the leading aeronauts of that country.

After he had become a skillful aeroplanist, the Count announced his intention of

McCARREN'S HEART WEAK.

Dr. Hughes Says That Feature of the Case Is His Chief Worry.

According to announcements made at St. Catherine's Hospital in Brooklyn last night the condition of Senator Patrick H. McCarren underwent no noticeable change during the day. He slept at intervals, and seemed to be resting comfortably, although it was said that his pulse was irregular and his heart weak. It was believed that these unsatisfactory symptoms were the cause of Dr. Peter Hughes, the chief attending physician, being at the hospital most of the day. Neither Dr. Hughes nor any of the other physicians would say unequivocally that the Senator was making any gain.

"Senator McCarren," said Dr. Hughes, "is resting comfortably. He is nervous, but his condition is as favorable as can be expected at this time. There are no bad indications, but the least relapse might throw him back considerably. It is the condition of his heart that gives us the most concern."

When Dr. Hughes was asked if he could say with any confidence that the Senator would recover, he replied:

"I am afraid to say yes and afraid to say no."

Senator McCarren was able to attend to some private business and to hear a word or two as to politics. He had his chief nurse make out two checks for him, one for $500 and the other for $100. The first was intended to meet some business obligation and the other represented his annual donation to the coal fund of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, in which parish he lives. He signed both checks with a fairly steady hand.

Having disposed of these matters, the sick leader, in the absence of Dr. Hughes, slyly tried to get a line on the campaign news from his confidential man, Christopher Dalton. The latter was wary, and merely told him that everything was running smoothly, and that there were bright prospects of success.

"Tell them to keep up the good work," said the stricken leader, apparently much pleased.

During the day the patient directed his nephew and secretary, David Hogan, to purchase for him a big doll to be presented to the fair in aid of St. Catherine's Hospital. Mr. Hogan bought the biggest doll he could find.

WOMAN'S SKELETON IN WOODS

Long Islanders Recall a Woman Cried from an Auto Thanksgiving Night.

Special to The New York Times.

SAYVILLE, L. I., Oct. 18.—Early this morning a little boy in the woods here discovered the skeleton of a woman. She had evidently been dead for more than a year. The skeleton was found near North Brentwood Road. Constable Nicholas B. Havens was notified, and with Coroner Savage of Islip began an investigation. The skeleton is that of an apparently young woman, well dressed, and wearing shoes of good quality. She had blonde hair, which was tied with a faded ribbon. The teeth were gold fill, and well cared for. The shoes had been gnawed by foxes.

It was recalled to-day that last Thanksgiving night a party of automobilists passing through Brentwood Road late at night passed another automobile in which were at least three persons. As the machines flashed past the motorists were sure that they heard a woman's cry, quickly stifled.

This story aroused gossip and speculation reached a high mark when a few days later a report was circulated that some one on the same night while passing through an estate at Oakdale, three miles east of where the body was found, heard a cry for help. This call came evidently from a woman. Now the finding of the skeleton has aroused interest in the half-forgotten incidents of that Thanksgiving night.

The skeleton was taken to an undertaker's shop in Islip to-night. In the clothing were found a pair of folding scissors, a silver thimble, and what apparently had been a receipted bill for goods purchased in New York. The writing was almost obliterated. The bill was written in German. "Koches," evidently the last name of the person from whom goods were bought, can be plainly read.

FIVE POLICEMEN DISMISSED.

A Detective and a Patrolman Were Charged with Intoxication.

A Central Office detective and four Brooklyn patrolmen were dismissed from the force on various charges yesterday by Commissioner Baker. Christopher C. O'Brien of the Detective Bureau was found guilty of having created a disturbance on the Williamsburg Bridge plaza while intoxicated on Sept. 21. He is alleged to have assaulted Patrolman Bedell, who arrested him.

Patrolman George W. Bates of the Fifth Avenue Court, Brooklyn, was arrested for intoxication. Patrolman William B. Rooney of the Hamilton Avenue Station was charged with assaulting another policeman, as was also Patrolman Joseph F. Byrne of the Amity Street Station, and Patrolman Edward M. Christian of the Grand Avenue Station was tried for insubordination.

When asked yesterday if he had decided to change back to the three-platoon system in the Police Department, Commissioner Baker said that he had made no such decision.

"I am investigating the matter," he said. "And I find many patrolmen who are well satisfied with the five-platoon system. I will not make any immediate change."

GUY M. WALKER MAY GET POST IN PEKING

New York Lawyer Is Mentioned for Appointment as Minister to China.

LIVED THERE FOR TEN YEARS

Thomas C. Dawson, Retiring American Representative in Chile, Also Talked of as a Possible Candidate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—In the absence of President Taft and Secretary Knox a sort of unofficial canvass of the eligible list for Minister to China is bringing many names before the public. To-day the talk has centred on two men not hitherto mentioned, though it is considered certain that a definite offer of the post will not be made until the President and the Secretary of State have a meeting.

The two men are Guy Morrison Walker of Indiana, now a lawyer, with offices at 15 Wall Street, New York, and Thomas C. Dawson, the retiring American Minister to Chile. The especial qualifications of Mr. Walker that are spoken of in discussing his chances for the appointment are that, aside from his long and successful business career, he once for ten years lived in China, and as an expert on Chinese affairs was consulted by President McKinley following the Boxer troubles. Since that time Mr. Walker has been largely interested in railroad matters, though he has kept in touch with the Orient by writing many articles in the magazines.

Mr. Dawson is returning from Chile to take charge of the new Bureau of Latin-American Affairs established by Secretary Knox on the lines of the Far Eastern Bureau.

Among the other dozen or so men who have been "mentioned" for the post is included Huntington Wilson, now First Assistant Secretary of State. It is believed that Secretary Knox would not be averse to giving Mr. Wilson a foreign post, but nothing has developed to show that Assistant Secretary Wilson desires to leave Washington.

Guy Morrison Walker, who is mentioned in connection with the Peking post, can talk Chinese, he says, as readily as he speaks English. He learned the language during the ten years he spent in China with his father, the Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Walker, who was a Chinese missionary for thirty-three years. Mr. Walker was born at Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 24, 1870, and was taken to China by his parents while an infant. He returned to the United States to enter De Pauw University, from which he was graduated in 1890.

He was admitted to the bar of Indiana in 1891, and in 1898 came to New York, and has made a specialty of railway and traction legal matters.

He organized the Terre Haute Trust Company in 1894 and the Security Trust Company of Toledo in 1898. He has been general counsel for the Everett-Moore Syndicate Railroad Company, the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railroad Company, and the Pittsburg Railway & Light Company He reorganized the Detroit & Toledo Shore Line Railroad Company and assisted in the reorganization of other railway companies. He also took an active part in the reorganization of the Knickerbocker Trust Company.

Mr. Walker is married and has two children. He is a Republican, but has never held public office. His law office is at 15 Wall Street, and he resides at 301 West 106th Street. Congressman Bennet, in whose district Mr. Walker lives, has indorsed him for the position of Minister to China, and presented his name to Senator Root for the place last Spring.

Stuyvesant Fish, being asked yesterday as to the report from Shanghai that he would be named Minister to China, said:

"It is true that the Chinese mission was offered to me, but that happened last Spring, while I was in Europe. Needless to say, the offer was at once declined. I did not mention the fact then, and should not do so now were it not for the persistence of the baseless rumors of my going there."

WOMEN HURT IN AUTO SMASH.

One Discovers Hours Later That Her Skull Is Fractured.

An automobile, in which were three women and three men, ran into a telegraph pole in Jerome Avenue, at 162d Street, early yesterday morning and the occupants were thrown out. The women fainted, and all the party were bruised and cut, but apparently none was hurt enough to go to the hospital. After dressing their wounds Dr. Black of Fordham Hospital allowed them to continue on their way by trolley, the automobile being smashed.

Yesterday afternoon Hulda Maske, a servant girl, was removed from 229 West 105th Street to Harlem Hospital, where it was found that her skull was fractured. She said she had been one of the auto party, but had not thought she was badly hurt until her head began to ache in the afternoon. With her in the party she said was Anna Zohler of 26 West 125th Street.

The third woman gave her name as May Henry of Edgewater, N. J. The men said they were Harry Harris of 218 West Sixty-fifth Street, Guy Anderson of 3,335 Broadway, and Clinton L. Jones.

The registration number on the car showed that it belonged to Alfred Walker, Jr., of 111 West Fifty-sixth Street.

NOBLE'S SON A SUICIDE.

Kills Himself After Shooting Man Who Involved Wife's Name.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 18.—Joseph Najmani, younger son of an Austrian nobleman, to-day shot John Ekcsell, a Hungarian carpenter. Then he killed himself. Ekcsell's wound is of a serious character.

The shooting occurred on the road to Little Danbury in the town of Fairfield. The cause of the shooting was a story told by Charles Kucsan concerning Mrs. Najmani and Ekcsell.

WESTERN ROADS ARE BUSY.

Commissioner Prouty Says Their Outlook for Business Is Excellent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Charles A. Prouty, Inter-State Commerce Commissioner, who has been in Spokane, Seattle, and other Western cities with the other members of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, returned to Washington today. Mr. Prouty said the railroads in the Far West had about all the business they could do. He did not see any signs of a car shortage in that country, although one has apparently begun in the Middle West and Southwest.

"The outlook for business for the railroads in the Far West is excellent," said Mr. Prouty. "The way the railroads are extending their lines in that part of the country is evidence of that. The Western Pacific is just opening its line to San Francisco, the Milwaukee is just completing its through line, the Grand Trunk Pacific is building rapidly through to Port Simpson on the Pacific, and while I was out there the Canadian Northern bought land for terminals at Westminster, near Vancouver. All this activity indicates that the railroads see excellent prospects for business ahead."

Mr. Prouty said he had not heard much demand from shippers in the Pacific Coast country for many changes in the Inter-State commerce law. They were anxious, he found, to have the commission empowered to pass on a proposed increase of a rate before it goes into effect.

The Commissioner is friendly to the proposed inter-State commerce court. He takes the position that if there is to be court review of the orders of the commission it can be obtained with more expedition by a special agent than otherwise.

MUST PAY $100,000 POLICY.

Supreme Court Refuses Writ in Suit Involving Charge of Suicide.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Without explaining the reasons for the action the United States Supreme Court to-day denied the petition for a writ of certiorari in the case of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York versus William E. Hazen and others, Trustees of the estate of the late Lucius H. Perkins of Kansas, involving a policy of $100,000 on the life of Mr. Perkins.

The proceeding was a technical one, and was begun by the company to have the contract with Mr. Perkins cancelled on the ground that it was obtained by fraud. After procuring the policy Mr. Perkins fell off the top of his house, and the insurance people contended that before falling he had administered to himself a dose of poison with suicidal intent, but, with the object of having it appear that his death had been caused by accident, so arranged his body that it would fall.

There was a long controversy as to whether there should be an autopsy, but one was at last ordered by the courts, and it is stated in the bill that the contentions of the company were verified. The case, as presented to the court, involved the question as to whether the proceeding, which was begun in equity, was technically correct. The Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit had held that the company was not entitled to release.

436 KISSES FOR PITCHER.

Women Wait for "Babe" Adams, but Baseball Hero Escapes Them.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 18.—Charles "Babe" Adams, who pitched three of the seven games of the world's series for the Pittsburg National League team and won them all, escaped the fate of Hobson only by the quickest kind of work. He made a flying retreat from his home on Mawhinney Street shortly after noon and deliberately hid from his admirers in a hotel.

By actual count there were 436 young women who wanted to kiss him. Accompanying them were at least 500 male admirers, who wanted to see them accomplish their purpose.

The crowd gathered shortly after 10 o'clock. "Babe" stayed indoors until he could stand the strain no longer. Then he slipped out by the back door.

The crowd got on his trail, and for four hours the street in front of the hotel to which he fled was jammed. At 2 o'clock at least 1,000 persons had gathered there. They cheered and called, then waited a moment, and cheered and called again, but "Babe" failed to appear. He excused himself to those inside by saying that his wife would prefer not to have him go about town to be kissed.

CHAPEL BUILT BY GIRLS.

Only Example of Pure Middle English Gothic Architecture in America.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 18.—The Right Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Connecticut, consecrated here to-day Rosemary Chapel, a church which was entirely paid for by young girls, the children of wealthy parents. It is said to be the only purely middle English Gothic structure of the sort in America.

The chapel belongs to Rosemary Hall, a fitting school for young women. Work on it was begun three years ago by the students themselves, who collected stones and carried them one by one to the spot which the building was to occupy.

The walls of the chapel are built of the rough stone, the rafters and timbers are hand-hewn, of the old-fashioned English style; the glass in the windows is hand-made English ambler glass, the floor is of imported red Welsh tile, the interior of the walls is unfinished stone, like the old English churches, and even the roof is slated after the fashion of the churches of the fourteenth century, when nails were not used.

T. E. Blake, a New York architect, who is a resident of Greenwich, designed the chapel.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Oct. 18.—Following directly an offer of $100,000 by Senator William H. Reynolds for 1,040 acres of marshland, which was to be voted on at the next town election, Senator John Kissell this morning made an offer of $250,000 for the same amount of property. He is willing to pay $100,000 in cash and give a mortgage at 6 per cent. for $150,000.

GOV. HUGHES KEEPS OUT OF CAMPAIGN

Mr. Bannard Is Disappointed and Some Republican Leaders Are Displeased.

THE GOVERNOR EXPLAINS

Thinks It Improper to Take a Stand for Candidates Who, If Elected, Would Come Under His Jurisdiction.

The Fusion leaders and candidates learned yesterday with considerable regret that Gov. Hughes would take no active part in the municipal campaign, except to cast his vote on Election Day. Some of the leaders and many of the candidates had hoped that the Governor would throw his great prestige and his popularity with the voters in the balance to aid the Fusion ticket.

The Governor's position was made known in the following press dispatch:

> ALBANY, Oct. 18.—Outside of casting his vote, Gov. Hughes will not take an active part in the municipal campaign in New York. Although he declined to comment on the situation to-day, the Governor made it clear that he assumed the position that, as Governor of New York State, he is the reviewing officer for about all the important officials in New York City, including the Mayor, Sheriff, District Attorney, Borough President, and others; and as they are amenable to him under the provisions of the Charter of New York, he does not believe that the Chief Executive of the State should appear in the local campaign in that city.
> In reply to questions as to whether he would appear in any local campaign this year, especially in cities where the officials are not accountable to him, as in New York, he let it be understood that he believed the Governor should not appear in any municipal election.

"I am very sorry to hear that Gov. Hughes cannot see his way clear to aid his own party in ridding the city in which he lives from Tammany misrule," said Otto T. Bannard, Fusion candidate for Mayor, when the dispatch from Albany containing the information was shown him.

Mr. Bannard added that the Governor, had he chosen, might have rendered most effective aid in the fight for municipal reform that is now in progress.

Mr. Bannard's feelings were shared by the Republican leaders and by the leading men in the Committee of One Hundred, though none of them would say much.

The belief of the Republican leaders that they are persona non gratae with the Governor may have had something to do with their failure to ask his aid. They have felt that the initiative should come from the Governor himself and cannot see any impropriety in his extending a helping hand to the forces of reform in his home city.

Herbert Parsons, President of the Republican County Committee, declined to make any comment on the Governor's attitude. In the last couple of weeks Mr. Parsons has frequently expressed the hope that the Governor might take a hand in the fight, but he would not ask him to do so.

Mr. Bannard's Plans.

Plans for Mr. Bannard's campaign during the present week were practically completed yesterday. To-day he will address a string of meetings in Manhattan. On Wednesday evening he will address the big meeting at Carnegie Hall, and a series of meetings in Brooklyn. He will address two big meetings on Staten Island on Thursday. On Friday evening he will return to Brooklyn for another whirlwind tour of that borough. Two dates during the final week of the campaign, Oct. 25 and 28, will be devoted to Mr. Gaynor's home borough and to Queens.

In addition to his night meetings the candidate will address noonday rallies every week day from to-day until the end of the campaign.

"This is the last day my managers let me eat luncheon," said Mr. Bannard with a laugh yesterday. "From now on I will have to pick up a 'hot dog' on my way from one meeting to another, and try to keep alive on that."

Mr. Bannard said he found the work strenuous but satisfactory, and that he was confident that all that could be done was being done by the anti-Tammany forces that are backing him in the fight. He denied that any orders had been issued or any action taken with a view of determining whether the other Fusion candidates should or should not speak under the auspices of the Civic Alliance, which organization has indorsed them all with the exception of Mr. Bannard.

"We have decided to let that drift and to let every candidate decide for himself," said Mr. Bannard. "There are no rivalries, no jealousies between the candidates on the Fusion ticket. Every one wants to see everybody else on the ticket elected and is using his best efforts to bring about that result."

Cheering Words for Bannard.

Mr. Bannard daily is receiving many letters from business men assuring him of their support. Two of these given out yesterday were from Marcus M. Marks, President of the National Clothiers' Association, and C. U. Carpenter, President of the Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Company. Mr. Marks wrote:

> The great business of this city requires as Mayor a man of business experience, enterprising, yet conservative. You have proved by your career, in which you worked your way up from a poor boy into the position in which you are implicitly trusted and highly honored by your colleagues, that you are a man who would make an excellent representative for our citizens. I am sure you would be just, wise, and conscientious in your efforts to raise our city from its present complicated financial condition to one of clear business security. You would push the development of subways and in every way promote the best interests of the masses of our people. For that reason I shall be glad to vote for you. As more and more voters become acquainted with you and your life you will grow stronger and stronger, until on election day I hope you will be successful in your election as Mayor of New York.

Here is part of Mr. Carpenter's letter:

> With your election it would be a delight to think of how you and your administration could take this city in hand and make it the most beautiful city in the world. Your administration would have a direct and most beneficial effect upon the living conditions of every person in the city.
> Those who know you best know your tried courage, your great common sense, your determination, and your ability. With you in the Mayor's chair we business men know that this city would have the best business administration it has ever had.
> Every day but serves to bring the need of your election home to us, and I am positive that when election day comes you will find the business men of New York who have the best interests of the city at heart back of you to a man.

Congressman William S. Bennet, Mr. Bannard's campaign manager, said yesterday that an unofficial canvass made in all parts of the city showed gains for Mr. Bannard and Mr. Hearst and no gain for Mr. Gaynor.

TOWN WRECKED BY CYCLONE.

Heavy Loss of Life Feared at Goalanda, Bengal.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 18.—A cyclone has wrecked Goalanda, a town of Bengal at the junction of the main channels of the Ganges and Brahmaputra, about 150 miles from Calcutta, and has done great damage at other Eastern Bengal stations.

Many river steamers and a number of native craft have been sunk. It is feared that there has been heavy loss of life.

No details have been received here, as all telegraph lines have been destroyed.

DENOUNCES CORPORATION TAX

A Crime Against American Business Men, Says Allen Ripley Foote.

DENVER, Oct. 18.—The feature of the opening session here to-day of the convention of the American Association of Public Accountants was the address of Allen Ripley Foote of Columbus, Ohio, President of the International Tax Association.

He declared that the corporation tax which recently became a law was "a crime against American business men"; that it worked a hardship on every corporation stockholder, and that it was directly opposed to all established laws and customs of business.

BOILER EXPLODES; 7 DEAD.

Flying Brick Penetrates Wall of House and Injures Woman.

EL DORADO, Ark., Oct. 18.—Seven men were killed and three other persons injured severely when a boiler at the plant of the Griffin Sawmill Company, near El Dorado, exploded to-day.

The steam register, it is declared, failed to indicate the overpressure. The explosion, which could be heard for several miles, wrecked a large section of the plant.

Mrs. J. C. Reed, wife of the Superintendent of the mill, is one of those who were injured. She was in her home some distance from the mill when the explosion occurred. A brick penetrated the wall and struck her.

WIDOWER AND GIRL MISSING.

Mabel Slagle's Father Told Payton Had Two Wives at the Same Time.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 18.—The Greenwich police to-day went to work, it is understood, on the case of Archibald Payton, the 35-year-old Sunday School Superintendent, who is said to have left town last week with Mabel Slagle, 16 years old. The father of the girl, Charles Slagle of East Port Chester, reported the case to the police because he learned that Payton had once before gone away with a young girl and had married her, notwithstanding the fact that at the same time he had a wife and two children living in this town.

NO HOPE OF CHEAP MEAT.

Prices May Go Down, but Only for Brief Time, Packers Say.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—No hope of permanently lower prices for meat was held out by delegates to the annual convention of the American Packers' Association, the first session of which was held to-day.

Michael Ryan, President of the association, said that prices might drop slightly for a short time, as there had been some increase in the number of cattle raised recently, but this boon to American housewives would be shortlived.

"Unless many, many more cattle are raised," said Mr. Ryan, "there can be no hope of lower prices, and America may find itself an importer of meat."

POSTAL CLERK ROBBED MAILS.

Twenty-three Letters Found on Him at His Arrest.

Winslow L. Blackwood, who for thirty-seven years has been employed in the local postal service, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Shields on the charge of robbing the mails. The prisoner broke down and admitted his guilt, saying that he had been stealing letters for six months.

"It is a disease," said Blackwood. "You once begin stealing and you can't stop."

Blackwood, who is said to have stolen hundreds of letters, was suspected only recently. When he was arrested he was attending to his duties at Post Office Station V, West Broadway and Beach Street. Twenty-three unopened letters were found on his person. Some contained money. The accused, who resides at 86 Union Street, Jersey City, and is the father of six children, was held in $2,500 bail to await the action of the Federal Grand Jury. Being unable to furnish the surety Blackwood was committed to the Tombs Prison.

ROBBER ATTACKS WOMAN.

She Fights Him Off in Her Store and He Is Forced to Flee.

Mrs. Julia Miller, who has a dry goods shop at 1,521 and 1,523 Park Avenue, was assaulted there late yesterday afternoon by a tall, well-dressed man who escaped. The police are looking for him.

Mrs. Miller was behind the counter in the store waiting on several customers, when the man walked into the store. Several of the women customers made way for him, and he acknowledged their politeness with bows. He waited until all the customers but one had gone out with their purchases, when he advanced to the counter and asked Mrs. Miller for some ribbon.

The man presented a $1 bill, and Mrs. Miller stepped to the rear of the store to get change. She bent over a cash drawer to get the change when the man seized her by the throat, forced her against a shelf of goods, reaching with the other hand for the cash drawer.

The remaining customer in the store ran to the street calling for help. In the meantime Mrs. Miller had succeeded in freeing herself from the man's grasp and got hold on his neck. He broke loose just as several men reached the open street door.

When they closed in on him he bowled two of them over with his fists and made a run for the door. He ran up Park Avenue to 111th Street and disappeared under the railroad tracks.

HEARST TURNS ON BANNARD IN SPEECH

THINKS BANNARD IS WEAK

Civic Alliance Candidate Believes He Has a Chance to Win—Ivins Assails a Gaynor Injunction.

William R. Hearst turned his campaign batteries on Otto T. Bannard, the Fusion-Republican candidate for Mayor, last night. In a whirlwind tour of the northern section of the city Mr. Hearst addressed audiences which packed the three halls at which he appeared with William M. Ivins. Both were cheered to the echo.

Those who listened to Mr. Hearst decided that the Civic Alliance candidate has come to the conclusion that he has a chance of being elected. They thus construed his attack on Mr. Bannard, who until last night had been passed over lightly by Mr. Hearst. Mr. Hearst declared that Mr. Bannard was not an independent candidate—not even an anti-Tammany candidate, and that he was nominated as the weakest man who could be found.

Mr. Ivins did not reply last night to the charges made earlier in the day by Col. William N. Amory, but chose to let his answer of the afternoon stand without embellishment. He also announced that during the rest of the campaign he would not take time to reply to attacks made on him, as he was not an issue in the campaign. He said he would place himself in the position of the hunter who would rather hunt the bear than allow the bear to hunt him.

Mr. Hearst did not confine his attacks last night to Mr. Bannard by any means. He went after the Democratic candidate hammer and tongs and said many uncomplimentary things about Mr. Gaynor. He denied indignantly Mr. Gaynor's charge that he (Hearst) surrendered to Tammany Hall during the gubernatorial fight in 1906.

Was Never for Murphy.

"Mr. Murphy may have been for me, but I was not for him," he said. He said, too, that he would have been glad to have supported Gaynor had he been an independent candidate.

It was a warm greeting that was given the Civic Alliance candidate in the Harlem Casino, at 124th Street and Seventh Avenue, the first of the three halls at which Mr. Hearst and Mr. Ivins spoke. Long before the hour for the speechmaking to begin the hall was filled and the doors were closed.

Several times the crowd outside tried to force the doors, but were driven back by policemen. While Mr. Hearst was speaking, however, the clamors of those outside became so strong that the doors were opened for a moment, and they rushed pell mell into the hall and surged up the aisles to the edge of the stage. And they cheered almost everything Mr. Hearst said. They cheered Mr. Ivins, too, and sometimes interrupted him with their noise. The meeting was called to order by John J. Hopper, who, after a short speech, introduced William A. De Ford, one of Mr. Hearst's campaigners. Here is Mr. Hearst's speech:

What Mr. Hearst Said.

"My friends, in order to excuse his own complete and confessed surrender to Tammany Hall, Judge Gaynor says that when I ran for Governor of the State of New York I surrendered to Tammany Hall.

"That statement is as false as it is foolish.

"An intelligent child could tell the difference between running for Governor of the State of New York with an unsought Democratic indorsement and running for Mayor as a Tammany candidate on a Tammany ticket in happy harmony with Tammany's thugs and thieves.

"Samuel J. Tilden was a consistent foe of Tammany Hall. He ran for Governor of the State on a Democratic ticket.

"But what would we have thought of Samuel J. Tilden if he had run for Mayor of New York City on a Tammany ticket arm in arm with Tammany's rogues and rascals?

"Grover Cleveland was a consistent foe of Tammany Hall. He ran for Governor of the State on a Democratic ticket.

"Yet what would we have thought of Grover Cleveland if he had run for Mayor of New York on a Tammany ticket, and had urged the public not only to elect him, but to elect every Tammany plunderer and panderer associated with him?

Always Tammany's Foe.

"I ran for Governor of New York State as much a foe of Tammany Hall as I had run for Mayor a foe of Tammany the year before.

"I said publicly and defiantly, 'Murphy may be for me, but I am not for Murphy.'

"I said it before the nomination, I said it after the nomination, and I said it time and again throughout the whole campaign.

"I am not willing to attack McCarren now, as he lies helpless upon his sick bed, but there was nothing the matter with McCarren's health when I ran for Governor in 1906.

"He was perfectly well then, and at the height of his power then, and his resentment meant my defeat, and yet I went into his own district then and denounced him and defied him to his teeth.

"When Judge Gaynor has done as much let him talk of my surrender.

"Furthermore, my friends, when Tammany attempted to nominate a notably unfit candidate for the Supreme Court, I made them take him down and name Judge Goff in his place.

"Was that surrender?

"And then when they sought to nominate another unfit candidate for the Supreme Court I made them take him down and nominate Judge Dayton in his place.

"Was that surrender?

"Then, when they essayed to nominate a third unfit candidate for the Supreme Court, I made them take him down and nominate Judge Guy in his place.

"All excellent and honorable men.

"Then, when Tammany proposed to nominate McAvoy for Judge of General Sessions, I sent them word that I would not allow him to be elected.

Tells of Defying Murphy.

"They sent back word that they were tired of my 'dictation,' and they would nominate whom they pleased.

"So I went over to the Republican Party as to that place on the ticket and nominated Judge Rosalsky and elected Judge Rosalsky in spite of Tammany Hall.

"I never did a better deed, nor one that I am prouder of.

"Murphy shouted money, for Murphy is like Gaynor and cannot conceive of any one doing a creditable deed without being paid for it.

"But Judge Rosalsky haled Murphy before the Grand Jury and made him retract and apologize.

"Was that surrender?

"I was asked to speak at Tammany Hall and I declined.

"I was asked to speak at a Democratic mass meeting at Madison Square Garden, and I said, 'Not if Tammany is concerned, nor if Murphy sits upon the platform.'

"So the Democrats gave up the meeting and the Independence League held it.

"Of course, I lost the election. I came down from up the State to the Harlem River, leading my ticket by 17,000 votes. My ticket was elected, but I was slaughtered here in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

"Why?

"Because I had not surrendered to Tammany Hall.

His Challenge to Gaynor.

"Why did not Judge Gaynor do as I did? Why did not Judge Gaynor denounce Murphy and McCarren? He had plenty of time to do it before McCarren got sick. Why did he not compel the withdrawal at least of the unspeakable Judge Roesch? If necessary, why did he not go, as I did, into another party for a proper man?

"I can answer all in twenty words.

"Because I would rather be honest than be elected, and Judge Gaynor would rather be elected than be honest.

"I would have been glad to support Judge Gaynor as an honest independent candidate, but he is not an honest independent candidate. He has refused to be an independent candidate. He has become an out-and-out avowed machine candidate.

"He bends his neck like a submissive ox to the Tammany yoke, and strains side by side with Judge Roesch to drag home the whole disreputable Tammany load.

"Now, my friends, I have gotten into this fight to defeat both Gaynor and his Tammany machine and Bannard and his Woodruff machine.

"I do not want Mr. Bannard, in the heat and excitement of the campaign, to forget that he is just as much of a machine candidate as Judge Gaynor is.

"He may not be the candidate of the same machine, but he is the candidate of the same kind of machine.

"I, for one, cannot see the difference in blackness between the Tammany kettle and the Woodruff pot.

How Bannard Was Chosen.

"Mr. Bannard was not nominated at the Fusion conference. The Fusion conference had broken up.

"He was not even nominated at the Republic Convention. That had not yet been held.

"He was appointed and anointed the candidate of the Noble Order of Woodruffians, and created a knight of the checkered waistcoat at Jack's in the early hours of a September morning.

"He was nominated by Woodruff.

"And everybody knows that Jack's is a kind of a Wood-rough house in the Tenderloin.

"Next day the Republican Convention was let into the secret.

"That was all the Republican Convention had to do with the nomination.

"Now, Mr. Bannard is not only an independent candidate, but he is not even an anti-Tammany candidate.

"If Mr. Parsons's statement of the deal between Cannon and the Republican machine with Murphy and the Tammany machine can be believed, Mr. Bannard was nominated not to defeat Tammany, but to elect Tammany.

"He was nominated by Woodruff as the weakest man who could be found, and everything that Mr. Bannard has done since the nomination has gone far to sustain Mr. Woodruff's excellent judgment.

"Fat Fryer in Ordinary."

"Mr. Bannard was the campaign collector of the Republican Party, the professional fat fryer in ordinary to the Republican machine.

"He was the man who told the trusts what they ought to give before election and what they were going to get after election.

"If Mr. Bannard is elected, Mr. Woodruff's pet trusts will get the city, and if Judge Gaynor is elected, the Tammany pet thieves will get the city.

"I am in this contest to try to see that neither calamity occurs. You know that I was out of politics and that I did not want to get back into politics.

"I got back into the political maelstrom not merely because the Independence Party asked me, nor yet because certain estimable gentlemen whose opinion I greatly respect asked me. I got into this struggle because I felt deep down in my own soul that I had to do so.

"We independents had fought long and hard for our American right to a free choice, a fair ballot, and an honest count.

"I saw all that we had fought for being swept away.

"I saw the thieves and thugs at the primaries again. I saw the riots, the murders, the indictments, the arrests. I saw floaters and repeaters thronging in from Pennsylvania and New Jersey and crowding the lodging houses in the Bowery.

Why Hearst Entered the Fight.

"I saw the two machines united as they had been four years ago.

"I saw them working together to let the looters in and shut the people out. I saw the barriers we had erected breaking down and the public enemies we had routed reforming for a final attack.

"I had fought my battles.

"I had earned the right to retire, a veteran of the war. But when I saw these things I determined to take down my sword from the wall and make one more fight for our principles and our liberties.

"Now that I am in the fight I am in it not merely to run, but to win.

"I have come to the conclusion that it is just as necessary for an honest Board of Estimate to have an independent Mayor as it is for any Mayor to have an honest Board of Estimate.

"I am not anxious to be Mayor, but if I am elected I will accept my responsibilities and serve my term at hard labor.

"Judge Gaynor says that I did not work in Congress.

"That is not true.

"I did not talk as much as Judge Gaynor nor vote as often as some of Judge Gaynor's repeaters, but I thought and worked hard and introduced many bills which have become the basis of the Republican Party's progressive programme.

"Judge Gaynor says that I have an enormous amount of money and that I spend it improperly.

Where His Money Goes.

"I have a moderate amount of money, and I spend some of it selfishly upon myself and some of it unselfishly for the people.

"I may buy myself and family an occasional automobile, but I would rather do that than ride around in Mr. Ryan's automobile.

"I may even have bought myself a straw hat with a blue ribbon, but I did not call humbly on Judge Gaynor with my straw hat in my hand begging for a nomination and then furiously abuse him because he did not give it to me.

"I have spent some of my money on automobiles and hats, but I have spent some, too, in giving good wages to my own employes and getting good wages for the employes of others.

"I have spent some in securing shorter hours for working men and in subscribing to support the legitimate demands of working men.

"I have spent many thousands of dollars in fighting the Oil Trust for the people. I have spent many thousands of dollars fighting the Coal Trust for the people, and many thousands in fighting the Ice Trust for the people, and many thousands in fighting the Beef Trust for the people, and many thousands in fighting the Gas Trust and getting 80-cent gas for the people.

"And all the time I have been fighting every extortionate trust, Judge Gaynor has been getting rich as executor of the Baking Powder Trust.

"That is my trust record, and that is Judge Gaynor's trust record.

Calls Gaynor's Talk Cheap.

"Talk is cheap. Judge Gaynor's talk is even more than cheap. It is as Mr. Roosevelt says: 'Words are good when backed by deeds, and only so.'

"I am not willing to enter into a windy contest of empty words with Judge Gaynor and Mr. Bannard, but I am willing and eager to stand the real test.

"I am willing to lay my record of achievement alongside of the record of Judge Gaynor and of Mr. Bannard before the people of this city, and cheerfully and confidently abide by the result."

Mr. Ivins had arrived early, but waited until after Mr. Hearst spoke before addressing the audience. Mr. Ivins said that he had come to the hall with the idea of pointing out to the voters some of Mr. Hearst's accomplishments, but that it had already been done more thoroughly than he could do it. He said he had been looking around town for a man who is not a Tammany man, and who would vote for Gaynor. He has yet to find that man, he said. Even in the barbers' shops his search was not rewarded.

Believes Hearst Was Elected.

"Four years ago I ran against Mr. Hearst," said Mr. Ivins. "I did not know him as well then as I do now, but I was convinced on the night of election that Mr. Hearst was elected Mayor of New York City." A storm of applause greeted this. "It is true that he was cheated out of office. There is no better reason in the world why Mr. Hearst should be elected Mayor of this city at this time than the fact that he was elected four years ago and that your suffrage was nullified, not in the count, be it said, so much as in the use or the misuse of the election machinery which was controlled by Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Murphy and their friends."

Mr. Ivins said that he was not going to let Mr. Gaynor draw him into a controversy.

"What I have been looking for from him," he said, "has been some word which will indicate that he has some intelligent view of the city and its requirements. And in all his speeches I have found no such word. I have heard him talk about the necessity for ballot reform in which he had no part. I have heard him retail the story of the Traction Trust to which, not he, but I, put an end. He said we are defaming the good name of New York. Why? Because we are telling the truth about Tammany Hall, because we are tearing down the veil from the face of this talkative Judge.

"Who, more than he, has ever defamed the city, and from what point of vantage has he defamed it? He, a Judge from the bench, has constantly defamed the city and its good name when the good name of the city was not an issue but when it suited his political purposes to make the denunciations fro mthe bench."

Mr. Ivins produced some clippings and proceeded to read what he said were illustrations of what he had just said. He said that in the case of one Rufus Terry as plaintiff against Patrick H. Glosson, Justice Gaynor said from the bench:

Quotes Gaynor Against the City.

> The facts pleaded present a scandalous case of official dishonor, corruption, and berayal of trust, and the denials presented impair them very little if at all. Such official betrayals of public interest have become so common——

"What do you think of that for judicial dignity or discretion?" asked Mr. Ivins. "He had only been asked to pass on one specific question."

Mr. Ivins proceeded to read other utterances from the former Justice.

"And this is the man who denounces those who attack Tammany Hall for the misdeeds during the last six years of Tammany Government," said the speaker. "This from the man who has been willing to deal with one of Mr. Hearst's employes, who is receiving $50 a day for his alleged services as condemnation Commissioner in the new aqueduct matter."

Mr. Ivins asked the crowd what Mr. Gaynor had ever done.

"You have heard what Mr. Hearst has done, and I answer you that Judge Gaynor has done nothing except that which makes against the welfare of the community in respect to the maintenance of law and order," he continued.

Mr. Ivins said he spoke a few nights ago about Mr. Gaynor's alleged connection with the race track gamblers, and that he had a few other instances to relate.

Gaynor and the "Red Light" Cases.

"Some few years ago there was great excitement in the town because of what was known as the community between the politicians and those who kept so-called red-light places on the lower east side," said Mr. Ivins. "After the police had closed up some 120 of these places, an application was made to Judge Gaynor to restrain a police officer from standing in front of one of them, and warning those who came as to the character of the place. This place was kept by the most notorious woman in New York, Rosie Hertz. It was at Third Street and the Bowery, and was known as the Dry Dock Hotel.

"The application was made to Judge Gaynor to enjoin the policeman from doing his duty. The Judge publicly announced from the bench, with all the simplicity he pretends to have, that it would be necessary for the court itself to visit the place to know what it was like. Now Rosie, though corrupt, was never helpless, and she had stood out because her connections were right while other places were closed.

"She saw to it that when this infantile Judge called the place should be in proper order, and the Judge came and saw nothing. Some days after he made his injunction permanent. He backed his action with the old theory that every man's house is his castle, every house of vice is also the castle and the refuge of the person who keeps it. He did that in the name of personal liberty and against law and order."

Mr. Ivins went on to talk about the police aspect of this proceeding. He said that not being born yesterday they knew enough to get the right kind of evidence, and it happened, he said, that the evidence which caused the conviction of the hotel clerk for keeping a disorderly resort was obtained on the very night Mr. Gaynor was there. "The permanency of the Rosie Hertz injunction terminated when she herself was indicted and convicted a few months later," he continued. "There are plenty of cases of this kind, but I can't take any more time going over them."

Ivins to Ignore All Attacks.

Mr. Ivins took up Mr. Gaynor's issue taken with him on his veracity.

"Judge Gaynor," he said, "may say, if he pleases, that I am a prevaricator or that he has not time to answer. The real issues of this campaign are Mr. Bannard, Mr. Hearst, and Mr. Gaynor. They are directing their attacks, however, at me. I want to say now at the beginning of the campaign that I will pay no attention to the attacks on me, and I shall keep to the offensive side."

Mr. Ivins passed on to the subject of personal qualifications for the office of Mayor.

"Mr. Gaynor," he said, "is as thoroughly disqualified by training, habit, and temperament as it is possible for any man to be disqualified for an executive office. Mr. Hearst is qualified, not only because he understands the problems, but because he is one of the greatest executives in the United States to-day. He is in the prime of life, he has all his courage, not only in his heart, but in his hand. He temporizes with nothing and with no one, and I, who fought him four years ago and believed him to have been elected then, say that he should be elected now because he was elected then."

Mr. Ivins left the hall and went on to Washington Hall, at 165th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, and to Crotona Casino, at 775 East 169th Street, in the Bronx, where he had been preceded by Mr. Hearst. Both of them spoke at these halls to enthusiastic audiences.

Whitman's Tribute to Hearst.

Charles S. Whitman, the Republican-Fusion candidate for District Attorney, also received a hearty welcome at the Harlem Casino, as well as at the other two meeting places. At Harlem Casino he said:

"No man could have been present here to-night and could have seen the reception which was tendered the speaker who was speaking when I came in (Mr. Hearst) could doubt for a moment the depth and sincerity of conviction of his supporters for the man who is your choice for Mayor of New York.

"I realize to-night as I have never realized before how great a wrong was attempted in this city, how foul a crime they tried to perpetrate against you—how mean and contemptible and unspeakable was the conspiracy on the part of the men that have been capable of descending to almost any depths politically to prevent your voting in a column of your own, under a name of your own, and under the emblem which you had made your own."

Great applause greeted this. Mr. Whitman said that while he did not belong to the political party represented by most of the men present, he fully understood and appreciated the courage and honesty and sincerity of their convictions. He said that the office of District Attorney is a law office, and that if he should be elected he pledged himself to keep it nothing less than a law office.

"I believe in non-partisan campaigns," he said, "and that is why I am here to-night."

So great was the crowd from the Tremont section that turned out to hear Mr. Hearst and the other speakers that Crotona Casino could not accommodate them all. An overflow meeting was held in the street near the hall, and while Mr. Hearst, Clarence J. Shearn, and Cyrus C. Miller, Fusion candidate for Borough President of the Bronx, were talking to the crowd in the Casino, local speakers talked to those outside.

SAY HEARST WILL RUN WELL.

Upper East Side Canvass Indicates That He Will Have Strength.

A canvass of the upper east side, where Hearst ran strongly four years ago, was reported yesterday to Mayor McClellan. It started the prognosticators to predicting dire things for the Tammany county and borough tickets.

The canvass revealed the fact that at least half the men who voted for Hearst in 1905 intend to do so again this year. These ordinarily vote the Democratic ticket.

The prognosticators believe few of the men who vote for Hearst will at the same time vote the rest of the Tammany ticket. They say the ballots cast for Hearst will be straight, thus adding just so much to the regular Republican vote. Mr. Hearst polled 224,000 votes in 1905. Mr. Ivins polled 137,000. The Republican leaders say that Bannard's vote this year will go far beyond the Ivins figures. If this happens, and Mr. Hearst polls 100,000 votes or over, the Tammany county and borough tickets will undoubtedly be defeated.

The Tammany leaders have not lost confidence, however. Hearst carried Brooklyn in 1905 by 16,000. They say that Gaynor will win across the bridge this year by 50,000.

GAYNOR REPLIES TO HEARST.

Tammany Candidate Says Editor Should Be Ashamed of Himself.

Ex-Justice Gaynor talked contemptuously yesterday of the latest statements concerning him made by William R. Hearst. These were to the effect that Mr. Gaynor was Thomas F. Ryan's candidate for Mayor, that Mr. Ryan's automobile would meet him when he returned from the country, and that Mr. Gaynor was "carrying" the name of Rudolph Block on a padded city payroll. Mr. Gaynor said:

"So Hearst says that I am Ryan's candidate, does he? Well, if he can convince any one of that I will be satisfied. I cannot stop in this campaign to try to make men truthful whose long-settled habit is the other way. If I were the candidate of the people who looted the street railways of Manhattan and threw them into bankruptcy, and left them there, having first sold out their stock at high figures to honest people, I would not be in need of money in this campaign to run.

"Think of this man intimating, but being afraid to say, that every time I return from the country Mr. Ryan's automobile meets me at the station. He ought to be ashamed of himself as well as of the statement. He also insinuates that I am carrying Mr. Block on 'a padded city payroll.' Judge Mills, or some other Judge up in the Ninth District, appointed him one of three Commissioners to condemn some land.

"I do not think the newspapers should come to me to refute false statements. I don't expect to correct the acquired habit of making false statements and insinuations which some people have."

STOP THE GRAFT, IS BANNARD'S CRY

Fusion Candidate Enthusiastically Welcomed at Two Uptown Mass Meetings.

TELLS WHAT THE CITY NEEDS

Says Millions Can Be Saved by Stopping Waste and Theft in Purchasing Supplies.

Otto T. Bannard, the Fusion candidate for Mayor, began his second week's campaign last night. In the course of the night he made two speeches and on both occasions was enthusiastically received by audiences that packed the Star Casino, at Lexington Avenue and 107th Street, and Loth Hall, at 154th Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

Job E. Hedges was with the candidate, and in his speech at Loth Hall Mr. Bannard said that Mr. Hedges had consented to travel with him indefinitely. He had been so extensively advertised as a poor speaker, Mr. Bannard explained, that he had asked Mr. Hedges to "star" with him in order to prove how true the accusation was by comparison. After the candidate had made his first speech Mr. Hedges got up and said that he could be expected to retire by to-morrow night if Mr. Bannard continued to make such speeches as the ones of last night.

The first speech of the night was at Loth Hall. There he found a big audience, many of them women. The candidate was cheered a full minute before he was allowed to begin his speech.

"I am a candidate for Mayor because a good many people think the City Hall needs a business man," said Mr. Bannard. "I am a business man with ten years of legal training and some knowledge of how city bonds should be sold. The issue is Tammany graft and waste. You are going to overthrow Tammany Hall on Nov. 2 by electing an anti-Tammany Board of Estimate. They vote the contracts and appropriations and will stop the wholesale plunder. How large a majority the ticket will receive is just a detail. Vote it straight.

"There are three candidates for Mayor. Neither one of them will steal. They are all in favor of subways. If either candidate claims that he has a mortgage, or even a mechanic's lien, on that issue, there is no truth in him, and you can safely scratch him off the list, and then there will be only two.

The City's Business.

"I want to make the city's business your business and to put men in office who will see that there are three feet in every yard and sixteen ounces in every pound—outside of a drug store.

"Your business in the next two weeks is to pick out a man for Mayor for four years to reorganize the departments of the City Government; to get on the job from top to bottom and find out which man is earning his pay and which man is asleep at the switch, or riding for nothing; to find out what they buy and what they pay for it and why; to introduce good methods, good manners, and good business morals, and this is just by way of organization. When your Mayor gets a staff and working force that is honest and efficient he has just begun.

"A business man will go through each department and inventory its property, dispose of what is useless, put in service what is idle, stop waste, and collect incomes.

"They say there are seventy-six purchasing agents of supplies in the city government. What would a railroad man think of that? Fifty-eight different kinds of soap bought at fifty-three different prices—and still Tammany Hall is not clean. Straw costs $21 a ton more in one borough than in another and hay $16. Think of the saving of a concentration of purchases in a few hands by careful buyers and by standardizing the articles required by an honest inspection.

"Each year the city pays about $80,000,000 in wages and about $16,000,000 for supplies. Trust a business man to save something out of that for schools and hospitals, and playgrounds for the children. Tammany Hall doesn't care for the children, because they can't vote.

"I ask you to take me for your Mayor. If you want me, let me know at the polling places on Nov. 2, and I will take off my coat at the City Hall on Jan. 1, and hang it on one of those brass hooks that Candidate Mitchel tells about which you and I can buy for 15 cents, and which costs the city $1.65."

Speech by Job Hedges.

Mr. Bannard's fellow traveler, Mr. Hedges, spoke next.

"This is probably the last time," said Mr. Hedges, "that I shall appear with Mr. Bannard; he doesn't need me. This gag about Bannard not being a speaker can't be worked on me after that speech. I don't care for these contracts, so called.

"I would like to ask Judge Gaynor, or rather some neighbor of his to whom are referred most of his opinions—possibly the one on the diagonal side of the street—if Judge Gaynor will announce, if elected, that he will not receive at the City Hall any leader in whose district a fraudulent vote was cast.

"I would like to ask that neighbor if Judge Gaynor will repudiate any member of his party who conspires at a prostitution of the election. Of course, he doesn't know that Tammany Hall and the Democratic Party are divergent propositions. He thinks he was nominated by the Democratic Party, but he was not."

The meeting in the Star Casino was just as big and enthusiastic as the Loth Hall gathering. There Mr. Bannard and Mr. Hedges made speeches along the same lines as those in Loth Hall.

Charles S. Whitman, candidate for District Attorney, and George McAneney, candidate for President of the Borough of Manhattan, also spoke at this meeting.

WOMEN COMMEND BANNARD.

Anti-Suffragists Find Encouragement In His Veiws on Voting.

Owing to the recent demands made upon the Fusion and Democratic nominees for Mayor to declare their attitude on the woman's suffrage question, the National League for the Civic Education of Women, the woman's organization formed to oppose the suffrage movement, sent to Mr. Bannard and Mr. Gaynor yesterday a statement of their attitude and their conviction that "the majority of women in New York City and State are not asking for, nor do they desire, the franchise."

The letter to Mr. Bannard said:

> Your attitude as regards the woman suffrage question was a matter of great interest and encouragement to us in our work, and it is a great pleasure to us to know that you are among the many prominent and distinguished citizens who believe it inexpedient to grant women the franchise.

As Mr. Gaynor did not commit himself outright on the question, this clause was omitted in the letter to him. Mr. Hearst, being openly in favor of the suffragist cause, received no statement.

Mrs. Julian Heath, Secretary of the organization, said that, aside from the desire to call the attention of the candidates to the general unpopularity of the suffragist cause, her organization has no intention of taking any action in the present political campaign.

YESTERDAY IN POLITICS.

Gov. Hughes indicated that he would make no speeches in support of the Fusion ticket, disappointing both Fusion leaders and candidates.

Tammany rushed to the defense of Mr. Gaynor against Mr. Hearst, denying that his nomination was brought about by Ryan influences, and quoting from Mr. Hearst's own newspapers to show that the sudden rise in Interborough stocks following Gaynor's nomination was brought about by natural causes.

Otto T. Bannard addressed two large meetings at the Star Casino, on the East Side, and at Loth Hall, in the Washington Heights section. At each place he got an ovation from a large audience.

William R. Hearst addressed four meetings in Harlem and the Bronx, William M. Ivins speaking at two of the meetings. Both were warmly greeted. For the first time in this campaign Mr. Hearst sharply attacked Mr. Bannard. Mr. Ivins returned to his attack on William J. Gaynor.

William J. Gaynor, speaking at a noonday meeting in the business district, attacked William R. Hearst, ex-Police Commissioner Bingham, and the press. He was warmly applauded by a large audience.

A canvass made by a Tammany worker on the upper East Side indicates that Mr. Hearst will hold at least 50 per cent. of his vote four years ago in that section.

Senator McCarren was so far improved yesterday that he could attend to some slight business matters at the St. Catherine Hospital, in Brooklyn. His physician indicated that the leader is not yet out of danger.

QUOTES AMERICAN TO DISPROVE HEARST

Tammany Cites Editor on Rise in Inter-Met. After Gaynor's Nomination.

DUE TO FULTON FETES

"Awful, Terrible," Says Murphy When Told of Hearst's Charge That Gaynor Rode in Ryan Auto.

Tammany entered the arena yesterday for the defense of the head of its ticket, and in one of the few official statements which the organization issues in a campaign, replied to Mr. Hearst's charge that Judge Gaynor is the candidate of the "Traction Trust" and that the "Ryan-Belmont securities" rose in response to his nomination.

Under the title "Hearst Brands Himself a Liar" the organization quotes from the market reports of The American to show that natural causes were responsible for the rise in "Inter-Met" which accompanied the nomination of Judge Gaynor. The statement says:

"Out of his own mouth William Randolph Hearst to-day presented proof of his recklessness, utter disregard for truth, and thorough unfitness for even the smallest office in the gift of the people. In to-day's American the leading article on the first column of the first page is a personal statement given out by Hearst himself with the caption 'Ryan's Stocks Rose on Heels of Gaynor Nomination.' The statement is an attack upon Judge Gaynor as an attempted answer to the charge that Hearst himself had been in a combination with Mr. Rockefeller and other Standard Oil millionaires. In the course of his statement Hearst says the following:

"'Everybody knows now that Murphy nominated Judge Gaynor not because he wanted Gaynor, but because Ryan wanted Gaynor. And every business man on Wall Street knows that the day after Judge Gaynor was nominated Interborough Traction stock jumped immediately upward.'

"Here is where Hearst dug another shovel of earth for his own political grave. As a newspaper man he knows that the most powerful weapon of a newspaper is the 'deadly parallel.' On Page 12 of the issue of The American on Oct. 2, on the first column, appears the leading financial article of The American, written by Mr. Thomas C. Shotwell, the Wall Street editorial writer of Hearst's paper. In order to brand Hearst as a liar, whether he wishes it or not, the following excerpt from Mr. Shotwell's article in Hearst's own paper, will serve as a branding iron:

"'Heavy business done by the Interborough-Metropolitan lines since the Hudson-Fulton Celebration began has at last caused an advance in the stock of the company. The common advanced more than a point and the preferred more than 2 points yesterday. Brooklyn Rapid Transit also advanced. The last named is in strong position, and insiders are talking big figures for it. The Interborough-Metropolitan bonds are becoming a safe investment with such large earnings by the Subway, and they improved yesterday also to the extent of more than a point.'

"Hearst, by his utterances, is now confirming the verdict of the voters of New York City expressed at the last Mayoralty and later at the Gubernatorial election that he is a dangerous and untrustworthy man in public life, and that his election to any position would result in chaos, confusion, or even worse.

"This year Tammany Hall has accepted no contributions from corporate interests, Ryan's, or any other. Hearst knows this, yet he lies about it. All the corporate interests this year are either with Hearst or Bannard, the twin heads of a double-headed ticket."

Leader Murphy would not discuss the matter personally. When told of Mr. Hearst's charges his only reply was:

"Is that so? Well, it is the first time I have heard of Judge Gaynor's being Mr. Ryan's candidate. However, I would rather see stocks go up than down."

"Mr. Hearst also says that the Judge rides in Mr. Ryan's automobile," he was told.

"Is that so?" he fairly gasped. "Awful! Terrible! Is that all they have against him?"

Then he dismissed the subject. He reiterated his prediction that Judge Gaynor would carry all the five boroughs of the city. It was pointed out that Hearst carried Kings and Queens in 1905.

"Yes, I remember," he replied, "but that was four years ago."

Mr. Murphy declared that he has not yet made any canvasses, but that the reports from all the Assembly districts will be in on the Saturday before election as usual.

A copy of the appeal for the sinews of war that is being sent out by the Tammany Campaign Committee fell into the hands of a reporter yesterday. It says in part:

"Our opponents are exhibiting as never before their resolute purpose to make of our beloved city 'a base of supplies' for future Republican campaigns, and on every hand may be seen the lavish expenditure of money toward the attainment of this end.

AMORY SAYS IVINS WORKED WITH RYAN

Charges That He Was Bent on Suppression of Facts in Traction Investigation.

SHARP RETORT FROM IVINS

He Reflects on Amory's Responsibility and Declares There Are Inconsistencies in His Affidavit.

An addition was made yesterday to the sensations of the present campaign concerning the political influence of the so-called "Traction Trust" by the outbreak of a heated controversy between William M. Ivins and William N. Amory of Third Avenue Railroad fame.

Mr. Amory started the trouble by making an affidavit before a notary in which he declared that he is convinced Mr. Ivins deliberately protected Thomas F. Ryan in the traction investigation in which he was the special counsel of the Public Service Commission, and that at one time he was under a $50,000 retainer from the "Ryan Rubber Trust Corporation."

Mr. Ivins replied by stating that the affidavit "is unworthy of attention," and that it is "full of misstatements," and expressing doubt as to Amory's "responsibility."

In his affidavit Mr. Amory says in part:

> Mr. Ivins told me that he was under a retainer of $50,000 a year by the Ryan Rubber Trust Corporation. Some time later he told me that the said retainer had been cut off. He developed great zeal in his work against Ryan and was apparently inspired by a consuming desire to get square.
> About this time Mr. Ivins became financially embarrassed and he told me that he was without funds. He told me that he had to sell his personal jewelry on one or two occasions in order to live. This financial distress happened after he lost his retainer from the Ryan Rubber Trust Corporation and continued until about July 23, 1907. Early in August, 1907, I noticed a change in Mr. Ivins's financial condition. He had plenty of money. About this time he was appointed counsel to the Public Service Commission, but he did not receive one dollar from that source until Nov. 13. In this connection I will add that Ivins was paid by the commission for shielding Ryan in the Public Service investigation the sum of $20,000. But he was in affluent circumstances several months before he got that money.
> I was brought to Mr. Marvin Scudder, who had been appointed the official accountant of the Public Service Commission, and he requested Mr. Scudder to work with me and get from me all the data and details of the management of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company.
> From that time on, at the direct request of Mr. Ivins, I was with Mr. Scudder, working with him, aiding him with the knowledge I had spent years in accumulating, so that Ivins might lay before the Public Service Commission palpable proof of the dishonest and illegal acts of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company's management.
> On Aug. 15 I called on Mr. Scudder, as was my daily custom, and Mr. Scudder told me that he had met Mr. Paul D. Cravath, chief counsel of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, who appeared with Mr. De Lancey Nicoll as counsel for said corporation before the Public Service Commission, and that the said Cravath had advised him (Scudder) to have nothing to do with me. Later in the day Mr. Scudder called at my office, 27 William Street, and told me that he had come direct from Mr. Ivins's office.
> I was astounded at this. Here I was doing all in my power to help Ivins get information against the street railway looters that would send them to jail, and now he was blocking me in my work.
> The hearings of the Public Service Commission began on Aug. 1, 1907. Anthony N. Brady was called on Oct. 8, 1907, and disclosed the iniquitous Wall and Cortlandt Street Ferries deal. Mr. Brady was stopped by Mr. Ivins at a time when the public expected to get positive information which would lead to the indictment of Ryan and his associates.
> I am convinced Mr. Ivins at that time had an understanding with Ryan or his representatives for the deliberate suppression of these facts, and he promptly passed from the investigation of the Wall and Cortlandt Street Ferries and the People's Traction deal and diverted the attention of the public from Ryan's case by taking up the investigation of Anthony N. Brady's Brooklyn Rapid Transit properties.

In the statement which he issued on being shown the affidavit Mr. Ivins declared:

"Mr. Amory is now suing me for services claimed to have been rendered by him to me for two years prior to the investigation rendered by the Public Service Commission. He brought this action after I declined to take any part in securing his retainer as an accountant by the commission.

"The affidavit is so full of misstatements that it is impossible for me to take them up in detail, even though they were of interest to any one. If it were of interest I could refute the major part of it by Amory's own letters. I am sorry for him, for he could not take such an oath as he has if he were really responsible. The one thing which I notice in it that is really of importance is this: He says, under oath, be it remembered, 'I am convinced Mr. Ivins, at that time, had an understanding with Ryan or his representatives for the deliberate suppression of these facts.' Note first that Mr. Amory is swearing not to a fact but to a conviction. Read the rest of his affidavit and decide for yourself what you think his conviction is worth.

"One of the reporters states that it is understood that counselship for the United States Rubber Company was counselship for Mr. Ryan. It is true that I have been, in the past, counsel for the United States Rubber Company, but that was many years ago. When I became a candidate for Mayor in 1905 I was an officer of the General Rubber Company. Mr. Ryan was in no way, directly or indirectly, interested in the company, but on the other hand was deeply interested in an opposition concern, and I was fighting Mr. Ryan and all of his rubber interests as hard as I knew how."

CITY COW IS A CALF.

Brooklyn Chamber of Horrors Didn't Have Time to Get Large Figure.

Brooklynites were startled yesterday upon attending the opening of the local branch of the Committee of One Hundred's "chamber of horrors," at 180 Montague Street, to find that the "City Cow" apparently had shrunk to the proportions of a mere calf. Inquiry as to this brought forth the information that as the work of building a "cow" for the Brooklyn exhibit had not been completed a figure of a calf, bought in a toy store, had been substituted temporarily. The calf adorned one of the show windows of the place. In the other window was a representation of Gaynor leading by a string the Tammany Tiger across the Brooklyn Bridge. With this exhibit was a card bearing these words:

"I say unto you the hour has struck."

Within the "chamber of horrors" a figure of a tiger is shown and the beast is supposed to be singing to an audience of "simple voters":

"Love me and the city is mine."

REGISTRATION CASE IN COURT.

Steamship Man Demands That His Name Be Put on the Lists.

H. H. Raymond, Vice President, Manager, and Director of the Mallory Steamship Company and the Clyde Steamship Company, as well as a Director of the New York & Cuba Mail Steamship Company and the New York & Porto Rico Steamship Company, and who lives at the Belnord, Eighty-seventh Street and Broadway, appeared through his counsel, Charles W. Coleman, before Supreme Court Justice Truax yesterday and applied for a writ compelling the Registration Board to add his name to the lists.

Mr. Raymond said that on Monday night, Oct. 11, at 9:55 o'clock, he was peremptorily refused the right to register by Inspectors of Registration at Eighty-seventh Street and Amsterdam Avenue. It is understood that the Registration Board contends that Raymond did not attempt to register until 10:05.

Justice Truax allowed a day's adjournment in order that the Corporation Counsel's office might examine the papers.

Owing to a series of troubles with his motor, the Count de Lambert could not get his biplane ready for the flight before Louis Blériot in his monoplane had flown across the Channel. A couple of days after the winning of the prize by Blériot a more serious mishap to the driving power of his machine forced Count de Lambert to announce that he would not try to duplicate the flights of his rival, and the flying machine was taken apart.

At Rheims during the recent flights the Count de Lambert made several successful flights.

WRIGHT PUPILS RUN AIRSHIP.

Lieuts. Lahm and Humphreys Take the Helm at College Park.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 18.—In six training flights at the Government Aviation School, under the direction of Wilbur Wright, Lieuts. Lahm and Humphreys demonstrated to-day their ability to handle the Government's aeroplane, purchased from the Wright brothers last Summer. Each officer accompanied Mr. Wright on three flights.

Before the sun rose the aeroplane was rolled from its shed, and in practically a dead calm Mr. Wright and Lieut. Humphreys made a flight of over eleven minutes' duration. The second flight, with Lieut. Lahm in the pupil's seat, was the longest that has been made at the Signal Corps aerodrome, lasting for eighteen minutes and thirty-seven seconds. In both flights Mr. Wright permitted the pupil at times to operate the machine unaided.

The third flight was made in a slight breeze, Lieut. Humphreys again accompanying Mr. Wright. The machine was in the air for over ten minutes. Mr. Wright, accompanied by Lieut. Lahm, then flew for eleven minutes and thirty-four seconds. While the machine was encircling the field it was pitched and tossed by a ten-mile wind.

In the evening Mr. Wright was accompanied on the first flight by Lieut. Humphreys, who handled the machine unaided through most of the nine minutes and thirty-seven seconds that the aeroplane was kept aloft.

On the last flight of the day Mr. Wright had Lieut. Lahm with him for more than eight minutes. As the machine sped around the field Mr. Wright could be seen to take his hands off the levers and allow his pupil to guide the craft. He held himself in readiness to take hold at any moment, and when a sudden gust of wind of unusual force struck the machine the instructor grabbed the levers and brought the machine back on an even keel.

While flying about the aerodrome with Lieut. Lahm and Mr. Wright the aeroplane came abreast of a swiftly moving express train. So close was the machine of the air to its rival on the earth that it appeared to be right above it. The disturbance of the air created by the speed of the train seemed to affect the aeroplane, which swept down dangerously close to the earth. As the wind caught it and aided it onward it seemed to gain upon the train.

SEVERAL HURT AT JUVISY.

Blanc Falls Among Crowd in Bleriot Machine—Woman Will Die.

JUVISY, France, Oct. 18.—A few minutes before Count de Lambert returned to the aviation field here from his flight to Paris, M. Blanc, the French aeronaut, attempted his first flight in a Blériot machine. Shortly after ascending, the monoplane, as the result of a false shift of the rudder, turned into the tribune and fell, mortally wounding a woman and injuring a dozen other persons.

CAPSIZES IN WRIGHT MACHINE.

Keidel Wrecks Aeroplane, but Is Not Seriously Hurt.

POTSDAM, Oct. 18.—Machinist Keidel undertook a trial flight in a Wright machine at Bornsted Commons to-day and capsized when at a height of thirty feet. The machine was badly broken, but Keidel was not seriously injured.

FARMAN LEADS AT BLACKPOOL.

Covers 17½ Miles in 23 Minutes—Leblon Wins at Doncaster.

BLACKPOOL, England, Oct. 18.—The aviation meet here, which conflicts with that at Doncaster, opened to-day.

At the close of to-day's flights Farman led in the speed contest, having covered 17½ miles in 23 minutes. Rougier had to his credit the longest flight, 22½ miles in 32 minutes. Both contests are open until the end of the week.

The French aviators, Farman, Paulhan, Rougier, and Leblanc, are here, while Latham, Fournier, and Fernandez are on their way. The rush of English competitors has surprised every one, as it was not realized that so many were prepared to attempt flights. Fourteen entrants were announced for the opening competition.

DONCASTER, Oct. 18.—In the aviation contests here to-day Leblon, driving a Blériot monoplane, won the Bradford Cup and a prize of $200 for the fastest time in ten circuits of the course.

GAYNOR ATTACKS TRACTION COMBINE

Blames "Bogus Bond Issues Piled Up Layer on Layer" for Metropolitan Receivership.

CALLS HEARST A DEMAGOGUE

Accuses His Papers and Others of Suppressing Facts in Sugar Trust Trial—Speaks to Commercial Travelers.

William J. Gaynor was the principal speaker at the noon-day meeting of the Commercial Travelers's League, at 686 Broadway, yesterday. He was noisily received by the 2,500 or 3,000 business men who crowded the room. Mr. Gaynor made much the same speech that he has been delivering throughout the campaign, with a few variations.

He devoted more time to the denunciation of Gen. Bingham, spoke of "Sugar Trust Parsons," called Hearst a "miserable demagogue," and attacked the sincerity of the press by declaring that the majority of the papers in the city suppressed the facts in the famous Sugar Trust "Nineteen Holes" case. Congressman Fornes presided. He introduced Congressman Sulzer, who entertained the crowd until the candidate appeared.

After devoting some time to his familiar "personal liberty" arguments Mr. Gaynor said in part:

"Now, only one other topic which is entirely suitable to this business place. Let me say it to you briefly, that the entire street railroad surface system on this Island of Manhattan and up into the Bronx is this day in a court of bankruptcy and the roads are being run by receivers appointed by the United States courts. How long has that been the case? It has been the case now over three years; do you know that? Are there some people here who do not know that? Then how did it come about?

"You have looked at the maps of the great cities of the world, haven't you? Most of them spread out like the ribs of a fan in all directions, and the routes of travel are not so much frequented. But here is this narrow island between two rivers with its cross streets and its long avenues running up through the island and crossing the river and extending up into the Bronx. On these avenues and streets are the most valuable street railroad routes in the whole world. You only need to look at your map, no matter how far away you live from New York, to know that.

Tells Why Roads Are Bankrupt.

"They have the largest revenues of any street railroad routes in the whole world. Do you know that, too? Why then, are they bankrupt and in a court of bankruptcy, and being run by the receivers of courts? Because, gentlemen, of the most wicked crime and iniquity on the face of the earth! Designing people came in here, oh, financiers you call them, and they got control of these street railroads, and they combined them all in one concern.

"They took this Metropolitan Road that runs by here—this Metropolitan Company—and one by one they got control of all the other eighteen roads and leased them, one after another, to the Metropolitan, until the Metropolitan held them all on a string. The leases were for how long, do you think? Nine hundred and ninety-nine years only, each one.' [Laughter.]

"When I saw that system of financing going on I had the temerity to say that it was more apt to last nine years than nine hundred and ninety-nine years. [Laughter.] But my voice was not heeded in the community; I was not Mayor, nor did I hold any public office that gave me a commanding voice in the community. And during the process of so leasing and combining them, what did they do, and what had they done for several years before?

Attacks the Bond Issues.

"Why, they issued issue after issue of bogus bonds and bogus stock, not one dollar of which ever entered into this proposition, and they piled it up and piled it up, layer after layer, until the vast revenues of these companies, the greatest in the whole world, were finally insufficient to pay the interest on these damnable bogus bonds and the guarantee dividends on these equally bogus stocks. [Applause.] And you and I were paying it all the time.

"Oh, you people who do nothing but read the Hearst newspapers, there are many things that you do not know. You know though that there are a great many sluggers and prize fighters, because you see these cuts there in the papers, and the descriptions of them, [laughter]; but has Mr. Hearst in this community ever told you what I am telling you to-day? [A Voice: Never.]

"He can do many things: He can establish newspapers and sink money by the millions in them to abuse honest people, [applause]; but with all his millions he must sooner or later be found out. [Great applause.]

"O ye people; I almost say woe unto you people. Ye scatterbrain people who would rather follow the mere scatterbrain talk of demagogues than read a closely-written article of facts. [Applause.] He can come here, and he can set up his newspapers with his vast wealth; he can make an expenditure in politics here that is a disgrace to the city and to the State. But he can't fool this community any longer. [Applause.]

Ridicules Hearst's Wealth.

"I purpose to send back the checks that were sent to me in this campaign. I don't want a dollar. If I can't buck up against his $75,000,000 without a dollar, I am willing to go down, and I would gladly go down. [Great applause.] What poor man can ever run for Governor of the State of New York again if it be necessary, as he did, to file his certificate after election that he spent $260,000 in the contest? If that is necessary, those of us without means, or with moderate fortunes and big families may as well go out of politics, because we cannot contend with such a thing as that. Do you not know that that was his certificate when he ran for Governor?

"And, my friends, that doesn't represent it all by a long shot. [Laughter and applause.] He can pay the railroad fares of delegates, bring them down here to his sham convention, pay their hotel bills, even pay some of them and keep them on his salary list all the time, who are on committees and who are doing his work. Can I do that? And he can hire public liars to defame other people. [Great applause.] Do you suppose that I could stoop here to say even a syllable about him except that which I can say of him in his public capacity? What would you think of me? Why, you wouldn't vote for me. I would be beneath contempt.

His Fight on McKane.

"I have been in much contention, although I never sought any; but I never flinched from any. Some of you know what I went through over in my borough in Brooklyn some years ago when I met the whole host of them, the bosses, the McKanes, the Committees of Fifty of hypocrites, [laughter and applause,] the committees of a hundred. [Applause.] They wouldn't even lend me $1,000 in the fight against McKane when I begged them to lend me even that much, after I had spent $16,000 of my own money. [Applause.]

"You know the contention that I was through then; and those of you here from Brooklyn can say that I never struck a foe during it all except in the chin. [Laughter and applause.] And yet they even now go around and take up the mean things that McKane invented about me at that time, and magnify them until they grow into big proportions."

Accuses the Press in Sugar Case.

Turning to the press and the sugar case Mr. Gaynor said:

"I tell you that Mr. Hearst's newspaper suppressed the whole trial. [Applause.] I tell you further that every newspaper in this town that is against me suppressed the facts. [Great applause.] Money, money can do a great deal, but it can't buy the votes of the people. [Great applause.]

"There is an old saying, you know, that you can hire half the people to shoot down the other half. It was the boast of despotic power for centuries, and we all know how true the boast was. And these people now think that they can buy enough votes to put down those who vote the other way. They think also that they can buy up newspapers. In that they are entirely right.

"They did not buy them all, however, for two newspapers in this town did print substantially the facts, although not in full. You ought to go down into your newspaper offices and see who owns them. I am not afraid of them. [Applause.] There are newspapers in this town for which I have a high respect. I have a high respect for the writers and for the editors of some of them, but for the proprietorship of some newspapers in New York, including the Hearst newspapers, I have no respect. You must have noticed the laudation of Harriman for years in those newspapers I have mentioned, not only here, but all the way to the Pacific Coast, where his newspapers are.

The Outlook His Authority.

"The Outlook printed it all, and I think it will print an extra edition if another case comes up. It printed this case in full, and then said that the newspapers of New York, except, I think, two, by common consent suppressed these facts. [Applause.] Though if it was the case of some grocer up here on the corner cheating with his scales, Mr. Hearst's columns would be full of it, and he would sic Mr. Jerome and everybody on to him. Those are the facts.

"I think one of his papers had the effrontery to say, 'Yes, it is a terrible crime, and all this was done, but it must be remembered that there is no evidence that any of the trustees or those connected with this trust had anything to do with it whatever. [Laughter.] The dock laborer, the men on the dock just did it for their own amusement, [laughter,] and the money went into the coffers of the trust all unknown to them.

"But it so happens that they are all under indictment to-day, including even that most righteous citizen, Mr. Parsons himself, one of the Trustees and the father of Sugar Trust legislation, Sugar Trust Parsons who says, you can't accept the nominations of the great Democratic Convention of all the five boroughs of this city, not merely the organization over here which is called Tammany; that because I accepted their nomination I am unfit to run for office. [Laughter.]"

GAYNOR ON RACE TRACK BILL.

Speaks of "Reckless Liars" in Denying He Attended Any Conference.

In a letter to Samuel Untermyer William J. Gaynor hits at "reckless liars" in asserting that he had never consulted with Senator McCarren or Eugene Wood about the constitutionality of the Race Track bill. He also says that he cannot recall ever having had a race track case before him as a Justice. Mr. Gaynor in his letter writes:

> I felt that I did not need to make any denial of the story, as you know there is no foundation for it on the statement of the one who propagated it and gave it to Ivins, who swallowed it whole. He took it on hearsay, and the person on whom the hearsay finally rests says that he never stated any such thing.
> Never did I have any consultation with Senator McCarren, Mr. Wood, or any one else at any time or place concerning the constitutionality of the race track bill or anything about the race track bill.

This letter was in answer to one from Mr. Untermyer regarding the charges made by William M. Ivins.

ACCUSED OF $50,000 THEFT.

Three Men Arrested Charged with Forging Notes of Massachusetts Town.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Charged with the larceny of $50,000 by means of alleged forged notes of the Town of Framingham, Charles S. Cummings, Treasurer of the American Banking Company of this city, and Edward A. Mead, an agent for the same concern, were locked up in jail to-night. This action was taken after a day in which the authorities of the State, Middlesex and Suffolk Counties appeared to have some difficulty in determining what should be done with the two men, who were arrested in Boston early this forenoon. The warrants on which they were brought to Police Headquarters in Boston late to-day and remanded to jail in default of bail charged them jointly with the larceny of $25,000 from the Town of Framingham and of $25,000 from the Franklin Savings Bank of Boston on Nov. 30, 1908.

John B. Lombard, Town Treasurer of Framingham, was to-night placed under arrest, charged with forging notes aggregating $50,000 in the name of the town. To-morrow he will be taken from a sick bed and arraigned on the charge in the First District Court at Framingham.

The two notes of the Town of Framingham, aggregating $50,000, were issued to two Boston banking institutions, the Franklin Savings Bank and the Commonwealth Trust Company, and were for $25,000 each. Each note bears the purported indorsement of Chairman William H. Walsh and Frank P. Stockwell of last year's Board of Selectmen. Walsh and Stockwell, however, have denied the signatures, and the town accounts contain no entry of the notes under these circumstances.

It developed during the day that two other notes, one of $15,000 and the other of $10,000, each bearing the same signatures as those at present under examination, are also outstanding, bringing up the total amount involved to $75,000.

PANIC IN A BARBER SHOP.

Patrons Flee, Half-Shaved, as Discharged Employe Hurls Bottles.

The barber's shop at 1,418 Broadway was the scene of much excitement last night, when a former employe entered and tried to wreck the place. Bottles of bay rum and face lotions were hurled about, and patrons fled into Broadway with their faces still covered with lather.

A barber, who said he was Arthur Fagin of 203 West Forty-first Street, and who, according to the police, had been discharged last Saturday night for breaking the rule of the shop in accepting tips, was arrested, charged with attempting to assault the proprietor, Louis Reichman. He was locked up in the West Thirtieth Street Station. Fagin, the police claim, hurled everything he could lay his hands on.

SUSPECT IS TO BE FREED.

Police Eliminate Wilfrid Thibeault from Tiverton Murder Case.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 18.—The police of Tiverton, R. I., and Fall River, who have been trying to solve the mystery surrounding the finding of various portions of Miss Amelia St. Jean's body in Tiverton last week, held a conference here this evening. They have virtually eliminated from the case one of the men in custody—Wilfrid Thibeault. It is thought that Thibeault will soon be released.

"Prof." Frank Hill will be held until the courts dispose of the charge of murder against him. There were few developments in the case to-day.

IOWA DECLARES TAFT MUST DROP ALDRICH

Sees Nothing but Surrender on Corporation Laws in Their Association.

READY TO HELP HIM FIGHT

Believes He Could Gain "New Majority and Control," but Fears He Won't Attempt It.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 18.—"It all depends on what Taft does next Winter," said this afternoon an Iowa Republican, who is well informed as to party conditions in this State in discussing the attitude of the Iowa Republicans toward the President.

"If he goes straight then it will be all right. But if he goes on with Aldrich and Cannon we go somewhere else."

That, in a nutshell, describes the prevailing sentiment toward the President among his party followers in the Hawkeye State. They are for the most part still willing to abide the event of the next session of Congress. But the undeniable fact is that while they are thus still willing to wait they will not be surprised at another disappointment. They hope, but they do not expect. They want to stand with the President, but they are fearful that he will take such a course in endeavoring to get his legislative programme through that they will again be compelled to line up with the opposition.

Here, as in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and other states of the Northwest, the question of whether it shall be Taft or somebody else in 1912—which is the inevitable significance of support or non-support of Taft now—is, in fact, but a side issue. When all is said and done the real question that is going to make trouble in the next elections is who shall lead the Republican Party: Aldrich, Cannon, Hale, and the forces they represent, or somebody who can be trusted to stand for the insurgent or progressive ideas?

The Congressional election of next year is going to put more brimstone into the politics of this section of the country than has been smelt here for a long time. There is still no sign on the part of the insurgents, or progressives, or whatever they may be called, of any intention to break away from the Republican Party. They know too well that they have no chance of doing any better or even as well in the Democratic ranks. They mean to fight out their own salvation if they can inside the Republican fold. But if they find President Taft continuing to work throughout his term with the element of leadership in Congress which represents everything that is repugnant and intolerable to them, there may easily be a grand split in 1912, preceded by an exhibition of pyrotechnics at the Republican National Convention of that year to which the Wisconsin outburst of last year was only the flickering of a rain-soaked match.

Dislike Taft's Course.

A number of events have combined recently to make this element of the Iowa Republicans hostile. They are ready now to beat the tom-toms, put on the feathers and red paint, and hustle out on the warpath, armed with tomahawks, scalping knives, and all the paraphernalia of destruction they can gather. Taft and his course during the tariff fight of the special session were the first of these events. It is not forgotten here that the Republicans of Iowa accepted Mr. Taft as its Presidential candidate almost entirely for the same reason that Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, and the rest of the Middle West and Northwest did—because Roosevelt stood for him. As one Iowa man put it to-day: "If Teddy had not been behind him, he never would have got to first base."

That perhaps is an exaggerated view of the situation of last year, but it shows the feeling here to-day. Iowa men are as keen politicians as the people of Mr. Taft's own State, Ohio, and, although they accepted him at par for the purposes of the campaign, there is no denying that they kept a mighty close watch on him for their own purposes during the campaign, and have continued to watch him since he has been in the White House. And right at the start of the new Administration they saw things done that gave them shivers, from which they have not yet recovered.

When President Taft helped Speaker Cannon in the organization of the House at the opening of the special session he "set the hair on the back of every dog of the pack," to use the phrase of one of them here. The explanation made on behalf of the President that he found himself obliged to work with the majority of his party and that Aldrich and Cannon undoubtedly represented that majority doesn't go down with these people. They refer at once to the significant utterance of Secretary MacVeagh in his Chicago speech, as to the necessity of "creating a new majority and control." That is exactly what they think President Taft should have undertaken at the outset of his Administration, and they are quite convinced that he could have done it if he had tried. There is no doubt in their minds that many a man in the House voted with Cannon on the day of organization who would have been glad to vote the other way if he had had the support of the Administration. In other words they declare that the President could easily have created a new majority right then and there, which would have turned Cannon down, and with which he could have worked for his Tariff bill and other legislation in perfect harmony.

They point out that under such circumstances he would have had a party majority to deal with which represented his views of what should be done instead of one filled with the insidious or open opposition of Cannon. In discussing this situation some Iowa Republicans do not hesitate to give the names of men who would have voted against Cannon with the utmost cheerfulness, but who were not willing to vote against Taft and the Administration, and were thus forced to watch with rage and grief what they had foreseen would be the inevitable result of the President's support of an organization really opposed to him in principle and practice; to see him obliged to submit to that organization's doings, and even to indorse the result publicly with a smiling face.

Signing Tariff Bill Minor Offense.

It did not make much difference to them that the President signed the Tariff bill. After what had happened during its preparation they expected that of him, but they did not expect him to open his swing around the circle with praise of Aldrich. That was gratuitous, in their opinion, both as regards Aldrich and themselves. Aldrich did not want it, and they don't like it. It is to be said also that there is a fairer disposition toward Senator Aldrich in this centre of protest against his leadership than there is in many of the other camps hostile to the Rhode Island man.

It is conceded here that Senator Aldrich is perfectly sincere and consistent in his beliefs. The position of Aldrich, as stated this morning by one of the Iowa men who knows him well, is that the Rhode Island leader believes that by helping the corporations and rich manufacturers, the holders of large property generally, to increase their holdings and expand their prosperity he thereby of necessity helps all the great struggling mass less prosperous down to the lowest stratum. These men differ with Aldrich. They are not opposed to any legitimate expansion of prosperity for corporation or individual however rich now. But they do oppose with all their vigor acts and measures which, while they may afford some advancement to the lower strata, at the same time give undue and special privilege or opportunity to the rich and powerful. That, they believe, is the real ultimate effect of the Aldrich attitude. As to Cannon, they hold that he stands for everything bad that Aldrich represents, but in a cruder and less decent way. Nor is there the same readiness to concede sincerity to Cannon as to Aldrich.

To men holding these views with regard to Aldrich the President's Boston praise of the Rhode Island Senator was a slap in the face. For it told them that Mr. Taft is preparing to go on working with Aldrich, and is installing him on the pedestal of Administration leadership in the Senate. That fact alone brands with suspicion every measure the President can bring forward in his programme of corporation legislation. When the President in his Winona speech, praised Tawney, one of Cannon's stanchest adherents in the House, and defended the obnoxious tariff law, he set the cap on the disappointment of these Iowa Republicans and increased the distrust of himself and his proposed measures.

Nothing he could say about postal savings banks and control of corporations after that could be accepted heartily by these men. They got out their largest magnifying glasses on the instant, and have been examining his speech here ever since. They have looked it over from every possible angle, and the most they are willing to do now is to suspend judgment until the developments of the Winter show what is to be hoped for.

What Iowa Wants.

To begin with, the President talked of reorganising the Interstate Commerce Commission, of increasing the power of the Bureau of Corporations, of establishing a railroad court to try appeals from the Commerce Commission, and of creating an accusatory bureau in the Department of Justice. What these people want, however, is more power for the Interstate Commerce Commission, and in every one of those proposals of the President they scent a method of weakening the commission instead of strengthening it. They fear that the bills to accomplish the President's purposes, coming from corporation lawyers like Wickersham, Knox, and Root, will, in fact, be sly and insidious measures to emasculate the law and strengthen the position of the corporations.

They admit that Mr. Taft is himself qualified to determine without outside advice whether that would be the effect of the bills or not, but they are afraid—after what they saw him do in the tariff fight—that he will be persuaded by the designers of the bills that they are good measures after all, and will so lend himself to the ultimate defeat of his own purposes. That doesn't present a very pleasant view of the President, but it is the unavoidable conclusion from the premises of his Iowa critics.

The proposed railroad court appears to them to be simply another means of securing delay for the corporations, and they are opposed to it utterly. Then the President talked of an amendment of the anti-trust law, designed to make it more effective by narrowing its scope "so that it shall not include in its prohibition and denunciation as a crime anything but a conspiracy or combination or contract entered into with actual intent to monopolize or suppress competition in inter-State trade."

The Fatal Word "Intent."

That proposal to inject the word "intent" into the anti-trust law was worse than anything the President has said or done since he became a Presidential candidate, as these people see it. "It would throw the burden of proving intent on the Government," said one man to-day, "and there would never be a crime under such a statute. It would throw the doors wide open."

Henry Wallace, editor of one of the most prominent agricultural papers in the Middle West, has this to say of this part of the President's speech:

"If he (the President) has his way, it (the anti-trust law) will be simply a grinning skeleton, a jest, and a by-word. It is extremely difficult to account for the position of the President. The uncharitable will say that he has gone over 'body and breeches' to the corporations. They see him in imagination creeping on bended knees under the Aldrich tent. It is hard to believe this of the man who once had the confidence of Theodore Roosevelt, and who owes his election solely to that confidence."

This strong language is fairly representative of the insurgent Republican feeling in Iowa. And the insurgents are strongly predominant in the party throughout the State to-day. The Allison influence was waning when the aged Senator died. It had required a strong appeal to the emotional sentiment of the State to carry him through his last campaign. His death saw the downfall of that element in the party, and the progressives are to-day in position to dictate the action of the party in the State. One thing more the President promised in his Des Moines speech, a bill to control the issue of stocks and bonds by inter-State corporations. Past question such a measure will be tremendously popular in Iowa, where a similar State law is now in force. But just as unquestionably the measure, when it is introduced, will be scrutinized in teeth, eyes, hoofs, and hocks for any evidence of age, splint, spavin, or ringbone. No gift horse will ever be more closely looked in the mouth than this, simply because of the distrust of the men with whom the President has surrounded himself and who will draw this measure.

The fight is on, out here, and the issue is Aldrichism and Cannonism, the leadership of the Republican Party in Congress. Mr. Taft can regain the confidence of these people and restore his waning popularity promptly and thoroughly, but he will have to discard Aldrich and Cannon to do so. He will have to create that "new majority and control" of which Secretary MacVeagh spoke. This section of the country is confident that he can do it, and will help with all its might and main if he cares to make the attempt. It hopes that he will, but it expects to be disappointed.

CAT PARTS OLD FRIENDS.

One's Pet Tabby Killed for Eating the Other's White Rat.

Unable to obtain a warrant for the arrest of his former friend, Chris Sciallo of 79 Sixth Street, Long Island City, whom he charges with being responsible for the death of his tabby cat that left a brood of six kittens, Chris Evangelisto of 73 Sixth Street, threatens to bring a civil suit to recover $1 spent for milk to feed the kittens, in addition to compensation for his trouble.

With the dead cat in a basket yesterday Sciallo visited the Long Island City Court and told his tale of woe to Complaint Clerk Maguire. According to Evangelisto he owned a cat and Sciallo owned a white rat. Several days ago Evangelisto's cat came out from hiding, bringing with her six kittens. In hunting around for delicacies to surprise her brood the cat came across Sciallo's white rat and dragged it from its cage.

There was mourning in Sciallo's family over the loss of their pet. A few days later Evangelisto's cat disappeared. Then the two families ceased to speak. Yesterday with a spade Evangelisto went prospecting in his neighbor's back yard and found his missing cat a few feet below the surface.

WANAMAKER'S SUING GOULD

For $10,000 for Clothing Supplied to Mrs. Katherine Gould.

Supreme Court Justice Truax postponed yesterday the action brought by John Wanamaker against Howard Gould for $10,738 for wearing apparel furnished to Mrs. Katherine Gould between August, 1906, and July, 1907. The court postponed the trial so that a deposition might be obtained from Mrs. Gould, who is said to be at Lynchburg, Va. John L. Lee, an attorney at Lynchburg, was appointed to take her deposition.

Clarence W. Smith, Assistant Treasurer for Wanamaker's, says that he delivered the goods to Mrs. Gould between the dates stated. Counsel for the plaintiff contended that Mrs. Gould acted as her husband's agent in the premises because he had failed to support her during the period of the sales. Mr. Gould denies that his wife was inadequately supplied during the period in question.

MORE SHIPS FOR BERMUDA.

Three Lines to Run There—The Gould and Astor Yachts Sold to One.

Competition in the carrying of assengers between this port and Bermuda during the coming season will be lively. The Bermuda-Atlantic Steamship Company, which operated the Prince George last year, is stated to have bought George Gould's steam yacht Atalanta, Col. John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Nourmahal, and the steam yacht American, which has been sold by the heirs of the late Commodore Archibald Watt. The yachts will run to Bermuda and also make cruises from there to West Indian islands during the Winter and Spring months.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company will bring over one of its Australian liners, the Orotava, to start a weekly service to Bermuda, commencing Dec. 15, and their South American liner Avon will arrive here in January to commence the West India cruises.

The Quebec Steamship Company, which had the monopoly of the passenger trade for a quarter of a century, will run the Bermudian and another larger liner. In shipping circles yesterday it was said that the Quebec Line had chartered the Lucania from the Cunard Line for three months, commencing Jan. 1. The Lucania was on fire in her dock at Liverpool three months ago, and part of her interior was destroyed. The Cunard Company wanted to hand her over to the underwriters as a total loss, but the latter refused, and the claim was settled by the Cunard's taking $500,000 and the hull. Since then men have been working on the Lucania night and day putting in an extra deck and raising her saloon to the promenade deck and equipping her with large cabins after the style of the Caronia. She can steam an average of 21 knots. This would enable the Lucania to make the voyage between New York and Bermuda in thirty-six hours.

It is understood that the line will run the Lucania against the Oratava on Wednesdays, the Bermudian on Saturdays, and it has another steamship in reserve, believed to be the Etruria, to be run on Tuesday or Thursday, whichever is selected as the sailing day of the Bermuda-Atlantic Steamship Company.

SAN FRANCISCO CELEBRATION.

Portola Commemoration Begins To-day—Banquets All Around the World.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—San Francisbo Bay cities are awaiting the coming of a modern copy of Don Gaspar de Portola, who is due to land to-morrow morning. When the impersonator of the first Spanish Governor of California comes sailing up the bay which his prototype discovered in 1769 he will be saluted by the warships of six nations, assembled in the harbor, and doing honor at once to the discovery and to the restoration of San Francisco in the three years which have passed since the earthquake and fire in 1906.

Excursion trains brought 150,000 visitors to San Francisco to-day, and to-morrow the carnival will be under way. Queen Vergilia has already issued a proclamation commanding that her people be merry.

For the night celebrations the committee has provided the greatest lighting decorations ever seen in San Francisco. All of the principal streets are festooned with strings of incandescent lamps in artistic arrangements.

At the Waldorf-Astoria to-night the California jubilee banquet will be held, and simultaneously in a chain of cities entirely encircling the world other California jubilee dinners will be held by native sons and the American colonies generally. At the Waldorf dinner and at all the others of the all-around-the-world banquet President Taft's toast to Portola and to San Francisco will be drunk standing, while the orchestras play the National anthem.

John McNaught will preside at the Waldorf-Astoria dinner, and the principal speakers will be Paul Morton, Joseph Grismer, and Colon B. Brown. Among the 300 guests will be D. O. Mills, Clarence Mackay, Judge Lovett, William F. Herrin, Arthur L. Davis, David Rich, Edward H. Clark, Charles K. Lipman, J. O'Hara Cosgrove, F. D. Waterman, C. B. Grumsky, and John Farrish, and, it is hoped, Gov. Hughes.

Quality without distinction—and with it; as applied to the production of Apparel for Men

Platitudes, like plasters, can be full of holes; for instance, "virtue is it's own reward"—an aphorism decidedly moth-eaten in the case of makers who are virtuous enough—making only "good" clothes. But they reap reward slowly because their products are "good" only as to wearing quality. Of distinction they offer little—sometimes none.

We assume that our reputation is now so well established that there is but little need for us to exploit the goodness of quality in garments of our production; that everybody who knows Saks-made garments knows their integrity of quality.

Of the distinctiveness of our creations there is much that we can—and do—say. The years that we have spent in perfecting our organization of craftsmen have been well spent—fully justifying in the results all our preconceived ideas for a newer and higher type of ready-for-service garments for men.

GEN. ESTRADA SEEKS RECOGNITION BY US

State Department Will Not Reply to His Request Till He Is Established.

NO REGRETS FOR ZELAYA

American Government Will Be Glad to See Supremacy of Nicaraguan Dictator Brought to an End.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A note from Juan J. Estrada, the leader of the revolutionary movement in Nicaragua, announced to the Secretary of State to-day that he holds the Atlantic Coast from Greytown to Cape Gracias a Dios, assuming the provisional Presidency of the republic, and asked recognition.

To this note the State Department has made no reply, it being contrary to precedent to communicate with revolutionary leaders.

Although the State Department assumes a non-committal attitude, it is practically certain that the Estrada Government will be recognized as soon as the conditions mentioned in the official statement have been fulfilled. President Zelaya for a long time has been a thorn in the side of American diplomacy seeking to bring order out of the chois in Central America, and in the circumstances his downfall would be the occasion of very little regret in Washington.

PANAMA, Oct. 18.—In answer to an inquiry regarding the reported capture of Corinto and Rivas by the revolutionists President Zelaya has sent the following message from Managua:

"The revolution is localized to Bluefields and Rama."

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—Several prominent officials of the Zelaya Government in Nicaragua have accepted banishment at the hands of Gen. Estrada in preference to prison, according to special dispatches received here. Among them is former Gov. Lopez of the Bluefields district, a relative of President Zelaya.

Following his proclamation proclaiming himself provisional President, Gen. Estrada issued an address in which he said in part:

> My sole ambition is to be of service to my country and I hope to accomplish, with the aid of my patriotic and honest fellow-citizens, the rehabilitation of liberty on this soil, forever the shrine of Nicaraguan patriotism.
> Our brethren of the interior, armed and ready, are awaiting us with lips set in grim determination; let us hasten there that we may obtain our liberty.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Oct. 18.—Reports in circulation here indicate that the revolution in Nicaragua is a formidable one. Guatemala, however, is tranquil, and the Government, it is announced, will observe strict neutrality.

SANTO DOMINGO REBELS WIN.

Two Towns Captured After Bloody Fight Near Dajabon.

CAPE HAITIEN, Oct. 18.—News reaching here, but somewhat delayed on account o fbad weather and roads, gives brief details of a sanguinary engagement between the San Domingan insurgents and the Government troops at Canongo, near Dajabon. The insurgents were in ambuscade behind a hillock and made a surprise attack on the advancing troops. There were considerable losses on both sides.

Making a feint to re-enter Dajabon the insurgents proceeded to Guayubin and Sabañeta, which they captured without resistance. The loyal forces proceeded into Dajabon.

A Haitian postal courier, who was taken prisoner, says the whole frontier is in the power of the insurgents. There is a rumor that La Vega is among the captured towns. A strict censorship has been established.

ECUADOR REBELS FLEE.

Several of Them Are Captured, but Their Leader Escapes.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Oct. 18.—A rebel band appeared near Ambato under Gen. Emilio Teran to-day. Upon the approach of a detachment of Government troops the rebels fled. Several prisoners were captured, but Teran escaped.

In view of the situation Congress has granted the executive extraordinary powers and will continue in session for ten days longer.

PRINCESS LOUISE CONFIRMED.

Daughter of Kaiser to Enter Society—Early Marriage Probable.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Princess Victoria Louise, daughter of the German Emperor and Empress, was confirmed to-day in the Church of Peace at Potsdam. The ceremony, which marks the separation of childhood from womanhood, was conducted by Dr. Dryander, the favorite Court preacher. The Princess will now enter society, having laid aside her short dresses and released her hair from its girlish braids.

She was dressed in white to-day and led to the altar by the Emperor and Empress and other members of the Imperial house. Many Princes and Princesses from the royal houses throughout Germany were present.

The Princess, who was born on Sept. 13, 1892, is a pleasant-faced girl and described by foreigners who have talked with her as amiable and unaffected and giving every evidence of the careful education she has received. She is regarded as competent to make one of the best matches in Europe, and it is thought likely that she will be married soon, probably to a member of a minor royal family of Germany, as the Imperial policy appears to be the union of the Hohenzollern family with as many of the lesser German ruling houses as possible.

ELEPHANT AFTER ROOSEVELT.

Hunter Gets Behind Tree and Cunninghame Shoots Beast.

NAIROBI, British East Africa, Friday, Sept. 17.—Mr. Cresswell, a Government Engineer in the Public Words Department at Nyeri, came into Nairobi this afternoon and brought word that Mr. Roosevelt had a very narrow escape when shooting his first elephant bull. In shooting elephants it is often necessary to creep into the herd and shoot the selected bull at a range of fifteen to thirty yards.

Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by Mr. Cunninghame, the big game hunter and guide, followed this procedure, and killed his elephant at the second shot. Suddenly, before Mr. Roosevelt could reload, another elephant bull charged him at close range from the herd. Both Mr. Cunninghame and Mr. Roosevelt got behind trees, and Mr. Cunninghame fired and turned the bull from Mr. Roosevelt just in time. Other reliable sources confirm the account of Mr. Roosevelt's narrow escape.

Dr. William Lord Smith and two companions have left for Kapiti Plains after lions. They have been out here about three months collecting near Kenia and in the country where Mr. Roosevelt is. They have collected roughly 900 specimens to date.

The balloonagraph expedition arrived here yesterday and will make an ascent in Nairobi according to present arrangements. This is causing no little excitement here, as balloons are unknown in Africa.

The new Governor arrives here to-morrow and will have an official reception. The Government offices will be closed and the railway station and business houses will be decorated. The King's African Rifles, an African native regiment officered by British military officers, will form a guard of honor at the station on his arrival.

NO HURRY FOR ROOSEVELT.

Skins He Sent to Smithsonian Institution Must Await Their Turn.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—To treat the trophies of the Roosevelt hunting expedition in Africa as are other natural history specimens sent to the Smithsonian Institution is the determination of Secretary Walcott of that institution. The pelts received from Mr. Roosevelt last week, the second consignment to arrive from the "Dark Continent," will take their turn in being mounted in the shop of Chief Taxidermist Turner.

If an obscure hunter should send to the National museum gifts of animals killed by him, they would receive the same attention as that accorded to the trophies of the ex-President.

The last consignment of twenty casks containing pelts sent by Mr. Roosevelt has not yet been opened. The pelts will soon be examined to see that they have not met injury on their long journey, and they will then be sealed to await the process of tanning, whenever that may be decided upon. There is no spirit of great hurry shown by officials of the Smithsonian Institution in preparing them for public exhibition.

DEFENDS FRENCH SCHOOLS.

Caillaux Warns Country Against Renewed Clerical Hostility to Them.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Joseph Caillaux, former Minister of Finance, in a spech today warned the country of the danger of being involved in a recrudescence of Clerical activity against the Government schools. He declared that textbooks of unquestioned history had been interdicted solely because they failed to eulogize such incidents as the St. Bartholomew massacre and the revocation of the Edict of Nantes.

The organ of Cardinal Andrieu, the Archbishop of Marseilles, replying to the conciliatory speech of Premier Briand at Perigueux, declares that if the Government wishes peace it must apply at Rome.

UP FOR CUSTOMS FRAUD.

Musica and Son on Trial for False Weighing and Bribery.

The first of the so-called "cheese and figs" customs fraud cases, resulting from the investigation of customs affairs that has been going on since the sugar weighing frauds were uncovered, came to trial before Judge Holt and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court yesterday. The defendants are Philip and Antonio Musica, comprising the firm of A. Musica & Son of 25 Water Street. They are charged with a conspiracy to defraud the Government in getting cheese through the customs under false weights, and also with the bribery of Government weighers.

The case is in charge of Assistant United States Attorney S. R. Buckner, who has with him Deputy Attorney General Wickham Smith. For the defense Lewis L. Delafield and C. N. Rushmore appeared. Yesterday's session was devoted mainly to getting a jury and to the opening for the Government by Mr. Buckner. In outlining his case Mr. Buckner said that the Government would produce three formers weighers, who have admitted that they received money from the defendants to falsify the weights on their importations.

AMERICAN STORE POPULAR.

H. G. Selfridge Tells of His Venture in London—Here on a Visit.

The American department store in London is fast making its way according to H. Gordon Selfridge of Chicago, who established one there in March. He arrived yesterday on the steamship Celtic, accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

"The store is making toward success," he said. "Our English salesmen are rapidly learning American methods of selling goods. The English shoppers have taken to the idea. When we opened we had only 1,200 employes. Now we have 2,000. The store has not hurt the London shopkeepers, but on the contrary has brought about an activity which must be healthy."

Mr. Selfridge will visit Chicago. He will return to London late in the month. His family will spend the Winter here.

KING BLAMES MAURA FOR FERRER RIOTING

Alfonso Tells Premier He Should Have Submitted Question of Pardon to Him.

CABINET'S FALL EXPECTED

Berlin Police Charge Rioters Who Were Preparing to Attack the Spanish Embassy—Eighteen Arrested.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—A special from Madrid says that King Alfonso has had a violent quarrel with Premier Maura because of the latter's failure to give his Majesty an opportunity to exercise the royal prerogative of pardon in the case of Ferrer.

The dispatch says that the unpleasant interview followed when the King learned of the tempest that had been raised abroad by Ferrer's death.

MADRID, Oct. 18.—The fall of Premier Maura is expected. The Diario Universal makes a sensational attack on the Government in an article headed "Not One Hour Longer."

In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Premier Maura, in reply to an attack made upon him by the united opposition, voiced by Señor Moret y Prendergast, the former Premier, in a comprehensive indictment of the Government's policy, declared that he would remain as Premier unless the nation expressed the wish that he withdraw from office.

Large crowds of workmen met in anti-Government meetings at Bilbao and Corunna yesterday. Violent speeches were made. Troops are held in readiness to check possible disorders.

The Imparcial announces that the Government is concentrating troops at Madrid to take the place of those that have been sent to Morocco.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Socialist and Radical demonstrators against Spain, following three meetings held in different sections of the city, attempted to-day a march on the Spanish Embassy. The rioters were headed off by strong bodies of police, who charged them. Eighteen members of the crowd were arrested and held for trial.

A public protest against the execution of Ferrer, which it is designed to transmit to the Spanish Government at Madrid, is being circulated here. The paper expresses horror at what is termed "a legal murder," and among the signers are Prof. Ernest H. Haeckel, the author and naturalist, formerly a member of the Faculty at Jena University; Gerhardt Hauptmann, Max Liebermann, and Richard Dehmel.

SHARP FIGHT NEAR NADOR.

Spanish Lose Three Officers—Moorish Casualties Heavy.

MELILLA, Morocco, Oct. 18.—Three regiments and a mounted battery of the Spanish forces while reconnoitering yesterday west of Nador engaged and defeated the enemy.

The Spanish then retired, having lost a commander and two Captains killed and fourteen men wounded. The Moorish losses were heavy.

ANTILLES PASSENGERS HERE.

Gov. Sanders Among Those Saved from Stranded Liner.

The passengers and most of the crew of the Southern Pacific steamship Antilles, which went ashore a week ago on the Great Bahama Bank in the hurricane which devastated the southern coast, arrived yesterday on the steamship Comus of the same line. The rescues were effected without much danger in the small boats from the Comus after the storm had subsided. None of the passengers was hurt, and all were landed here none the worse for their experience.

Among those who were taken off the stranded vessel was Gov. Jared Y. Sanders of Louisiana. The Governor was rather inclined to smile at his experience when he landed here.

The Antilles sailed from New Orleans on Oct. 9. By Monday night she had crossed the Gulf of Mexico and was rounding the end of Florida when at daybreak she ran into the first of the hurricane. All that day she labored on through a blinding rainstorm.

By 11:30 A. M. the glass had dropped to 28.35, and the vessel was floundering in the head seas. At noon the vessel finally passed into what appeared to be a dead calm in the centre of the storm area. For half an hour she ran through a rough sea, but a dead calm. Then she plunged again into the midst of storm-tossed seas.

As soon as the Antilles grounded, Branwell, the United wireless operator, began to send out a call for help. He established communication with the station at Key West and sent word of the grounding of the Antilles to Carl Jungen, Superintendent here. The agent at New Orleans also was notified. The Comus, leaving New Orleans, was instructed to go to the Antilles and take off her passengers.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—King Frederick has accepted the resignation of M. Christensen, Minister of War and Marine. Christensen had been the object of severe criticisms at public demonstrations because of his alleged responsibility in connection with the Alberti frauds.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Mayor Taylor of San Francisco has cabled for transmission informally to the Foreign Office an expression of the warm appreciation felt by the people of San Francisco for the presence of the German cruiser Arcona at the coming festivities in celebration of the discovery of San Francisco Bay and the rebuilding of the city.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Oct. 18.—The Secretary of State, Alejandro Bolero, has resigned. A complete change in the personnel of the Cabinet is expected. The present Cabinet was formed last August.

CZAR TO SHUN BAVARIA.

New Plans Involve 2,000-Mile Trip on Way to Italy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—An important and unexpected change of itinerary has been made on the eve of the Czar's departure for Italy. It is understood that it was due in part to recent criticism of the Emperor in the Bavarian Landtag, but as well to other and deeper reasons which, according to the best information obtainable here, resulted in the Emperor's decision to avoid Bavaria and Switzerland altogether, and to make a long circuit through Eastern France to reach his destination.

The new route chosen is by way of Odessa, Posen, Frankfort, and Besançon, France, and involves a railroad journey of nearly 2,000 miles. The earlier route planned was either by way of Munich or a short and direct route by way of Vienna, which latter the Emperor determined from the first to avoid because of the bitterness growing out of the annexation by Austria of the Provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

A meeting between the Czar and the President of France during the trip is possible, though nothing official on this point can be obtained.

TURIN, Oct. 18.—Preparations for the visit of the Czar at Racconigi are being made with feverish haste. The programme of entertainment will include a hunting party, automobile excursions, a grand State banquet, and military exercises.

TO ADMIT AMERICAN JEWS.

Negotiations for Removal of Restrictions Under Way with Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The Svet, a semi-official organ, says negotiations between Russia and the United States looking to an arrangement by which American Jews may be permitted unhampered entrance into Russia are under way.

The paper says the recent report that the negotiations were delayed because of the pending change in the office of American Ambassador is erroneous.

BUCHANAN AUTOPSY MADE.

Officially Announced That Death Was Due to Heart Failure.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—After an autopsy this afternoon it was officially announced that William I. Buchanan, the American diplomat, who was found dying in Park Lane late Saturday night, died of heart failure. An inquest will be held on Wednesday.

The official papers and personal property found in the rooms occupied by Mr. Buchanan at Claridge's Hotel have been turned over to the American Embassy.

Investigation thus far has failed to throw any light on the movements of the diplomat during the few hours preceding his death. Friends who had seen him during the day say that he appeared to be then in the best of health and spirits. He left his hotel just before the dinner hour on Saturday, but where or with whom he dined or how he spent the evening had not been learned to-day.

Riverside Waltham 19 Jewels $16.98

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 19TH, I shall offer another lot of these famous watches in guaranteed gold-filled cases, complete, all ready for the pocket, at $16.98 each. Here is the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, regarding them: The Watch Trust have by their latest raise in prices established a minimum selling price of $41.00 for the movement alone. This can easily be verified by stepping into the nearest jewelry store and asking to see the official Watch Trust price list. Turn to page 21 and you will see there the description and price in plain English—$41.00. I have no selling agreement with the Trust; never had, and never will. Every one of these watches will be sold with the distinct understanding that the purchaser has ten days to submit the watch to his own jeweler for examination, and if found in any way unsatisfactory the full amount of money will be refunded.

FREE On the above date I will present FREE to every purchaser a Peraglie Patent Watch Protector. It prevents the watch from being stolen from the pocket. This, in a sense, is almost as valuable as the watch itself.

Unimproved Property

For a few days hereafter we are going to discuss the improving of New York real estate.

Unimproved, or inadequately improved, property in New York presupposes a very good reason—or should.

Some of these reasons we can take care of—others we cannot.

The fact is, property in New York must be improved; financial and economic reasons demand it.

What we are anxious to find out is: Why more owners do not improve their property.

This will enable us to give some study to particular cases.

Some owners are confronted by insurmountable obstacles.

On the other hand, the difficulties of others can be obviated by us.

FOUR WOMEN NAMED IN BATONYI DIVORCE

But the Complaint Is Amended So That Only Two Figure in the Trial.

ONE A RELUCTANT WITNESS

Taxicab Chauffeur, Elevator Boy, and Two Detectives Testify for Mrs. Batonyi.

After many adjournments, with one judgment by default in favor of the defendant, but subsequently set aside by the court, coupled with persistent rumors to the effect that the action never really would come to trial, the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Frances Work Burke-Roche Batonyi, daughter of Frank Work, against Aurel Batonyi, whip and horseman, began yesterday before a jury in Justice O'Gorman's part of the Supreme Court. Frank Moss and Morris Cuskor are defending Mr. Batonyi, and ex-Judge W. M. K. Olcott and J. Henry Work appear for his wife.

It took only half an hour to get a jury, after which counsel for Mrs. Batonyi said that the case would go to the jury on issues of fact. In her amended complaint she named four women, known respectively as Nellie Shakespeare, Esther Lee or Leigh, Margaret Allen, known also as Mrs. Henry Lawrence, and Lucille Brabant, whose real name is said to be Beatrice Dreyfus, sometimes called "the fencing girl." Mr. Olcott said in his opening, however, that all the charges had been withdrawn except as to Margaret Allen, or Mrs. Lawrence, and Lucille Brabant.

Part of Mrs. Batonyi's charge deals in detail with a ride in a taxicab one night in March, 1908. The woman who is said to have accompanied her husband on that occasion was Lucille Brabant.

In connection with this alleged incident the first witness called was Eugene Arcourt, a taxicab driver, who testified that he was approached by Mr. Batonyi in front of the Hotel Astor on the evening of March 4, 1908. The defendant asked to be taken to the St. Regis. This order was later changed, and he drove to Forty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, where he was sent in with a note to a young woman. He met her at the telephone desk, he said, told her that his fare was waiting outside for her, and she went out and got into the cab.

At this point the witness identified a picture, said to be that of the Brabant woman, as that of the woman who went on the ride with Mr. Batonyi. They drove as far as 196th Street, where the chauffeur was ordered to turn around. The witness said he had seen nothing wrong in the conduct of his fares.

Nellie W. Shakespeare, a friend of the Brabant woman and acquaintance of Batonyi testified that she was not in court as a willing witness. She said she had known Batonyi for some time.

In answer to the questions put to her by Mr. Olcott she told of a telephone conversation she heard between Mr. Batonyi and the Brabant woman. She listened to it by the latter's request. The subject of the message, she said, was an appointment between Mr. Batonyi and the Brabant woman.

Mrs. Batonyi was called to the witness stand, but her testimony was brief, relating to her marriage, which, she said, took place in this city on Aug. 4, 1905.

Called on to tell of his efforts to find the Brabant woman, Lawyer Work on the witness stand said he had made efforts for some time, and that although served with a subpoena, she had refused to obey, and that he understood from one of her attorneys that she was not in this State.

The trial took another turn at this point, and the witnesses subsequently called upon testified as to the alleged visits made by Mr. Batonyi to Mrs. Lillian Lawrence at 226 Central Park West, also named in the papers as Margaret Allen. Harry A. Swinton, a private detective, said he had been instructed by his employers to "take up cover."

"What does that mean?" he was asked.

"Well, watch a house," was the reply.

Then he told of shadowing the house at 226 Central Park West on Dec. 19, 1907. The shadowing, he said, continued from 7:30 A. M. until after midnight. At 7:15 P. M., he testified, he saw Mr. Batonyi enter the house. He had not come out at 12:30 P. M., when he left his post. He was on duty again at 7:30 the next morning, he continued, a fellow-operator having filled in the time from midnight until he arrived. He stayed there until luncheon time, and said that the defendant did not come out while he was there. On cross-examination by Mr. Moss, he said he was positive it was Mr. Batonyi who went into the house. Another detective, Adam F. Haupt, followed Swinton and corroborated his testimony.

Clarence T. Bembry, a negro elevator man of 226 Central Park West testified that he had seen Mr. Batonyi several times at that address during 1907, the last time being shortly before Christmas. On this occasion, he said, he took the defendant up on the elevator to Mrs. Lawrence's apartment. When she came back a man, whom he identified as Mr. Batonyi, let her in.

On cross-examination he identified a picture of Mr. Batonyi and said he felt certain it was that of the man he took up on the leveator and saw open the door.

Mr. Olcott then read a deposition given by Margaret Allen, or Mrs. Lawrence, which it is understood has never been signed by her. In it she denied that she knew Batonyi at all, having never seen him in her life. Mrs. Lawrence refused to give any information as to "Henry Lawrence," other than to say that she had known him for eighteen years and that he supported her. Some time previous to coming to New York she and Lawrence had lived in Philadelphia, she said. They had lived at 226 Central Park West about three years.

Mr. Batonyi's counsel then made a motion to dismiss the case, which was denied by the court. In commenting upon his client's side of the case, which will be taken up to-day, Mr. Moss said that Mr. Batonyi denies all the allegations made by his wife, and that they will be denied by him on the stand.

PLOT, SAYS COOK'S LAWYER.

Explorer's Counsel Scents a Conspiracy Which Began Long Ago, He Thinks.

Henry W. Wack, counsel for Dr. Cook, gave out the following statement yesterday relative to the appearance of Dr. Cook on Sunday before a committee of the Explorers' Club:

"The so-called committee of the Explorers' Club, a club of which Commander Peary is President and Herbert L. Bridgman is press agent, did meet yesterday and invite Dr. Cook to be present. I attended that meeting with Dr. Cook and read to the twenty-odd members present the following:

> Oct. 17, 1909.
> Prof. Marshall H. Saville, Vice President Explorers' Club, 32 West Fortieth Street, New York City:
> My dear Sir: On account of Dr. Cook's enforced departure for the West on Sunday evening, and the varied work that we have to attend to before he leaves the city, it has been suggested to him, and the same suggestion is now made to your committee, that the only proper manner of obtaining Dr. Cook's replies to such questions concerning Mount McKinley as the Explorers' Club may wish to put to him is to submit its examination in writing, and permit him to reply thereto in the same form. This he could do while traveling.
> Having regard to the seemingly organized attacks which have been made upon Dr. Cook and his work within the past two days, his counsel advises him that all persons or organizations which may wish to participate in the controversies surrounding him should approach Dr. Cook in the usual responsible form—that is, in writing, so that any legal responsibility, either on the part of such persons and organizations, or on the part of Dr. Cook, may be fixed.
> In these circumstances and assuming that the club does not wish to embarrass Dr. Cook by any regular proceeding which may or may not suffer publicity, I trust that you will accede to this request, and let me have, on behalf of Dr. Cook, your interrogatories and criticisms of his field work, and await the reply that I now assure you he will be thoroughly pleased to make.
> Yours very truly,
> HENRY W. WACK, > Of Counsel.

"This indicates Dr. Cook's position in reference to all those who are joining in what I cannot help but believe is a conspiracy of wide ramification, organized about two and a half years ago when Dr. Cook started north. It was understood with absolute clearness at the meeting of the Explorers' Club Committee yesterday that until the committee delivered its written interrogatories to Dr. Cook for his written reply thereto it would be unjust for the proceedings of the club to be bruited about in the public press, to the nuisance and embarrassment of Dr. Cook and his affairs.

"It seems, however, that this pledge to Dr. Cook has not been kept, because a column and a half of circumstantial evidence, prejudicially colored, was published in this morning's TIMES. These methods savor very strongly of the methods of the conspiracy which has been operating against Dr. Cook and his affairs, and while I do not wish to charge the reputable members of the committee and the thirteen other persons who attended with them yesterday with complicity in its publication, the article in THE TIMES is a breach of faith and in violation of all ethics between a club and one of its distinguished members.

"The Explorers' Club Committee would not consent to provide Dr. Cook or his counsel with any of its written interrogatories concerning Mount McKinley, although it had formulated them at great length. But it did take down stenographically all that was said, and all that the halfscore of non-members of the committee felt pleased to say. I do not believe proceedings wherein a committee, augmented by non-members, is acting as complainant, witness, and Judge (a sort of judicial pemmican) will impress the public with its authority or sense of justice."

TO CLIMB MOUNT McKINLEY.

Seattle Men Will Organize an Expedition.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 18.—Steps are being taken to organize a party of amateur mountain climbers to scale Mount McKinley, Alaska, the tallest peak in North America. Asahel Curtis, an expert climber, to-day said:

"The ascent of Mount McKinley is feasible if undertaken by a properly equipped expedition. There must be at least five experienced men. The route of Dr. Frederick A. Cook is best—that is, by steamer to Tyonek, on Cook Inlet, and then up the Sushitna River in a power boat."

Wants Records for Denmark First.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—The Danish Royal Geographical Society has advised the University of Copenhagen against renouncing its claim to the first examination of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's arctic records.

GOSPEL HOSTS PARADE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Ten thousand church workers, headed by Gypsy Smith, the Evangelist, who is engaged in a series of revival meetings being held in the Seventh Regiment Armory, marched through the streets of Chicago's biggest tenderloin district to-night. Five bands accompanied the crusaders. The streets were filled with the religious hosts, who sang hymns as the bands of music played them.

The parade started from the armory at the conclusion of the evening's service, a mile's march from the red light district. Shortly after 9:30 the line was formed, and the men and women, bands, and police set forth between sidewalks lined with the curious. No children were permitted in the line.

The procession took its way, however, through dark and deserted streets. By police orders every disorderly house on the line of march had been closed and darkened.

Opposes Postal Bank Plan.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Making probably his last public appearance before his retirement from the office of Treasurer of the United States on Nov. 1, Charles H. Treat of Washington to-night addressed the Bank Officers' Association upon a "National Clearing House Bank and the Currency Problem."

Treasurer Treat presented arguments in favor of a central bank or National Clearing House bank, and in general disapproved of postal savings banks.

TAFT NOW RESTING ON A TEXAS RANCH

BUSY DAY IN SAN ANTONIO

Lays Cornerstone of Chapel at Fort Sam Houston and Hears 14,000 Children Sing "America."

GREGORY, Texas, Oct. 18.—President Taft arrived to-night to spend four days on the ranch of Charles P. Taft, his brother. He will play golf every morning over the links laid out on the ranch, will ride in the afternoon and may go duck shooting, although he does not pretend to be much of a shot.

The stay at the ranch will be the first real rest the President will have had on the trip, for even the Yosemite Valley, far from the beaten paths, had its ironclad schedule of stage rides and early hours of rising.

Mr. Taft was met at the Gregory Station to-night by his brother and a number of men from the ranch, which lies three miles east of the town. The ranch faces three bays on the Gulf of Mexico. Tarpon fishing is a favorite sport of this region, but it is doubtful whether Mr. Taft will try his hand at it.

President Taft spent a busy seven hours in San Antonio before starting for Gregory. He was up early this morning to carry out the programme arranged for him.

Mr. Taft had been to San Antonio before as Secretary of War, and his act in that capacity in building Fort Sam Houston up to the present splendid military station has won him great favor from the city of the Alamo. Wherever he went to-day the President was greeted by cheering throngs. His declaration of the fact that he was not on a political mission and his visit was that solely of the President of the United States helped to add to the enthusiasm of his reception.

Before 6 o'clock this morning automobiles were waiting for the President at the steps of the St. Anthony Hotel, where he stopped last night, to convey him to Fort Sam Houston, where, with a simple ceremony, he laid the cornerstone of the nearly completed post chapel building. This chapel, one of the handsomest buildings to be found in the jurisdiction of the War Department, was presented to the post by the citizens of San Antonio, and was formally accepted and dedicated by President Taft shortly after his arrival from El Paso last night.

On his way to Fort Sam Houston this morning the President was driven through lanes of school children, 14,000 in number, who sang "America" as he passed. The President halted his march to listen to the song and to the cheers of the children.

Arriving at the fort, he greeted all the troops stationed there before proceeding to the chapel, where the simple service of placing the cornerstone in the niche reserved for it was performed. The troops were those that acted as escort to President Taft and President Diaz at El Paso on Saturday.

Following the chapel ceremony the President held a reception at the Officers' Club. At 1:30 he was back in the city and made a brief address from a grand stand on Almo Plaza.

The President was introduced by Mayor Callahan, who has been eight times the Chief Executive of San Antonio. He was greeted with a cheer.

"The remarks of your Chief Magistrate accord with my own feeling in emphasizing the historical feature of the spot upon which we stand," said the President. "This is indeed one of the cradles of American liberty. Here the people of Texas wrought out their own individual liberty and then linked it with that of other peoples of the United States. Within a stone's throw of that building in which were offered up those sacred lives at the Alamo one cannot but lay tribute at the feet of the State of Texas as entitled to something a little more than one of the thirteen States; that she worked out her destiny without the aid of the rest.

"Two days ago it was my good fortune to take part as the representative of the people of the United States in a ceremony tending to show the peace and good will and the bond of friendship that now exists between the United States and the great Republic of Mexico. Happy those who after quarrels and battles and bloody wars can live to see the participants taking part in a ceremony of union and peace and sincere good will; and that the sentiment is developed as I look behind me and find on one side the soldiers of the Grand Army of the Republic and on the other the Confederate veterans gathered here to pay their respects to the Chief Magistrate of the Nation under the starry flag that they all now love so well.

"I appreciate this cordial welcome as your tribute of loyalty to the Chief Executive of the Nation, to the man who for the time being represents your sovereignty, and as such I am prepared to receive it."

In his speech at the fort last night the President said:

"I don't think we can afford to reduce the army at all. Some statesmen see a threat when the talk is made to increase the army. I will leave it to the people of San Antonio to say if they fear that the free institutions of our country are endangered by an efficient army of 100,000."

NATHAN STRAUS RETURNS.

Doesn't Know Whether to Vote for Hearst or Gaynor.

With rather mixed feelings as to the political situation in this city, Nathan Straus returned from abroad yesterday. He arrived late last night on the North German-Lloyd Line steamship Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. He asked eagerly how affairs stood.

"I heard of the nomination of Justice Gaynor while I was in Europe," he said. "I was much pleased with the news and cabled to him that I was coming home to work for him. Since then I have heard of the candidacy of Mr. Hearst. This places me in a quandary. Mr. Hearst is my good friend. I believe in him. I believe in his ideals, and know that he would make a good Mayor.

"Justice Gaynor I know to be a good man, and he, too, I believe, would fill the office he seeks with credit. He is a man who cannot be swayed by any individual or by any set of individuals. So you see that I am in a quandary."

Mr. Straus was enthusiastic over the progress pasteurized milk was making in Europe. He sent a paper on the subject to the International Medical Congress at Budapest.

"I visited Cassel in Germany, where I found a prevailing epidemic of typhoid," he said. "I remained there a week in consultation with the Mayor. They began the pasteurizing of the milk and soon the epidemic was under control. The officials had an actual demonstration of the value of treating the milk supply. I know that even here the infant death rate could be cut in half with pasteurized milk.

"Denmark is head of other countries in this work. There they even pasteurize the butter. The result is that sickness has decreased.

"Forty per cent. of the cows of Europe are affected with tuberculosis because they are closely housed and the surroundings are unsanitary. Prof. Von Vehring, the antitoxine expert, has declared that tuberculosis is nearly all due to raw milk."

While Mr. Straus was away he established pasteurizing milk plants at Heidelburg, Sandhausen, Munich, Liverpool, and Dublin. The plant originally intended for Vienna will probably go to Rome, where there is urgent need for it.

ALLIANCE TO CONVENE HERE.

National Civic Congress Summoned to Meet in December.

Henry Frank, Executive Secretary of the American Civic Alliance, announced last night that a call is to be issued for the organization, signed by Henry Clews, Chairman of the Board of Governors, and the Rev. John Wesley Hill, the Secretary.

> Executive Offices of the American Civic Alliance,
> 507 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
> To all organizations and individuals interested in the public welfare:
> Greetings: The Governors of the American Civic Alliance, together with the Committee of One Hundred, hereby invite all the civic and other organizations interested in public welfare in every part of the United States to send their representatives to a National Civic Congress to be held in New York City, Dec. 6 to 11, 1909.
> This congress is called to consider and devise a means for co-ordinating our numerous civic activities throughout the country, and also to consider and devise a more effective method for the study and solution of our fundamental political problems.
> This congress shall be independent, nonpartisan in character, and open to all organizations interested in public welfare. It is believed that such an assembly, in which all the civic and other important activities of the Nation are fittingly represented, will be able to accomplish a great deal of good in the cause of civic betterment.
> Applications for seats for the delegates, who are either elected or appointed by their respective organizations, should be made by Nov. 20, and mailed to the Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, at the office of the American Civic Alliance.

The officers are: N. Lafayette-Savay, President; Henry Clews, Treasurer; Dr. James B. Wasson, Secretary General, and Henry Frank, Executive Secretary. Among its Vice Presidents are David Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford University; Rear Admiral W. S. Schley, retired; H. G. Squiers, United States Minister to Panama. On its Executive Committee are Gage E. Tarbell and Edward Lauterbach. Its Board of Trustees includes James Cardinal Gibbons; the Right Rev. Frederic Burgess, Bishop of Long Island; Miles M. O'Brien, Vice President of the Mercantile National Bank; John Wanamaker, and others of prominence. On its Executive Council are Admiral George Dewey, Edwin Anderson Alderman, President of the University of Virginia; Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and Hamlin Garland.

Some of the members of the Committee of One Hundred spoken of in the call are Major Gen. Frederick D. Grant, Gov. John Franklin Fort, J. M. Dickinson, Secretary of War; Edwin Markham, Gov. George Curry of New Mexico, Senator H. C. Lodge, Prof. Charles P. Fagnani of Union Seminary, Ballington Booth, founder of the Volunteers of America; the Right Rev. W. H. McConnell, Archbishop of Boston, and the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, Bishop of Missouri.

The meetings will be held in the Metropolitan Temple, Seventh Avenue, near Fourteenth Street, except the one on Friday evening, Dec. 10, which will be held at Carnegie Hall.

LADY COOK ARRIVES.

Intends to Work, She Says, to Get Rights for American Women.

Suffragettes gave an enthusiastic welcome yesterday to Lady Cook, the former Tennessee C. Claflin, who arrived on the White Star Line steamship Celtic. She is accompanied by Miss L. Rose McCabe, a lecturer for the cause.

Lady Cook said: "We want to take women out of the class composed of the insane, idiots, criminal, and women. Our fight will be waged from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We want the right of franchise, and we are going to get it. When we begin our campaign we will go to Washington and ask for our rights."

ROCK ISLAND RATES GO DOWN.

Reductions Ordered by Commerce Board Accepted Under Protest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Reduction of the freight rates from Eastern points to Des Moines, Iowa, ordered by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, will go into effect next Wednesday, the 20th inst., despite the protests of the railways involved.

On the 14th inst. the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific filed a suit in Chicago, seeking to enjoin the commission from putting into effect its order in what is known as the "greater Des Moines case." By that order the commission reduced the proportionate rate from Rock Island, Ill., to Des Moines on all traffic originating east of the Indiana-Illinois State line from 42 cents a hundred pounds to 37 cents a hundred pounds on first-class freight; the rates being proportionately less on other classes of freight.

Last week the Rock Island served notice on the commission that it would apply this week for a temporary injunction against the commission's order. Later it canceled that notice and announced that it would put in the rates ordered by the commission, but would do so "under protest"

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Acting on orders from Washington, United States District Attorney Sims to-day filed a petition in the United States Circuit Court asking for an immediate hearing of the rate case of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad before three Circuit Court Judges.

The case is similar in many respects to that known as the Missouri River case, and seeks to enjoin the establishment of a through rate from the seaboard to Des Moines, Iowa, and contiguous points instead of making the rate equivalent to the seaboard-Chicago rate plus the local rate from Chicago to Des Moines.

The Federal authorities are anxious to have an early decision on the points involved in the suit.

FRANK ROCKEFELLER LOSES.

Decision in His Favor Partially Upset, Costing Him $25,857.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals to-day handed down a decision in a case in which Frank Rockefeller of New York sought to have canceled or returned to him notes aggregating $62,000 held by the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City. A note for $36,229 was ordered canceled, but the other papers, aggregating $25,857, the court declared should not be returned to Mr. Rockefeller.

Judge Smith McPherson, in the Circuit Court at Kansas City, had given a decision entirely in favor of Mr. Rockefeller. Judge Adams's decision to-day sustained the lower court only in respect to the largest note.

The transactions involved grew out of the failure in 1901 of the Sigel-Sanders Live Stock Company of Kansas City, of which concern Mr. Rockefeller was a stockholder.

THE AMENDMENTS.

Two of the Constitutional amendments submitted to the vote of the people this year should be rejected. They are Amendment No. 1, relating to the salaries of Supreme Court Justices, and Amendment No. 4, exempting from the debt limit calculation bonds of this city issued for "self-sustaining" undertakings, docks, and subways.

The amendment increasing the salaries of Supreme Court Justices up the State is sound and commendable in purpose, but bad in method and principle. This amendment provides that "each Justice of the Supreme Court shall receive from the State the sum of $10,000 per annum." The amendment does not apply to the Justices of the First Department, which consists of the County of New York, nor to those of the Second Department, which includes the Second and Ninth Judicial Districts, made up of all of Long Island and the Counties of Rockland, Westchester, Putnam, and Dutchess, as it is provided that the salaries of Justices in those counties shall continue to be those they receive. In the other districts the Justices now receive $7,200 a year.

The salary provided in the amendment is not too much to pay a Justice of the Supreme Court. Ten thousand dollars is, indeed, little enough when we consider how difficult it is to persuade men of character and distinction at the Bar to sacrifice the greater emoluments of private practice to go upon the bench. But the salaries of Judges should be fixed by law, not established by the Constitution. Section 12 of Article VI. of the Constitution, which is the one amended, now provides that the Judges "shall receive for their services a compensation established by law." Our laws may be from year to year changed as the need arises. In fifteen or twenty years it may be just and desirable still further to increase the salaries of Supreme Court Justices. Such an increase would require that the Legislature set in motion the cumbrous machinery required for amending the Constitution. The amendment must be approved by two successive Legislatures, and then ratified by the people. It is a sound principle of Constitution-making that, so far as possible, the instrument be limited to the declaration of fundamental and unchanging principles. Details can be left for the statutes. In particular, matters so obviously subject to change and modification as the fixing of salaries should be altogether excluded from the Constitution. Oklahoma, in its Populist fury and zeal, incumbered its Constitution with a vast mass of purely statutory matter, as Mr. Taft took occasion to remind the people of that State the other day. A regard for sound principle requires that Amendment No. 1 should be defeated. It would be better for Judges.

Readers of The Times are well aware that we have opposed Amendment No. 4, relating to the New York City debt limit. It opens the way for a plunge into the extravagance and improvidence of municipal ownership on an unlimited scale. The bonds which, it is provided, shall not be included in considering the debt limit, are those "for a public improvement owned, or to be owned, by the city, which yield to the city a current net revenue" in excess of the interest and sinking fund charges. But it is further provided that indebtedness thus incurred for a self-sustaining public improvement "shall not be so excluded during any period of time when the revenue aforesaid shall not be sufficient to equal the said interest and amortization installments." Anybody can see that this invites us to play a game of hide-and-seek with the debt limit. We issue $40,000,000 of bonds to build a subway. For a few months, for a year maybe, the net income exceeds the interest and sinking fund charge. During that time the $40,000,000 of bonds are not reckoned in determining the 10 per cent. limit. Later the subway begins to lose money, and, automatically, according to the terms of this amendment, the $40,000,000 of bonds must be taken into account in the debt limit calculation. But we might already be within a few millions of the debt limit line. The consequence would be that we should find ourselves far beyond it when the bonds of the losing subway enterprise were plumped in. Amendment No. 4 is in open conflict with the present intent of Article VIII., Section 10 of the Constitution. It would open the way to endless confusion in the city's finances, and would most certainly tend to a further impairment of its credit. It is an outcome of the current delusions in regard to municipal ownership. What the voters up the State will think and do about this amendment is beyond conjecture. We are very sure that the voters of New York City should vote "No."

Amendment No. 2 is a fine and perfect illustration of a principle that the people of this country have in late years most energetically attempted to override—we mean the principle that economic laws cannot be repealed by statute. The act of 1903 authorizing the Barge Canal improvement, provided that bonds of the State not exceeding $101,000,000 should be issued, "the said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed 3 per centum per annum." In the months following the panic of 1907 the State found that it could not sell 3 per cents. Money market conditions made them undesirable investments. This amendment provides that "the Legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any State debt" already authorized, which has not been created or issued prior to the alteration of the rate. It takes two to make a bargain, and if the owners of capital are unwilling at any particular time to loan it to the State at 3 per cent., the State, necessarily, must offer them a higher rate, otherwise it will not get the money. It is obviously for the public interest that Amendment No. 2 should be ratified by the people. As the law now stands, we run the risk in times of money market disturbance of seeing canal improvements or other public works of the State come to a sudden stop. That would involve loss and waste far exceeding any possible increased expenditure due to a higher rate of interest.

Amendment No. 3 is of no particular interest or concern to voters in this city. It provides that the powers heretofore conferred on County Boards of Supervisors in respect to fiscal matters may be conferred by the Legislature upon auditors or other fiscal officers of the county.

"Proposition No. 1," submitted to the people in the form of a referendum, asks their approval of the act providing for the issue of bonds to an amount not exceeding $7,000,000 for the improvement of the Cayuga and Seneca Canals. This work is a logical part of the Barge Canal improvement, and should receive the sanction of the people.

AT EAGLE ISLAND.

In the retirement that Commander Peary has chosen he should have the consideration and sympathy of all just and intelligent men who have followed with care the history of his heroic toil in arctic exploration and of his final achievements. When, after years of patient, skillful, scientific study and courageous and systematic experiment, he reached the goal, he had a right to feel that he was richly entitled to great honor. When he took up his return march toward civilization he was justified in thinking that honor would be paid to him by those accepted authorities to whose trained, impartial, and cautious judgment he was prepared to submit complete and irrefragable proof of what he had done and, to the minutest detail, of the manner in which he had done it. And he naturally looked forward to the general verdict of appreciation and admiration which the public also would award. His ambition had been honorable; it had been pursued in honorable fashion with intellectual and moral qualities of rare kind; fame was his due, and he had a right eagerly to expect it.

When on his return he came into communication with civilization, he learned that a claim to priority in reaching the pole had been made by one of his companions on a former journey. This man was without particular standing in the world of exploration. He had gone to the arctic regions at the expense and under the auspices of another man known more as a sportsman and a sporting man than as a patron of scientific research. Commander Peary, deeply versed in the difficulties of polar enterprise and the elaborate preparations required to overcome and survive them, regarded the claim as preposterous. He proceeded to question the only possible witnesses for the claimant, the two Eskimo attendants, and to question their relations and associates as to the story told by these two, and like careful inquiry was made by Peary's own officers. After first warning his friends in the United States not to take the claimant too seriously, he finally submitted to the public, including the scientific men whose ultimate judgment would be conclusive, a formal and complete statement of the results of his investigation and the manner in which it was conducted, duly authenticated. To many intelligent students of the history of the matter as it has been unfolded in the press, this account of the worthlessness of the rival claim seems as trustworthy and unanswerable as the Commander's account of his own achievement, which no rational person questions for an instant.

But in the meantime the laurels of the great explorer were not merely withheld, but disputed. Multitudes of people, most of them, we fear, rather unthinking, accepted the assertions of his rival, who, at the start, had succeeded in obtaining a reception in Copenhagen which had a certain semblance of scientific and authoritative indorsement. Instead of warm acclaim, the Commander faced a vexatious and intricate dispute. It was not brought in a court of science; all adequate scientific settlement of it was persistently deferred by the claimant, who, in the indefinite and repeatedly extended interval was receiving clamorous applause from more or less ignorant but profitable audiences. Mr. Peary deemed it due to his self-respect to withdraw to his island home, and there to await the one verdict which would be beyond question.

It may be said that he would have been wiser to ignore a claim he believed unfounded, and to have taken no part in a controversy based on it, quietly awaiting the outcome of adequate investigation. The answer is twofold. Such a course was rather more than reasonably could be asked of a man who had just achieved the triumph for which he and many other loyal and devoted scientists had striven for years. The triumph consisted not alone in reaching the pole, but in reaching it first. To ignore a claim which he believed false, and which, so far as it was accepted, would rob him of his own hard-earned reward, was practically an impossible requirement. In the second place, he was where proof of the falsity of the claim was to be had. Had he omitted to obtain it, or, having obtained it, had he withheld it, he would plausibly have been accused of admitting the rival claim. He did what any man of spirit and self-respect would have done—denounced the adverse claim, gathered his proof of its baselessness, published it, offered it and all other required evidence for examination by competent judges, and withdrew.

Certainly his conduct is in marked contrast with that of the man who disputes his title to priority. This gentleman has shown no haste in submitting his evidence to competent judges, though he has been eager to submit his unsupported assertions to all who are not and can not be judges. Not only has he shown extraordinary deliberation in planning such submission of evidence, but, by his own story, he has been incredibly heedless in securing evidence and in caring for such as he may at any time have possessed. The net result is that at the present moment he has little or none, and can present none, that he thinks will answer until some indefinite future time. His own word is practically his sole reliance, and in regard to the one feat of exploration in which he has previously engaged, his word is formidably assailed. If the situation of Commander Peary is to be regarded by intelligent men with consideration and sympathy, that of the claimant to the Commander's honors would seem to call for quite other sentiments.

SENECA, NERO, AND NEW YORK.

Dr. Parkhurst may have good ground for his fear that, if this city is set right by the election of the Fusion ticket Nov. 2, it will not stay good. His theory that the city is constitutionally and habitually bad may be a well-founded theory, though we doubt it. Dr. Parkhurst, however, has laboriously acquired a great deal of information touching the evil forces hereabout. But we think he is scarcely happy when he compares the municipal reformers and the city on the one hand with Seneca and Nero on the other. He does not mean, of course, that all our public-spirited men who are working for good government are hypocrites. Nero may have been of poor stuff to transform into a decent personage, though probably his wickedness was somewhat exaggerated by the Antonine historians. The cupidity and craft of Seneca have not been concealed by the most partial historians. Tacitus is kinder to him than Dio Claudius, but the fact that he was ever on the safe side is undisputed. The Emperor Claudius living he flattered, but Claudius dead he ridiculed. To Agrippina in power he was devoted, but after she was murdered he defended matricide. Wise and humane in most of his deeds he was and doubtless an able tutor for an imperial youth, so far as learning goes. His influence was beneficial in the beginning of Nero's reign. But he accumulated by hook or by crook (he certainly did not save it out of his wages) a fortune of $11,000,000, money enough to give him a good standing among the financiers of this hour. Seneca, in fact, was a skillful grafter. Such a man could not have reformed Nero, even if Nero had been capable of reform.

But why liken New York reformers to Seneca and New York itself to Nero? Authorities differ as to whether Nero was nine-tenths or ten-tenths bad. New York is a great deal more than half good. If a few thousand careless but well-meaning citizens could be aroused to a sense of their duty it would be set to rights in a jiffy. Dr. Parkhurst ought to be ashamed to call his own town a Nero among cities.

ZONE OR TRANSFER SYSTEMS?

Judge Gaynor argues that New York has the "highest average fare" in the world, and compares our flat 5-cent rate unfavorably with the zone system in some foreign countries. If the comparison is to have any value it must be between similar things, and we ought to know both the average ride and the average fare under both plans. Judge Gaynor named the average rate and the average ride under neither system. He thought the average foreign rate was "probably" 4 cents, but he did not say for what distance. It would be hard to suggest a fair principle for discovering an average under the zone system, which is especially designed to give an exact equivalent for each ride, whatever its length. It is certain that the average ride is an uncertain quantity under the flat 5-cent-fare plan. No records are kept, so that nobody knows anything about it. But the single rate of fare discourages short riding, and thus tends to lengthen the average ride given for 5 cents. Practically nobody pays 5 cents for "two blocks."

The transfer system's very object is to lengthen the average ride. It is too plain for argument that an average ride in one vehicle is a different thing from an average ride in two or more vehicles, both in length and accommodation given. The zone system and the transfer system are both at war with the idea of an average ride in the vehicle first taken. The transfer system is so highly popular, and so desirable from many points of view, that Judge Gaynor shows shrewdness in annexing it to his own issue. But he does not show familiarity with the experiments which have been tried and failed. It is difficult to name a city whose transportation system is not in difficulties, and often because of the transfer system, even where there is no possible question of such bad financing as hastened the troubles of our traction companies. In Boston capitalization is as absolutely controlled as it is probable it ever will be, but the fare has been increased, in some cases by charging 6 cents, and in others by selling transfers. In Cleveland the experiment with 3-cent fares resulted in transfers ranging up to 11 cents, and deterioration in accommodations until the riders rebelled. In Philadelphia the case is similar. Nevertheless it is conceivable that under the peculiar conditions of Manhattan 5-cent fares with transfers might be worked on a commercial basis. But it is certain that they never will be worked under a statute ordering them to be given universally, regardless of financial results to the issuers.

Those who promise such things promote doubt in their honesty or their knowledge. They show little perception of how much more is given now for 5 cents in speed, comfort, and distance than formerly. If the argument for transfers was right a decade ago, it is wrong now, for the fare has remained unchanged while wages, supplies, rate of interest on capital, and necessities of larger capital on the most honest basis have risen so largely. Nobody will object to anybody giving transfers, or put a straw in the way. We all want them, and are favorably disposed to those promising them. But let us not delude ourselves into giving our votes on false pretenses, and suffering damage in other directions, while also providing disappointment for ourselves regarding transfers.

THE GLOBE THEATRE DISPUTE.

The dispute about the site of Shakespeare's Globe Theatre has become amusing in London. One of the legal documents lately discovered by Prof. Wallace fixes its site on the north side of Park Street or Maiden Lane. Tradition, supported by various papers previously discovered, including the conveyance of Thrale's brewery (together with the "potentialities of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice") to Barclay and Perkins, has led to the belief that it stood on the south side. Perhaps there is a simple clerical error in the paper discovered by Prof. Wallace. Clearly there is no reason why there should be heated dispute about the matter. The Globe Theatre certainly stood there or thereabout, "when Burbage played," when Shakespeare wrote his plays, when English dramatic poetry reached the heights of eloquence and inspiration. A tablet commemorating the Globe Theatre has just been fixed on the brewery premises, with suitable ceremony. Even if "this wooden O" wherein the spectators were urged to > Think, when we talk of horses, that > you see them

stood across the way, that tablet serves its purpose. The positive value of Prof. Wallace's recent discoveries is not large. But it proves once more that there is a vast store of information about Shakespeare and his era yet to be uncovered. The poet and his friends were in business in London many years. The ancient records, diligently unearthed and examined, may be expected to give forth much information concerning the conduct of their playhouses and the dates of the production of plays which will be helpful in satisfying the world's desire for every scrap of information pertaining to the greatest of poets.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Care in Driving the Cure.

Sunday afternoon's accident on the road between Tuxedo and Arden, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Bruce Price and the injury of the other occupants of the automobile in which she was riding, is ascribed to the faulty construction of the roadway. The explanation is correct, doubtless, in the sense that if the side of the road had been as smooth and hard as its centre, the passing of the other machine would probably have been safely accomplished. The real and direct cause of the disaster, however, seems to have been the failure of the chauffeur to have his car in the full control which reasonable prudence dictates as necessary whenever occasion arises for turning close to the side of the road.

It is stated that he was running at the rate of "only" fifteen miles an hour. Judging from the violence with which the occupants of the car were thrown out, it seems likely that this was an underestimate of the speed. However that may be, fifteen miles an hour was too fast, as is conclusively proved by the results which followed when the outer wheels struck the softer earth at the side of the road and broke down under the weight of the heavy and rapidly moving machine. The conditions encountered close to the gutter were about those to be expected along all except our very best roads, and even on them except in their best stretches and when they are new.

That we need better roads is a fact, but however good they may become the need for careful driving will never pass away, and, even with the roads as they are, careful driving will reduce the danger of accident to a negligible minimum. The trouble is that so many people yield to the temptation which the automobile's potential speed constantly creates. If they were willing to go a little slower, especially at times and places when and where free passage along the centre of the road is prevented, the number of so-called accidents would be vastly decreased.

Over in England they are seriously proposing the construction at public expense of a system of roads for the exclusive use of motor cars, and their banishment from all other roads. The idea has certain attractions, but its practicability is more than dubious, and certainly it will not please the automobilists. The great charm of the motor car is its ability to go anywhere, and it would lose all or most of its popularity if it were restricted to a few roads built for its special use. Only the racers ought to have such roads, and they should pay for them. To expect the general public to do it is absurd.

Matt Henson as a Lecturer.

People who went to hear what Matt Henson had to say about his visit to the north pole were probably attracted to the Hippodrome less by the expectation of learning anything not already printed in the newspapers than by the desire to discover, if they could, just why Commander Peary chose this colored man to go with him on so many arctic journeys. The mystery was not entirely solved, but what was left of it was general rather than particular—had to do, that is, with the preconceived out-of-placeness of a negro in the icy north rather than with any doubts as to the efficiency and intelligence of Matt Henson, even though he be a representative of a tropical race.

While he read from his prepared and decidedly dull manuscript, one felt a little sorry for him, so evidently was he in a position for which he has less than ordinary qualifications, but as soon as he had "spoken his piece" and turned to face a rapid fire of questions, a good many of them from interrogators obviously hostile, if not to Henson himself, at least to his chief, he was quite another man and showed a quickness of mind that did much to reveal why he had so long been the explorer's trusted servant and companion. For, fast as the queries came, the negro—and he is a black negro, full-blooded or nearly—answered them all, always promptly, often with humor and occasionally with touches of wit. He not only showed that he knew a lot about the arctic, but he had his facts ready for use on the spur of the moment. This part of the "lecture" was a great success, and, with somewhat better arrangements for keeping the questioners in order, many and larger audiences ought to find Henson well worth the price of admission.

It was noted as a curious fact that the "house" was composed largely of white people. Downstairs there was hardly anybody else, and even in the galleries there was no great number of colored folk. Yet here was a representative of whom they had the best of reasons to be proud. It would be a pity if they reserved the expressions of their enthusiastic race pride for the dull brute Johnson and his miserable achievements in the ring.

Telepathy as an Explanation.

Telepathy, that convenient word which has so often passed as an explanation of mysteries for which, of course, it was at best only a statement, is now declared by Prof. Muensterberg—not for the first time, as those who have read his books know—to be nothing more than a name for something which does not exist. He agrees in this with all the psychologists, and notably with the great Forel, who insist on getting facts first and theories afterward.

"Telepathy" has a pretty sound, especially when, as is usually the case, "it is helped out by the curiously absurd and pleonastic word "mental," but its meaning begs the whole question at issue, and its calm assumption that there is the sort of communication which it would designate if there were any has confused and deluded a vast number of amateur scientists and not a few of the professionals. Hence the frequency with which one hears, as if it were conclusive: "Oh, that is done by telepathy."

To say that is to say nothing at all—especially if the thing has not been done.

A BUTCHER'S TESTIMONY.

Exorbitant Prices of Meats Not Due to a Shortage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Very much has been said and written regarding the tariff, yet as to how much the changes in it are going to benefit the masses remains to be seen, and time will tell. There is, however, a matter that might be taken up by your valuable paper right now, and handled strenuously, which affects the masses, and particularly the poorer people, viz.: the cost of living, the exorbitant prices of the necessaries of life, and, in particular, the exorbitant prices of meats.

I am in this business, and have been for nearly forty years. Never in all my time have the prices of meats at wholesale reached such figures. We have time and again had high-priced beef, when lamb, mutton, and pork have been more reasonable, but this year everything has been extremely high, almost beyond one's reach, and surely beyond the poor man's reach.

Now, is there legitimate cause for all this? The law of supply and demand governs this to an extent, but is there really a shortage of all kinds of live stock is the question.

Chicken Raising for Women.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I should be very grateful for the opinions of some of your readers who have had experience or opportunities for personal observation in the matter as to whether chicken raising is a feasible and fairly profitable business for a woman—provided, of course, she has energy, perseverance, and intelligence to bring to bear upon the work. Theoretical discussions of the subject are plentiful, and also very positive statements for and against the industry as an occupation for women, from people who know of it only indirectly; but a few words drawn from a practical experience would be of great value to me and, I believe, to many other women, who, tired of the strain of a business life in the city, are being tempted to enter this field.

Warner vs. Packer and Wilgus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In Friday's issue you give prominence to an article relating to the case of Warner versus Packer and Wilgus in a lunacy matter. It refers to a statement that Dr. M. C. Ashley, Superintendent Middletown State Homeopathic Hospital, issued an affidavit or statement of some kind embodying his belief that the complainant was of sound mind at the time of discharge. On the contrary, the records of the trial show that an opposite belief was held by all of the physicians at the State Hospital.

PEARY AND COOK.

Commendation for Publishing All the Facts on Both Sides.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As one who daily reads most of the New York papers printed in the English language, allow me to say that I have yet to find another newspaper as fair in publishing all the news that is fit to print as The Times is.

This has been especially noticeable in the matter of the Peary-Cook controversy, in which you have consistently presented the facts which every one interested in the matter is entitled to know.

"FREEDOM OF THE CITY."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In to-day's issue, in regard to the Cook controversy and the Aldermen's action in granting him the "freedom of the city," you state that > Nobody could say yesterday whether or not, having once been conferred, the "freedom of the city" could be recalled. Presumably it could, but there is no instance on record here or in Europe, where the custom originated, of such a thing.

The latter part of your statement is in error, I believe. The Edinburgh (Scotland) Town Council, during the height of the Home Rule agitation, granted (notwithstanding very bitter opposition) the "freedom of their city" to Charles Stewart Parnell. Within a very short time their hero was found guilty as co-respondent in the famous divorce case, with the result that the above Council unanimously recalled the honor and expunged his name from the roll.

GERMANS AND MR. GAYNOR.

Their Vote May Not Be "Delivered" to Tammany Hall.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed in one of the evening papers today a statement made by a well-known citizen to the effect that the Germans will cast their vote for Mr. Gaynor. I must assume that whoever makes a statement to that effect must believe that the citizens of German extraction in this city are under his control, and that he can deliver their vote to Tammany Hall. Efforts to this effect have frequently been made in the past, but never successfully. For the citizen of German extraction is apt to be rather independent politically, and to cast his vote after weighing the candidates, their character, their associates, and their ability, and not blindly and simply because a candidate belongs to this, that, or the other party.

For myself, being a citizen of German birth, I can state that I shall use every proper effort to defeat Mr. Gaynor's election—first, because of his affiliations with Tammany Hall; secondly, because of his affiliations with some of the other candidates on the Tammany ticket; and finally, because I do not believe Mr. Gaynor to be of the timber necessary to make a Mayor of so large a city as New York. I do not doubt that Mr. Gaynor may be a good Judge. I know but little on that subject, but I do know from his past actions and statements, and from the speeches made since he has become a candidate, that he is not my man.

THE CANDIDATES.

All Three Are Men of Worth, but the Best Is Bannard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is fortunate for New York that all three candidates this Fall are men of merit and ability.

Justice Gaynor, who made a reputation for himself as a jurist, would be an excellent Mayor if it were not for the company in which he has fallen.

Mr. William R. Hearst, a man of great wealth and of unbounded energy, has known how to manage his newspapers with singular ability, but the majority of his partisans are disgruntled malcontents.

Mr. Bannard, whom the writer has had the privilege to know, is his favorite candidate. It can truly be said of him, as it was of Bayard, the French knight, that he is "sans peur et sans reproche." He has demonstrated tact and ability in the management of a large and prosperous institution; without being a politician he has taken an active interest in public affairs. He has devoted much of his time and some of his money to worthy charities. If any fault can be found with him it is that so far he has remained single; as he is in the prime of life he has time enough to correct his mistake. If we elect him he doubtless will select some worthy woman to share his happiness.

LOUIS WINDMULLER.

New York, Oct. 18, 1909.

Judge Gaynor's Candidacy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the present Mayoralty campaign Judge Gaynor has two weaknesses, either of which may prove a stumbling block to his election, and surely would prove fatal to a successful administration by him. The first is the company in which he is found. On the ticket with him are some of the representatives of the worst elements of Tammany Hall—professional grafters and pillagers of a type not far removed from the brazen pirates of the Tweed regime. Judge Gaynor cannot accomplish much with such associates, and he cannot divorce himself from them. Some very able and illustrious New York Democrats have tried to leaven the Tammany lump by occupying its high offices, and signally failed. In the present condition of Tammany virtue such a method is hopelessly futile. The experience of previous New York elections proves this if it proves anything.

The second defect of the Tammany candidate is that he is not dependable. His honest friends do not deny his erratic conduct. Previous to this campaign he has denounced Tammany with all the vigor his varied assortment of expletives could produce. Now his voice is silent. No war cry is raised against Tammany, as was frequently his wont in former years. The change from positive denunciation to negative acceptance cannot fail to prove damaging.

Church Information for Travelers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With all due respect to the numerous readers of The Times, the information furnished about Sunday evening services in the New York Episcopal churches by "An Humble Churchman" is but a mere item, considering the great number of the traveling public.

Theatres and other places of amusement furnish full information as to what one may expect to see and hear when he gets there, but churches do not and never have during the past twenty-five years or more that I have been "on the road," with the exception of one city, Boston, Mass., where a number of years since I came across a man in one of the leading hotels who had a sign up over his head which read: "Church Bureau of Information." He was there to answer questions not only about his own denomination but of any other.

The Tenant Freezes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since the question of using open cars during unseasonable weather has been satisfactorily settled for the good of the public, may I appeal to your valuable paper to kindly take up the question of the heating of our apartments?

The tenant nowadays is entirely at the mercy of his landlord; no mater how cold the weather is, he will get heat only when the landlord sees fit, sometimes not before Nov. 1, and rarely after March 31.

Considering the cost of living in New York City apartments there should be some law regulating so vital a question.

ASK CITY TO FINANCE TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT

The Mayor Suggests the Money Might Be Obtained from the $38,000,000 Bannard Would Save.

Stating that there are to-day 20,000 cases of tuberculosis, of which the Board of Health has record but no trace of their whereabouts, a number of prominent physicians appeared yesterday before the Board of Estimate to ask for an additional appropriation of $487,250 with which to fight the white plague. The money, if granted, would be distributed as follows: Department of Health, $372,660; Board of Education, $22,140; Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, $17,460, and Department of Charities, $75,000.

Mayor McClellan suggested in answer to the deputation that all the candidates for the Mayoralty were convinced that there was much waste in the municipal administration, and that possibly the money might be obtained from the successful candidate when he had had time to make some reforms. "I believe," he said, "that Mr. Bannard is on record as saying that there is an annual waste in municipal affairs of $38,000,000. Some of this wasted money might be transferred—if located."

Controller Metz said that the Finance Department is prepared to recommend an additional grant of $110,000 for the tuberculosis fight, which should be enough with which to begin. It could be supplemented by issues of special revenue bonds if necessary.

Robert W. De Forest introduced the deputation as the head of the Charity Organization Society. He put the economic loss of tuberculosis to the community at $15,000,000 annually, and declared that if similar conditions prevailed with regard to typhus, smallpox, or cholera, the city would be up in arms.

"It is not the Health Department," he said, "which should be blamed. It is the leader in this class of work."

The support of trade unions was shown by the presentation by John Flynn of the Central Federated Union of resolutions adopted by the Central Federated Union and the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson spoke of the dangers to tenement house dwellers through the presence of consumptives in their midst. He estimated that there were 8,000 such cases now allowed at large in the most crowded parts of the city, and urged that the spread of tuberculosis in this way was proved by the fact that in 51 per cent. of the families in which there is tuberculosis the parents transmit the disease to their children.

More money for the clinics and more clinics were asked for by Dr. James A. Miller, President of the Association of Tuberculosis Clinics, and Dr. Antonio Stella urged strongly the needs of the "Little Italy" section east of Second Avenue from 104th to 116th Streets.

Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute put in a plea for a larger appropriation for the Diagnosis Laboratory of the Health Department, saying that only by laboratory methods could the presence of the disease be determined in certain instances.

Borough President Ahearn expressed the opinion that there should be an immediate appropriation of the money asked for, in view of the great need.

Controller Metz introduced a resolution calling on the Board of Education to furnish adequate information of the number of pupils on part time and of the effect of the consolidation of classes as of Oct. 21, 1900, and Oct. 22, 1908.

Protests against increases in salary granted during the present year in the Police and Tenement House Departments were made by the Real Estate Owners' Association.

MR. SCHIFF IN AID OF JEWS.

Contributes $500,000 and His Services to Divert Immigration.

The plan to divert the immigration of Jews into the interior of the country through the Port of Galveston, Texas, which was held in suspension after the panic of 1907 has been undertaken again, and Jacob H. Schiff is now personally at the head of the committee which has the work in charge. Mr. Schiff contributed $500,000 to the work when it was initiated.

Before the upset in industrial conditions, a slight stream of immigration had been started to Galveston, but it was purposely stopped for a while. With the reopening of the movement the number of immigrants sent to that port is expected to be much larger. In the next ten years it is expected that as many as 20,000 Jewish immigrants can be established firmly in the industrial communities scattered throughout the Southwest.

A new manager has been placed in charge of the work and has already been sent to Galveston. He is Henry Berman, a young newspaper man and an author, formerly of Philadelphia. The other members of the committee associated with Mr. Schiff as Chairman, are Cyrus L. Sulzberger, President of the United Hebrew Charities, as Vice Chairman and Treasurer; Mr. Arkush, President of the Industrial Removal Office of this city; Prof. Morris Loeb of Columbia University, Dr. Henry Cohen of Galveston, Morris D. Waldman, Superintendent of the United Hebrew Charities, and David M. Bressler, Director of the Industrial Removal Office, who is the Secretary.

The organization has been called "The Jewish Immigrants' Information Bureau." Its headquarters are at Galveston. Committees will be formed in towns throughout the West and Southwest, who will keep Mr. Berman informed of the state of local industries and the number of Jewish laborers and artisans who can be given employment at any time.

The Jewish Territorial Organization of England, of which Israel Zangwill is President, operates an Emigration Regulation Department, which will do all it can to divert laborers and artisans of the sort needed to Galveston instead of entering the United States at New York, where they congregate and cause the congestion for which the east side is noted.

A systematic advertisement of the benefits of entering the United States in the interior will be carried on in Europe among those who have already signified their intention of emigrating, and by this means it is expected that the tide of immigration can be diverted to Galveston in a normal way. From there, the immigrants will be distributed.

No attempt will be made to establish the immigrants on farms in the Southwest, although if they are farm hands or farmers, information will be given them which will be of considerable value in aiding them to get established. The purpose of the movement is to relieve in some measure the congestion in New York, and at least to prevent any future greater congestion. For that reason the immigrants who will be handled will be almost entirely artisans.

One shipment of seventy souls left Russia, going through the port of Bremen lately, and in a short time the number of immigrants arriving is expected to be about two hundred a month.

GEORGE NASH SUPERB IN "HARVEST MOON"

Thomas's New Play Highly Interesting in Spite of Some Defects.

MENTAL SUGGESTION USED

Rambling Method in Treatment—An Exquisite Performance of an Emotional Girl by Adelaide Nowak.

THE HARVEST MOON, a drama in four acts, by Augustus Thomas. Garrick.

Monsieur Vavin	George Nash
Professor Fullerton	Stephen Wright
Judge Elliott	John Saville
Mr. Holcomb	John Stokes
Graham Winthrop	Thomas Russell
Henri	Harry L. Lang
Dora Fullerton	Adelaide Nowak
Cornelia Fullerton	Margaret Sayres
Mrs. Winthrop	Jennie A. Eustace
Maid	Helena van Brugh

It has been some time since anything so interesting in the shape of a play has been produced here as Mr. Augustus Thomas's "The Harvest Moon"; this, too, despite the fact that it may be a little trying for those who only go to the theatre for a story, and the fact that, as respects certain conventions of the stage, it is not equal even to Mr. Thomas's best standards. Its subject, however, is so unusual, and in certain respects so absorbingly and impressively handled, that one could find the heart to forgive even greater shortcomings than those which now exist. These are grave enough, but do not, fortunately, rob it of its major interest.

As in "The Witching Hour" Mr. Thomas has succeeded in illuminating certain mental processes through the operations of a play—a difficult problem always in the theatre, and one which, to be effective, has required a good deal of sincerity in handling and treatment. In this case the influence which engages him is that ordinarily referred to as mental suggestion, and the dramatic struggle is the result of the interposition of a mentality capable of feeling and understanding the influence, and prepared to check it, or, at least, to give the subject a chance to overcome it, through resident strength of character and will.

The exhibit in Mr. Thomas's play is an emotional young girl, whose mother, regarded by her husband and his family as impressionable and vaccilating, had gone to Paris to study for the opera, and there been deceived presumably, by a man who had afterward forsaken her and the child. In this case suggested similarity in temperaments, with hints as to the outcome, have been dinned into the girl's ear until she has lost confidence in her own strength, the first trial coming when in opposition to the family's wishes she has entered a theatrical company. There, the thought force, again manifest, makes it appear that she must ultimately succumb to the fascinations of a leading man whom no woman can resist.

It is at this point that a Monsieur Vavin, litterateur and dramatist, interferes to set her right with herself, to call upon her to make her own choice, and to decide once and for all whether she is to succumb to the suggestions of others or to be a freethinking agent for herself. For the girl who betrothed to the young author of the play has allowed the leading man to play a love scene with her in a way which her betrothed termed vulgar, and has fled from the theatre, convinced that she has inherited some sort of taint which has left her without a proper sense of delicacy.

The family naturally rejoiced at the interruption of a career which they have opposed, encourage the girl in her intention of not going back to the theatre, whereupon the Frenchman, to whom she has come for advice, illustrates his theory by an exposition of the ease with which the hale and hearty Judge Elliott, friend of the family, is led to believe that he is feeling badly merely because he is told that he is not looking well. Then, combating the notion that the girl is weak, he calls upon her to make her own choice, and back to the theatre she goes. This scene, occupying the greater part of the second act, is excellently written.

The play's worse fault is that of indirectness. Mr. Thomas has allowed himself to wander more or less from act to act, the third, which originally formed a one-act sketch played at the Lambs, being in a sense unnecessary here, though it is tremendously interesting in itself. It provides, also, the key to the title. For M. Vavin has theories about the effect of colors upon emotions, which he demonstrates to the young playwright in a series of scenes, finally bringing the sweethearts together under the ministering influence of the Harvest Moon, made for lovers by "that droll God."

There is vagueness to the earlier portion of the final act, with the girl a runaway, after having discovered that she is an adopted child, but returning in time for a tender and beautiful little scene in which M. Vavin discloses that he is her father, and that her mother was in reality guilty of no sin. Mr. Thomas has lightened the play with some humorous lines, but he has been less skillful than at some other times in the method of projecting them. However, the scenes in which Judge Bartlett announces his determination to marry Mrs. Winthrop are worth while if only for the same of the genial and uncutuous performance of Mr. John Saville.

Mr. George Nash's performance of the Frenchman could hardly be excelled. In appearance, action, and speech he is superb. His playing has sincerity, charm, humor, and sympathy, the rôle is perfectly characterized, and is, in short, as fine a performance of such a type as has been seen here in years. Miss Nowak, too, in a most difficult part, succeeds exceptionally well, conveying an impression of exquisite sensibility, and combining sweetness and strength. She reveals an abundant quality of emotion which rings true. In fact, there are few women on the American stage to-day who could equal her performance of this rôle.

MARY MANNERING'S NEW PLAY.

Appears at Rochester in "A Man's World," by Rachel Crothers.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 18.—A new play by Rachel Crothers, author of "The Three of Us," served Miss Mary Mannering at the National Theatre here to-night as her opening piece for the season. It is called "A Man's World," and is in four acts. The production is by the Shuberts, and the cast includes Charles Richman, John Sainpolis, Grant Mitchell, Arthur Berthelet, Therese Dale, Helen Ormsbee, and Little Gertrude.

Miss Mannering appears as Miss Ware, a writer, who has adopted an orphan child, "Little Jenny." She lives in a semi-Bohemian rooming house, where she is brought in contact with other writers, artists, and professional people. Here she meets Malcolm Gaskell, a journalist, (Mr. Richman,) and as no one believed the story of Miss Ware about the child, the tongues of gossip are started wagging, but the scandal monger fails to connect Miss Ware with any wrongdoing. The play advances the argument, "This is a man's world." Man sets the standard for woman. He knows she's better than he is, and he demands that she be—and if she isn't she's got to suffer for it.

H. McK. TWOMBLY BETTER.

Family Denies Report of His Serious Illness—Long Absent from Business.

Hamilton McK. Twombly, who has been indisposed at his Summer home in Madison, N. J., for the last two months, is not so ill as he was reported to be in Wall Street yesterday. He had not been seen at his office, 15 Broad Street, or in his room in the New York Central Railroad offices, since August.

It was generally believed by business men who knew him that Mr. Twombly would not take an active interest in affairs again. His son's death, a little over a year ago, had seriously affected him and resulted in a general breakdown in his health, his friends said.

In answer to inquiries made at the house in Madison yesterday afternoon by a TIMES reporter, it was said that Mr. Twombly was not seriously ill, and that he was taking his meals regularly, but beyond that no information could be obtained as to when he was coming back to New York.

NEW ALASKAN MELODRAMA.

"Two Women and That Man" Has Merit and Realistic Staging.

TWO WOMEN AND THAT MAN, a play in four acts, by Henry D. Carey. Majestic.

Father Jean	Edwin Caldwell
"Tagish Jim"	Frederick Seaton
Kate McLain	Lucy Milliken
Dave Kirke	Hector Dion
Francois Leclere	Joseph Harris
Neil McLain	Henry D. Carey
"Rainbow" Rawlins	Louis Thiel
Sam Mixer	Russell Simpson
Alaska	Fern Foster
"Ole Kintuck"	Ford Fenimore

Love, melodrama, dog teams, the scent of pine, gold strikes, and local color were exhibited in the new Alaskan play, "Two Women and That Man," at the Majestic Theatre last night. This does not mean that the play was confusing or that it was bad. It was good melodrama, set realistically, and played by a fairly competent company. It had an idea in it.

The two women were a dance-hall girl, married to a man from the States, and an innocent child, daughter of a storekeeper, in love with that man. The wife, in Act I., has become dissatisfied with life in the woods, and arranges to run away with a cigarette-smoking villain, a Seattle mining engineer. She goes. In act two it is learned that she has been drowned before she met the villain. Her widower falls in love with Alaska, daughter of the storekeeper, and Alaska, having mistrusted the Seattle mining engineer, falls in love with the widower. Her father finds them saying good-bye to one another and shoots. He misses. But he drives the girl from his house.

In Act III. she has spent the night in the widower's bunkhouse, while the man has slept in front of the fire. It is a stormy day, but they decide to go to the mission and be married. Then the wife returns. She has not been drowned, but has been living in Dawson. Alaska finds that she is on the verge of bigamy, a prospect which causes her to strike the quasi widower with a dog whip and go out into the snow. The wife then kills herself in the bunkhouse. In the fourth act everybody becomes happy, and the now real widower wins the consent of Alaska's father to marry her, of course.

Henry D. Carey, author of the play, appeared in the rôle of the widower, named Neil McNeil, and proved to have some acting ability and an agreeable personality. Fern Foster had the rôle of Alaska, and made the part very childlike and unsophisticated. The other woman was played by Lucy Milliken, who did not act like a melodramatic villianess, but gave the impression of having a good heart. A French Canadian part was played by Joseph Harris, and Louis Thiel acted a garrulous prospector. A little character bit was performed in a way to win applause by Ford Fenimore as a man from Kentucky, who learns of the death of his wife just as he has struck it rich.

The staging was elaborate, and the effects of a blizzard in the third act aroused much applause. An attempt to add to the atmosphere was made by perfuming the theatre with the odor of fresh cut pine.

New Shipbuilders for New York.

The heavy tax on foreign-built yachts under the new tariff has resulted in negotiations being opened by several American yachtsmen with the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, at Clyde Bank, Glasgow. The Fairfield Company has decided to open a shipyard here on the East River, to execute orders which have been placed with the firm by Americans, and thus avoid the high duty. It is understood that the company is also looking forward to the time when, under a subsidy, there will be a rush to build a mercantile marine in the United States. Many of the big Cunard liners were built at Clyde Bank by this company.

NEW THEATRE MAY LOSE CARTWRIGHT

English Actor Not Cast for First Three Plays "Owing to Pressing Business."

STARS' TIME IS CURTAILED

Sothern and Marlowe, Announced for 20 Weeks' Engagement, to Go on Tour During Midwinter.

Charles Cartwright, one of the actors engaged for the New Theatre company, will not appear in any of the first three plays to be produced at that theatre, and he may not remain a member of the company. A notice sent out from the executive offices of the theatre yesterday stated:

"Mr. Cartwright fears that pressing business may necessitate his immediate return to England, and under the circumstances he has not been cast for the immediate plays. Whether this will require his permanent withdrawal from the company cannot be determined at once."

Mr. Cartwright, it is understood, is an agent for the leasing of Terry's Theatre, London, and has been advertising that fact in a local theatrical paper for several weeks.

Rumors that he had withdrawn from the company on account of his displeasure at the methods of staging plays, or dissatisfaction with the management could not be verified. One report had it that after the first rehearsal Mr. Cartwright had said that such methods might have done fifty years ago, but that they would not do to-day. At the theatre yesterday it was said that he had been a frequent caller there since rehearsals started.

In connection with his relations with the New Theatre, it is interesting to note that Louis Calvert, the producing director for classic plays, is the son of Mr. Cartright's early associate in England, the late Charles Calvert, a once popular tragedian. Mr. Cartwright is known in this country and England as a stage director of much experience. His last appearance here was in "The New Lady Bantock," with Fanny Ward, at Wallack's Theatre, last season.

This announcement was also sent out from the New Theatre last night:

"When through the intermediation of Mr. Lee Shubert, Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe came to the New Theatre certain bookings existed for them on tour which it was hoped could be canceled. It has been found impossible to cancel these entirely. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe will therefore be obliged to absent themselves from the New Theatre for a part of the season during the midwinter, but they will appear there during the first months of the season. Their first appearance will be in 'Antony and Cleopatra,' as announced."

When the first announcement of the engagement of these two actors was made it was stated that their season at the New Theatre would be for twenty weeks, after which they would play a road engagement under Shubert direction. The announcement made yesterday would make it appear that this season had been curtailed. Neither Mr. Sothern, Miss Marlowe, nor any one connected with the theatre could be reached last night after the announcement was received.

"IDOLS" IS SEEN HERE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—"Idols," a dramatization by Roy Horniman of William J. Locke's novel of the same name, had its first American presentation at the Hyperion Theatre, here, to-night by the Walter N. Lawrence company. The play tells the story of Hugh Colman, who, having been secretly married to Minna Hart, daughter of Jacob Hart, a wealthy Hebrew money lender, is accused of the death of Hart, who is murdered by a servant.

Hugh having promised Minna that under no circumstances will he reveal their relations because Minna is to be disinherited in case of her marriage to a Gentile, is unable to explain his whereabouts on the night of the murder, when he was with Minna. Circumstances are all against him, and there seems little chance of his escape from the gallows, when he is saved by Irene Merriam, wife of Gerard Merriam, Hugh's closest friend. Years before Hugh had saved Gerard's life at the risk of his own, and to pay that debt Irene commits a splendid perjury, which saves Hugh's life, but comes near ruining her own.

In the cast are Orlando Daly, Henry J. Carvill, Sheldon Lewis, Alexander Frank, Samuel Klawans, John Prescott, Harold Mead, Joseph K. Whitmore, Mabel Roebuck, Leonore Harris, Helen Orr Daly, Blanche Weaver, and Imogene Coleman.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Louis Mann, in Jules Eckert Goodman's play, "The Man Who Stood Still," returned to town yesterday for a week at the Academy of Music.

At the Grand Opera House this week the attraction is "The Round Up," in which Macklyn Arbuckle appeared for two seasons.

"The Girls from Happyland" opened at the Murray Hill Theatre yesterday, the "Trocadero Burlesquers" at the Olympic, and "The Great Star and Garter Show" at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall.

"Billy" began a week's engagement at the Metropolis Theatre last night.

"The Ringmaster" is the current attraction at the West End Theatre this week.

Yvette Guilbert began her second week at the Colonial Theatre yesterday, offering some new songs. Others who appeared were Eddie Leonard and company, Bogeman Bulger, in "Swat Milligan"; E. F. Hawley and company, in "The Bandit"; Mlle. Liane de Lyle, Raymond and Caverly, the Golden Troupe, the Italian Trio, and the Juggling Bannons.

Peter, the monkey, heads the bill at the Alhambra this week. Ryan and Richfield appear in "Mag Haggerty, M. D.," and the rest of the bill contains Maurice Freeman and company, Smith and Campbell, Avon Comedy Four, Ed Morton, the Dagwell Sisters, the Four Konerz Brothers, and Tyler and Burton.

The programme presented at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday consisted of Thomas E. Shea in Channing Pollock's sketch, "Napoleon"; Carter De Haven, the "Pianophiends," Walters and Crookers, Jack Wilson and company, Quigley Brothers, Mlle. Chester, and the Mangean Troupe.

At Hammerstein's Victoria the new bill contains Gus Edwards in his own songs, Bert French and Alice Eis, Clayton White and Marie Stuart, Albert Whelan, Hoey and Lee, Trovato, the Three Keatons, Warren and Blanchard, and Sam Kessler and James Dunn.

Jessie Millward, who returned Sunday from Europe, has been engaged by Liebler & Co. as leading woman for Arnold Daly in "Know Thyself," the Paul Hervieu play in which Mr. Daly is to star this season.

Emma Carus has been engaged as one of the principals in Lew Fields's mid-Winter review, "The Jolly Bachelors," which will open in New Haven on Oct. 28.

Harry Lauder entered upon his third week at the Plaza Theatre yesterday afternoon, introducing some new songs and some of his old hits. Others in the bill were J. W. Winton, the Seven Perezoffs, Allan Shaw, Josephine Davis, Emma Krauss and her Dutch Pickaninnies, Marguerite and Adriel, and Ed Eustus.

At the American Music Hall yesterday a return was made to the English music hall policy, and fifteen acts were presented. These included the Joe Boganny Troupe, Fred Hallen and Mollie Fuller, Cartmell and Harris, Edith Helena, the Marco Twins, Nelson Jackson, the Vindabomos, the Empire City Quartet, Henry and Alice Taylor, Jack Sturgis, and George Spilk.

Marie Dressler has begun rehearsals of her forthcoming production, "Tilly's Nightmare," by Edgar Smith, with music by A. Baldwin Sloane.

Swift & Company's sales of Fresh Beef in New York City for the week ending Saturday, Oct. 16, averaged 7.54 cents per pound. —Adv.

CECIL SPOONER REAPPEARS.

Acts "The Little Terror," a New Play That Meets with Favor.

Cecil Spooner made her first New York appearance this season last night at the Lincoln Square Theatre in a new play by Amelia Weed Holbrook, called "The Little Terror," and the theatre was filled with Miss Spooner's admirers. The play gives her an opportunity for the display of her ability as an actress, a singer, and a dancer, and to judge by the way it was received, it will be among the most popular of her offerings.

The first act is laid in New Mexico, where The Little Terror is discovered by an Easterner, who finds beneath her rough demeanor the promise of much good. He arranges for her to come East and be taken into a wealthy family.

The second act tells of her impossible escapades that finally result in her being cast out of the household. Four years later, after attending school, she is received again, and ultimately marries the young man who first became interested in her.

Augustus Philips, Jean Galbraith, and several others of Miss Sponer's last year's company are again seen in her support.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor Arrives.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor returned from abroad yesterday. She was a passenger on the White Star liner Celtic, arriving from Liverpool. Mrs. Astor's name did not appear on the ship's passenger list, and the customs officials did not know she was on board until her declaration was handed to them. Apparently few of the passengers knew of her presence on the vessel. Mrs. Astor was accompanied only by a maid.

Dinner to Daughters of America.

A handsome gavel of ebony and silver, with an appropriate inscription, was presented to Mrs. G. W. Dease, founder and President of the National Daughters of America, at a dinner given by Mrs. Dease to the members at the Hotel Empire last night. The gavel was a gift from the Second Vice President of the society, Mrs. Margaret Curley. The table was decorated with roses, carnations, and ferns.

DE FOREST DANIELSON DEAD.

Former Newport Society Leader Had Suffered Mental Breakdown.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 18.—De Forest Danielson, clubman and a leader for many years of the fashionable social life of this city and Newport, is dead. For some time past he suffered from a mental and nervous breakdown, and was confined in the Butler Hospital for the Insane.

He was the son of John W. Danielson, a leader in the financial and manufacturing life of Rhode Island, and for several years was associated with his father in the cotton mill business. He was a leader with James J. Van Alen in fashionable coaching trips, but gave that pastime up and was an ardent automobile devotee at the time of his collapse. He was 45 years old.

In Boston he was a member of the Somerset and Puritan Clubs. Only a few years ago Danielson met and married Mrs. William Otis of Boston, who was formerly Miss Pauline Root.

Mrs. John Jay.

Mrs. John Jay, widow of John Jay, at one time Minister to the Court of Austria, died yesterday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William H. Schieffelin, Stuyvesant Square, in her 91st year. Before her marriage in 1837, Mrs. Jay was Miss Eleanor Field, daughter of the late Hickson W. Field. She is survived by three children, Col. William Jay and Mrs. W. H. Schieffelin of New York City and Mrs. H. G. Chapman of Tarrytown.

Francis Lothrop.

Francis Lothrop, an artist of this city, died yesterday in his sixty-first year at his home on Woodcliffe Lake, N. J. Until a year ago Mr. Lothrop made his home at 29 Washington Square. Mr. Lothrop was born at sea near the Hawaiian Islands, the son of Dr. George Alfred and Frances M. Lothrop. He was educated abroad, first in Dresden, Germany, and later in London. He was a member of several architectural and art clubs of this city, as well as the Century and Tuxedo Clubs.

Not an Actor, but Real Estate Man.

Joseph Wheelock, who was found dead in a hotel in Broadway, Paterson, N. J., was not an actor, as at first supposed. Thomas Bailnford, an undertaker at 1,893 Amsterdam Avenue, said last night that the dead man was formerly a real estate operator of New York City. He was 42 years old, and a nephew of W. A. Wheelock.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. MARIA BLAKE RINGLEKA, a daughter of the Revolution, is dead in Galesburg, Ill., aged 91 years. Her father, Francis Blake, came to America in 1775, and fought with the Continental Army.

GEORGE B. WHITMORE died at his home, in Sherburne, N. Y., yesterday from heart disease. He was 74 years old. Mr. Whitmore was well known in New York City, having for many years been interested in a large commission house here. He represented Chenango County in the State Assembly in 1885.

Capt. EDWARD P. HOWE, former owner of The Saratoga Sun, and a Democratic politician of State-wide prominence, died in Saratoga, N. Y., last night. He was 67 years old, and was for many years Postmaster at Saratoga.

JOHN H. CASWELL, a retired tea merchant, died on Sunday in his home, 11 West Forty-eighth Street, after a nine-months' illness. He was 63 years old. Mr Caswell was a graduate of Columbia, and started in the tea business as a young man, and later formed the firm of John H. Caswell & Co., from which he retired some years ago.

ISAAC ADAMSKY, for several years janitor of the Yorkville Court House, at Fifty-seventh Street and Third Avenue, died Sunday in his apartment from a complication of diseases that had practically incapacitated him for a year. He was born 65 years ago, and fought throughout the civil war, having been wounded at the battle of Gettysburg. He is survived by a wife and three daughters. He was a member of Dahlgren Post No. 113, G. A. R.

LEWIS THOMPSON is dead at Islip, L. I., in his 101st year, leaving one daughter, twelve grandchildren, twoscore great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. He was one of a family of twenty-four children, and was born at Bald Hill, Conn., March 12, 1809. About thirty-eight years ago he went to Islip and made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Deborah Eccleston. Up to his 100th year, with the assistance of his daughter, he kept a small country candy store, which was a favorite shopping place for children.

JAMES TERWILLIGER died suddenly at Roselle, N. J., on Sunday night. He was 85 years old. Mr. Terwilliger was Clerk of the New York State Senate from 1856 to 1870; was Secretary of the Republican National Committee during Lincoln's campaign, and was Deputy Collector of the Port of New York under Preston King and Thomas Murphy during President Grant's administration.

MOSES GRANT DANIEL, educator and author, died at his home in Roxbury, Mass., yesterday, aged 73 years. He was graduated from Harvard in 1863. He was principal of Chauncy Hall School for twelve years, and later was an editor of text books. He was the author of numerous works on Latin used in the public schools.

ABRAHAM McMURTRIE, a prominent business man of Belvidere, N. J., and a member of the milling firm of McMurtrie & Co., dropped dead on Sunday afternoon while taking a walk along the raceway above the mill. Heart disease was the cause of death. He was in his fifty-eighth year, and had always lived in and about Belvidere, being born in Oxford Township. He was a brother of the late George K. McMurtrie, and is survived by a widow, one sister, Mrs. William Colley of New York, and a brother, William McMurtrie, a chemist.

HENRY L. JANEWAY DEAD.

Wall Paper Manufacturer and Trustee of Rutgers College Since 1862.

Henry Latimer Janeway, for more than sixty years one of the leading citizens of New Brunswick, N. J., died at his home on Livingston Avenue early yesterday morning, aged 85 years. Mr. Janeway had been attending his place of business, the Janeway & Co. wall paper factory, on Water Street, until Saturday morning, Oct. 9, when he became ill with a cold. Death was caused by his extreme age. Mr. Janeway was born in Philadelphia on Aug. 9, 1824. He was graduated from Rutgers College in 1844, and received the honorary degree of A. M. in 1847. He studied medicine with Dr. George Janeway for eight months, and then entered business. In 1862 he was elected a Trustee of Rutgers College. He was a member of the Board of Education of New Brunswick for twenty-two years, and was President of the board during seven years of that time. In 1876 he was appointed a member of the Centennial Commission of New Jersey by Gov. Bedle. Mr. Janeway had been a Trustee of the First Presbyterian Church for more than fifty years. He had been for a number of years Vice President of the New Jersey Society, Sons of the American Revolution, a Fellow of the American Geographical Society of New York, a member of the Institute of Civics of New York, a member of the New Jersey Historical Society, and a member of the Washington Association of Morristown. He had been a Mason since 1848. In 1848 Mr. Janeway was married to Miss Catherine A. Abeel. She died about seventeen years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Helen H. Janeway, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry L. Janeway, Jr.

YALE RUSH LINE MUST BRACE UP

Coaches Tell Football Men Their Attack in West Point Game Was Ineffective.

ARMY'S CHANCES TO SCORE

Several Second Team Men Close to 'Varsity Form and May Crowd Lax Regulars Out of Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—This was Lyceum Day for the Yale footballists. The coaches' lectures consumed more of the time of the players than the scrimmaging. Head Coach Howard Jones made it clear to the regulars that grave faults in the Yale rush line were shown at West Point Saturday and that the Army missed two chances to score only because they lacked an effective attack. Hints were obtrusively dispensed that unless there is improvement, changes in the giant line will follow. Several members of the second eleven, notably Paull, Brooks, Howe, and Francis, have raised their rating close to 'Varsity form, and the holders of the regular places are on tiptoe for fear of a change.

All of to-day's scrimmaging was aimed at bringing into relief faults in the team play of Saturday. Jones and Wheaton were the only coaches present, but made caustic comments of individual and team play. Harry Batchelder, 1905, and Preston Gibson, 1900, were on hand, but did not coach.

With the exception of Andrus, every 'Varsity regular was present in uniform, including Logan and Deming, who are slowly recovering from the injuries which kept them out of the play last week.

Kilpatrick, Hobbs, Lilley, Philbin, and Johnson jogged around the track in light work out for general conditioning purposes. Philbin and Field were in the signal rehearsal, but dropped out when scrimmaging began. Robinson, a novice tried at left half back, was the sensation of the afternoon. He reeled off a couple of end runs, the last for forty yards, which netted him the only touchdown scored during the day. Naedele, regarded as regular right end until he was hurt last year, was in his old position on the 'Varsity. Capt. Coy played full back five minutes of the fifteen in which scrimmaging was ordered. He was in no line attacking, but punted and forward passed and turned the end for a twenty-yard run before he was downed.

WILSON'S INJURY SERIOUS.

Navy Football Player's Spinal Cord Bruised, Causing Bloody Tumor.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 18—It was stated at the naval hospital to-night that the condition of Quarter-back Wilson of Covington, Ky., the midshipman who was injured in the football game on Saturday, was serious. There has been no sign of a diminution of the paralysis which has affected his limbs and upper part of the body since Saturday, and unless this takes place before morning the apprehensions will be of the gravest character.

Wilson was examined by the X-ray this morning and no fracture of the spinal column was found, but there is no doubt that there is a bruise of the spinal cord, causing a bloody tumor. Wilson's chances of recovery depend upon whether this clot is small enough to be absorbed. To-night is likely to be Wilson's turning point, and if his condition does not show some improvement by morning it will be regarded as extremely serious. A surgical operation now could be only of the most delicate kind, and will not be resorted to except as a final hope of saving Wilson's life.

Harvard Engages in Secret Work.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—Harvard worked in secret to-day in preparation for Saturday's game with Brown University. The practice was light. After tackling the dummy, catching punts and running them back, the 'Varsity and second teams lined up, but there was no scrimmage. All the regulars were back with the exception of West and Gil Brown. The former may not don togs again this year. Brown was kept away by classes. Coach Blagden gave fifteen minutes' attention to McKay and Fisher, who have a tendency to play high. With the return of Capt. Fish, Lothrop Withington went to guard, where he has done good work. Although inexperienced, he possesses aggressiveness, coupled with strength, with the former quality being shown as a negative quantity in the Harvard forwards this season.

P. S. Smith, Corbett, and Minot formed the 'Varsity back field. Frothingham, who has starred in every game this year, had only light work. Both Corbett and Smith have an opponent of recognized ability in this wiry youngster, and the man that denies him his place has a hard road to travel. Wigglesworth, the midget quarter back, was also on the field and ran through signals. Minot, Frothingham, and Sprague made some difficult kicks of the twisting variety that had both strength and distance behind them.

Cornell to Reconstruct Team.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Beginning their building-up process all over again, after the poor work of the eleven in the game against Fordham, the Cornell football coaches worked hard this afternoon with 'Varsity candidates who could get away from the university classrooms. Capt. Tydeman, Hurlburt, Gass, Donnan, Wood, Stude, Farrington, and Leventry, almost half of the 'Varsity training table squad, did not report. Most of the others were late, but the coaches did the best they could in a long drill to teach the men how to "smash" and "box" ends, and the backs how to develop strong interference. Coaches Duvall, Walder, Shepard, and Reed worked at this patiently, and toward the end of the practice were getting results. Among the ends they tried were Uhl, Morton, Wilson, Seelye, Teagle, and Delano. Leventry, the former 'Varsity tackle, is also to be given a try at end in an effort to find bigger men.

Baker and Owen alternated at quarter back, and Robb and Krutsch the half backs, with Simpson at full back. Jack Moakley had the watch on the quarter backs to keep them on the jump. W. N. Sutton, No. 5 in last year's Cornell crew, reported for football for the first time this afternoon, and while it is late, the coaches hope to have him in condition for a trial soon. Sutton is the third crew man to come out this Fall. Seagrave and Simson, the other two, are sure to play in the big games.

Tigers Score Twice on Scrubs.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18.—Football practice again took place behind closed gates this afternoon. A number of new plays were tried, but a drizzling rain made it difficult for the men to keep their feet, and it was by straight football that the 'Varsity scored twice against the scrub team. Hart made one touchdown and McCormick the other. Hart, Cunningham, and Dawson were the original back field, while McCormick, Sparks, and Read were substituted later. Bergen again appeared at quarter back, and by his showing both Saturday and to-day has improved in his handling of punts. It is probable that he will remain in this position. McFadyen was out in uniform to-day for the first time in two weeks. The big fellow was injured in scrimmage, but is now ready for work again. He will undoubtedly be used in practice to-morrow and probably play in the Lafayette game.

Indians Need Much Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Oct. 18.—The victorious Carlisle Indians returned yesterday from their game with Syracuse at New York City, feeling keenly the necessity of doing a great deal of practice before they can expect to have a well-trained football eleven. Running through signals this afternoon was the work required of the redskins, as Coach Warner thought they had best look after their minor bruises. Warner feels that his eleven, composed mostly of raw material, has progressed wonderfully, and believes that in a short time if the same rate of improvement keeps up he will be able to present an eleven composed of experts.

Among the Chess Players.

Paul Johnson was the winner of the first game of his match of seven games with Rosenfeld at the rooms of the Manhattan Chess Club on Sunday. After forty-seven moves Rosenfeld resigned.

At a meeting of the leading players of the Manhattan Chess Club it was agreed it would be desirable to start the annual championship tournament of the club in December. Among those who may take part are A. B. Hodges, O. Roething, J. Finn, L. Rosen, H. Rosenfeld, H. Rosenbaum, J. Rosenthal, J. M. Hanham, L. B. Meyer, G. H. Koehler, A. Pulvermacher, H. M. Phillips, M. Smith

Seven of the chess players of Columbia University were pitted against as many members of the Manhattan Chess Club, and were defeated by the score of 6 points to 1.

Indiana Schools Bar Hammer Throw.

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 18.—What is considered a forward step in athletics has been taken by the Indiana High School Athletic Association. This is the decision to abolish the hammer throw, on the ground that it is dangerous. The action comes as the result of numerous accidents connected with this event, at least one of which in this State has proved fatal. There is also a sentiment in favor of abolishing the mile run, but this will not be done at the present time. Promoters of High School athletics in this State believe it is only a matter of a short time until the hammer throw will be done away with everywhere.

Results of Billiard Games.

In the amateur handicap billiard tournament at 18.2 balkline, in progress in Maurice Daly's room, Broadway and Forty-ninth Street, yesterday J. F. Berg won from George Spears. The scores were: Berg 300, high run 44, average 4 54-61; Spears 199, high run 21, average 3 19-60.

Albert Cutler, champion of New England, won his two matches against Willis Thompson in the Daly rooms yesterday. The scores were: Afternoon match—Cutler 200, high run 55, average 14 4-14; Thompson 86, high run 17, average, 6 8-13. Evening match—Cutler, 200; high run, 32; average, 19; Thompson, 26; high run, 6; average, 2½.

D. Budd was the winner over H. Turner in the three-cushion carrom tournament, in progress in Doyle's billiard room, Broadway and Forty-second Street, last night. The scores were: Budd, 25; Turner, 15; thirty-five innings, with the high run of 5 for Budd. To-night's game in the tournament will be between J. Monahan and H. Franger.

MORE ENTRIES FOR VANDERBILT RACE

Seven Cars Were Added to the List to Compete for Cup Saturday, Oct. 30.

TOTAL NOW EXCEEDS 20

Report of Scorer Shows Lozier No. 3 Winner of Special Mileage Prize—Driver Bowers Still Critical.

More than twenty entries have been received for the Vanderbilt Cup race, to be held on the Long Island course Saturday, Oct. 30. As the date of the closing of entries is Oct. 25 it is expected that the number of entrants will be increased to at least thirty. Seven entries in addition to those already announced were received yesterday by the Motor Cups Holding Company. These include a Buick, which will be piloted by Louis Chevrolet; three Maxwell cars, entered by Carl Kelsey; two Marmon cars, entered by the Nordyke & Marmon Company of Indianapolis, and an American Roadster.

Although the cup course was open for practice yesterday, not one racing car or driver put in an appearance, and it is doubtful whether practice will begin in earnest before to-morrow. Several hundred spectators gathered at Hicksville, but were disappointed. Everything is in readiness for the drivers. The course has been oiled and the corners banked. All of the holes and ruts in the roads have been filled in with Peekskill gravel, and, while a few rough spots will have to be rolled out, the course as a whole is in splendid condition for fast work. The twenty-two special flagmen who are to guard the course were on duty yesterday, and under orders of the Supervisors all traffic was diverted to other roads, and not a single vehicle of any description was permitted on the course from 5 to 8 o'clock A. M.

Manager Pardington has arranged with various big hotels in the vicinity of the track to provide breakfast at 6 A. M. for the accommodation of those who desire to witness the preliminary practice. The Motor Cups Holding Company has arranged with the New York Timers' Club to take charge of the timing and scoring.

At a meeting yesterday of the Brighton Beach Committee of the Motor Racing Association, the official report of the scorer for the twenty-four-hour race on the Brighton Beach Motordrome was presented. This report shows that the Lozier cars not only finished in first and second places in the race, but that the Lozier Car No. 3, driven by Ralph Mulford and Cyrus Patcheke, won the special prize of $200 for the greatest mileage in the concluding hour. With Patcheke driving, this car traveled 57½ miles in the hour, defeating Buick No. 5, driven by Robert Burman, by eight seconds for the special money. Owing to the fact that all the cars were permitted to cross the finishing line for the total score in the race, the Buick was at first incorrectly credited with having won the final hour's contest.

All of the prize money won in the twenty-four-hour race was paid yesterday by the Motor Racing Association. The Lozier Motor Company received $1,000 as first prize, won by Lozier No. 3, with a total of 1,196 miles to its credit, and $500 as second prize, won by Lozier No. 4, driven by Harry Cobe and Joe Seymour. J. T. Rainer received the third prize, of $250, for the Rainer Car No. 9, driven by Louis Disbrow, Frank Dearborn, and H. Lund, and the fourth prize, of $150, went to A. G. Southworth, the nominator of Buick No. 5.

Charles Bowers, the driver of the Rainier car in the twenty-four-hour auto race which met with an accident, is still in a critical condition. Although resting easy last night at the Kings County Hospital, the house surgeon said he was not yet out of danger, but that it was expected he would recover. In regard to the accident, an unintentional burden of an improper diagnosis on Bowers's case was laid on the wrong shoulders. Drs. Hoag and Smith of the medical staff of the twenty-four-hour race made a superficial examination in the tent on the grounds and reported a fracture of the skull. The doctor at the Coney Island Hospital, where Bowers was taken, said that there was positively no fracture. Drs. Hoag and Smith were skeptical, and after Bowers had been removed to Kings County Hospital they called Dr. Fiske of that institution on the 'phone, only to learn of the correctness of their diagnosis and that the fracture extended several inches in two different directions.

The entries for the New York to Atlanta tour close at midnight to-morrow. Up to last night forty-six entries had been received, and the management expects the number to be increased to sixty. The official cars have been selected. They are a Chalmers-Detroit, a Stearns, and an Alco.

Stars Training for Ten-Mile Run.

The coming national ten-mile run championship, which will take place at Celtic Park, Long Island City, Nov. 6, promises to be the most sensational distance race held here in a long time. John Daly of the Irish-American Club, who won the title in 1907, will be on hand, and, as he is going seconds faster than any of the distance men at present, it looks as though the man from Galway County may win the title. He will not have an easy time, however. George Bonhag is in training and fast getting into shape, and while Daly and the others are running hard races George is resting and saving himself. In consequence of his record-breaking streak of last Winter, Bonhag holds practically all records from two to eight miles, indoors, and he will endeavor to add this one to his long string. Many remember the great form he displayed last Fall when he finished third in this championship, completing the distance in 53:48, and he is probably in better shape at present than he was last year.

Two Men to Walk to 'Frisco.

Charles Edwards and Bob Cook, English professional pedestrians, will start from City Hall at 7 o'clock this morning for San Francisco in an attempt to lower the record made by Edward Payson Weston last Spring. The two men will follow practically the same route as that covered by Weston after reaching Chicago. They made the statement last night that the walk was the result of a wager.

American Horses Run Second.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—In the Prix Terrier, run at St. Cloud to-day, J. E. Widener's Indian Prince finished second. In the Prix Fourres W. K. Vanderbilt's Serpenteau was second.

RICE WANTS CREW MEN.

Columbia Students, However, Prefer to Strive for Football Honors.

In the recent report of A. D. Alexander, '09, manager of the 1909 'Varsity crew, rowing affairs at Columbia are shown to be in a satisfactory condition financially. After meeting the current expenses of the year, in addition to paying off the deficit of $5,860.35 left by the preceding management, the Rowing Club on Sept. 25, 1909, the close of the last rowing season, had a balance of $462.20.

The total expenses for the year were $10,804.80, while the receipts, not including the money collected to meet the deficit, amounted to $11,267.

The racing account, which includes the expenses of the training table, traveling, printing, and other incidentals, was the largest individual item, and amounted to $3,875. The cost of maintaining the barge, with the wages of the boatman, reached $1,835.07. The expenses of the Harvard and Annapolis races were $941.98. The salary of the coach and the expenses of launch hire were $3,240.54, while the boat and oar account was $772.60.

The special report on the deficit shows that undergraduates subscribed $3,025.39 and the graduates $1,646.28. Gifts to the amount of $996.66 were received toward this special account.

In striking contrast to the good financial basis on which Columbia starts her Fall rowing is the deplorable condition existing in the absolute lack of candidates reporting at the barge for practice. Sixty-eight men reported at the beginning of the season, but not enough men came out Saturday to fill two boats, and only a few more showed up yesterday after repeated urgings and threatenings on the management's part. If by to-morrow thirty men of the 1913 class are not regularly reporting, the freshman crew will be abolished for this academic year.

Coach Rice was especially discouraged, and said yesterday: "I am tired of making appeals. Nothing that I can say has any effect. Yesterday's practice has shown me that there are only about twelve promising men in the squad—not enough to fill two boats. It would be a farce to match such a light crew against Cornell. The freshmen have just two days to make good, and I hope they realize the gravity of the situation."

Much of this falling off has been placed to interclass football, most of the oarsmen in all the classes paying far more attention to that sport than they do to rowing. The alumni, who have paid so much toward the support of rowing at Columbia, are becoming displeased over the fact that such a minor interest is detracting from the sport of universal interest and Columbia's only major sport.

COLUMBIA MINOR SPORTS.

Swimming and Wrestling Teams Promising for Season.

Minor sporting teams at Columbia opened their seasons yesterday, with successful practice in regard to both the number of last year's teams returned and the showing of new candidates who reported. The swimming team is especially strong. Ten men of last year's team are back, and two strong men from other colleges, who could not play last year on account of the one-year residence rule, are eligible this year. The relay team reports E. J. Arkush, T. McKinley, F. Culman, and J. Pulleyn of last year's relay team returned, while in plunging Barker and Fonts, both ineligible last year, will represent the Blue and White this year. In diving Werner and Guiteras are two good men lost, but to take their places R. Patterson and W. J. McCormick have announced their intention of coming out this year. Capt. Pell of the water polo team was especially encouraged this afternoon when ten new men, together with Brown, Sternberg, and Ruthart, reported yesterday for practice in the tank. Eight new men reported for the general swimming team. An innovation this year will be a freshman water polo team, of which C. Bissell, '13, has already been elected Captain.

Twelve men answered the call for wrestlers yesterday, and the outlook generally for this sport, which had such a hard sruggle last year to hold its own, is decidedly brighter this year. Fred Narganes, who wrestled on the local team two years ago, has been secured as coach. When seen to-day he seemed pleased at the showing among the new candidates and expressed himself confident that there would be a far more successful team this year. Of those of last year's team who have signified their intention of coming out this year are: A. Blum, 115-pound class; H. A. Ault, 125-pound class, Captain; E. Latimer, 135-pound class, and D. Hager, 145-pound class. Narganes expects to pay particular attention to the 157, 175, and unlimited heavyweight class.

WOMEN ON THE LINKS.

Miss H. S. Curtis Leads Score of Players on Brookline Course.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Oct. 18.—Nearly a score of prominent women golfers completed the first round to-day in the annual open tournament for women golf players at the Brookline Country Club, the concluding feature of the annual Fall meeting. The best net score of the day was 96, made by Miss H. S. Curtis of the Commonwealth Club, who played from scratch, while Mrs. G. W. Roope of Commonwealth played over the course in 95, with a handicap of 3.

The foreign players who competed in the National championship at Philadelphia were not present to-day, although most all have entered the lists.

PRACTICAL WINS IN THE LAST JUMP

THREE UPSETS IN A ROW

Favorites Are Beaten Through the Last Half of the Programme at the Jamaica Race Course.

The racing and the results at the Jamaica track yesterday were just about equally disappointing for a patronage that barely made a showing in the big wind-swept grand stand, the crowd keeping as much as possible out of sight and the weather in the sheltered parts of the structure. The going was as queer and hard to classify as the horses that ran, for while the track looked damp and heavy the time was equal to the best of the meeting, and when Prince Imperial galloped in for the six furlongs handicap he got over the course in the fastest race that has been run by a two-year-old at the meeting.

There was little solace for the betting crowd in the success of two favorites, for both the winning choices were at practically prohibitive prices, and for a wind-up the three most marked upsets of the afternoon came in a row in the last three races of the programme. The chief of these was when August Belmont's Practical won the Sayville Stakes, at a mile and a sixteenth, by a head on the post, unbacked at odds of 15 to 1. Practical is full brother to Priscillian, which went through last season unbeaten, and so much was expected of Practical this season that he has done most of his racing following good horses home in stakes.

Practical was measured in the selling class in the Sayville and even there ran unheeded by the crowd and started as an outsider in a field of six, with Mary Davis and Dr. Holzberg nearly equal favorites. Mary Davis and Racquet went away from the post together in front in a smart brush for the track, and Mary Davis got clear in the lead on the first turn and raced on in front. At a good pace she raced in the lead, stringing her field out badly in the run to the bend into the stretch, and there seemed to have the stakes won, when Practical second to that point, moved after her. Practical tired first, but under punishment he hung on, and still was hanging on when, within the last sixteenth of a mile, Mary Davis began to tire and stop, too. The others of the field were closing on them, and into the last twenty yards it looked like any horse's race. In the last strides Mary Davis came down to a canter, and Practical, ready to stop in his tracks, caught her in the last jump and beat her a head, Dr. Holzberg, coming on from behind, finishing third a length and a half away. The summaries:

PIRATES HONORED AT HOME.

Pittsburg Holds Big Celebration for World's Champion Baseball Club.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Oct. 18.—Pittsburg was baseball mad again to-night, the time officially set for the great celebration in honor of the Pittsburg Baseball Club, winners of the world's championship. Traffic along Fifth Avenue, in the downtown section of the city, was abandoned early in the evening, the street car company running cars by other routes. This street as far as Oakland, where Forbes Field is situated, was roped off this afternoon in preparation for the monster parade to-night.

The various divisions of the great parade began to move by 7:30 o'clock. Led by Mayor Magee and the members of his cabinet, and all the members of the Pittsburg Baseball Club, the Fourteenth and Eighteenth Regiments of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, they formed the vanguard of the most unique assemblage that ever traversed the streets of this city. Practically every political club of Allegheny County was in line, as were about 100 athletic organizations, the members marching in uniform. Each section of the city constituted a division of the parade, while the business men and various trades unions marched in another class. Every "rooter" in this section had been publicly invited to participate in the celebration, the newspapers of the city furnishing bands and attending to the formation of the baseball enthusiasts.

Forbes Field was taxed to its capacity, the great amphitheatre being unable to seat the multitude which covered the playing field. Mayor Magee, Congressman James Francis Burke, and other prominent citizens of the city were among those who made addresses, each member of the ball club being introduced to the vast crowd and forced to make a remark of some sort. Mayor Magee presented each player with a check for his share of the receipts of the world's series, and pandemonium reigned at the park as each man stepped to the platform to receive his award.

Charles (Babe) Adams, the pitcher who led his team mates to victory three times during the series, was the recipient of a great ovation, and besides the check as his share of the receipts received a purse of over $1,000 as a testimonial of his great work.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 18.—The citizens of Detroit to-night banqueted the Detroit American League champion baseball team. Ex-Mayor George P. Codd was toastmaster, and among the speakers were Congressman Edwin W. Denby, Mayor Breitmyer, and Hughie Jennings. About 250 baseball enthusiasts attended the dinner.

Connecticut League Averages.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 18.—The official averages of the players and teams in the Connecticut Baseball League for the past season were announced to-day. New Britain led in the batting with 272 per cent., with Waterbury second, New Haven third, and Springfield, Holyoke, Hartford, Bridgeport, and Northampton in order. In fielding Hartford was first with 954 per cent, Northampton and Holyoke coming next with 940, and Waterbury, New Haven, New Britain, Bridgeport, and Springfield in order. Northampton led in the number of stolen bases, 296; Springfield in sacrifice hits, 234; New Britain in two-base hits, 221; Waterbury in three-base hits, 67, and Holyoke in home runs, 81.

Following are the leaders of the individual averages with percentages: Pitcher, Fisher, Hartford, .827; batting, McCabe, New Britain, .366; fielding, catcher, Connor, Springfield, .980; pitcher, Coffin, Springfield, and Stevens, Northampton, each 1.000; first baseman, O'Brien, New Haven, .993; second baseman, Warner, Hartford, .979; third baseman, Bronkie, Waterbury, .935; shortstop, McCormack, Holyoke, .922; outfielder, Hart, Hartford, 976.

Papke Wants to Fight Ketchel.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—A telegram from Papke received to-day, offering to fight Ketchel on a winner-take-all basis and an unlimited side bet, is an aftermath of the Johnson-Ketchel fight of Saturday. The Illinois middleweight declared that his one idea was to get another fight with his old rival, whom he has already faced four times. Negotiations are under way for a fight between Sam Langford and Tommy Burns. Jack Gleason, a promoter, says these two fighters will be brought together for a limited round bout in this city during the Winter season.

Burns Willing to Fight Johnson.

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Oct. 18.—"Tommy" Burns, the Canadian heavyweight who was defeated by Jack Johnson in a fight for the world's heavyweight championship here Dec. 26 last, announced to-day that if the American promoters were unable to arrange a match between Jeffries and Johnson he was willing to again meet Johnson, the winner to take all of the purse.

Welsh-Summers Bout Nov. 8.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The lightweight battle between Freddie Welsh and Johnny Summers, scheduled for the National Sporting Club tonight, was postponed until Nov. 8. The bout will be for the lightweight championship of England.

Connecticut League Meeting.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 18.—At the annual meeting of the Connecticut Baseball League to-day an annual salary of $500 was voted to Secretary-Treasurer James H. O'Rourke of Bridgeport. It is the first time the league has had a salaried official, President W. J. Tracy of Bristol, Conn., refusing even to accept reimbursement for the money he actually expended. President Tracy holds office for another year, as he was elected last year for a two-year term. He announced to-day that he will not serve after this term is completed. Vice President A. E. Taylor of Chicopee and Secretary-Treasurer O'Rourke were re-elected. The matter of adopting an individual salary limit and of raising the game guarantee from $40 to $60, was laid over to a meeting to be held in Hartford during the last part of next month.

5,000 Hunters Get Licenses in Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 18.—In anticipation of the opening of the gunning season in the southern part of the State, Nov. 15, over 5,000 resident licenses to hunt have been taken out at the cost of $1 each under the new law. Deer may be shot on each Wednesday in November, and it is in anticipation of this that there is a rush now for licenses.

Wheeling Club Awarded Pennant.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 18.—The regular annual Fall meeting of the Directors of the Central Baseball League was held here today. The Wheeling Club was formally awarded the pennant for 1909. According to the report made by the Treasurer the finances of the organization are in good shape, and the amount of money in the treasury is about the same as the organization had last year.

GOLD MEDAL FOR BOY WHO GOT CHAUFFEUR

HENRY CLEWS PRAISES HIM

Advises the Boy Not to be Backward in Wearing Medal Where It Can Be Seen —Mrs. Callaghan Tells of Bribe Offer.

The National Highways Protective Society gave a prize party yesterday afternoon at its office, 6 West Twenty-eighth Street, and made its first presentation of a medal for valor. This was to George Washington Callaghan, 434 West Twenty-third Street, who on the evening of Oct. 1, riding the wheel guard of taxicab No. 62,322, was the means of capturing the chauffeur, John O'Hanlon, whose car had run over and killed Elizabeth Botts, 21 years old.

The organization, of which Henry Clews is President, is composed of prominent men, and this was the first time that by showing its commendation in the form of a medal it has offered an incentive to the public at large to assist in its protective work. The medal of gold, nearly as large as a silver dollar, was attached by several links of chain to a bar pin bearing the name of the recipient. It has irregular edges, and the figure of a woman with a shield on which is the date "09" on one side and on the other the words, "Presented by the National Highways Protective Society for Valor Friday, Oct. 1."

Young Callaghan, a nice-looking, well-dressed boy, was present with his mother. He told the story of his adventure, and received the congratulations of the members of the society present.

Lieut. Quinn of the Sixty-eighth Street Police Station told George he had the making of a detective in him, and a policeman on his own block, when he returned, took him to a nearby drug store to have his wounds dressed, all of which was something of a compensation and pretty exciting, anyway.

President Henry Clews told the boy that of many pleasures in his life the presentation of the medal was one of the greatest, for the society was organized to protect the people against just such reckless driving. He showed that he meant it by shaking hands three times with George.

There was applause as Mr. Clews presented the medal in a handsome box as a token of the "admiration and respect of the society."

"You have mettle in you as pure as the gold metal of which it is made, and we are proud of you," said Mr. Clews. "Do not be backward in wearing the medal where it can be seen. Your deed was one which justified you in getting the glory and credit which belongs to you."

Mr. Clews shook hands with the boy. Secretary Col. Edward S. Cornell pinned the medal on his coat, Mrs. Callaghan came forward and kissed her boy, and Mr. Clews, the boy, and his mother, with the members of the society, all had a flashlight picture taken.

Mrs. Callaghan said that two men had called upon her since the arrest of the chauffeur, saying that it would be worth $1,000 to the family if she would send her boy out of the State for a time, and that his board would be paid. Now she is afraid to have him leave the house.

"Your boy has done well," said one of the members of the society, shaking hands with Mrs. Calaghan, "but don't let him get a swelled head now."

Among the members of the society present were Vice President A. D. Middleton, Treasurer Col. Gilford Hurry, F. Augustus Schermerhorn, Cleveland H. Dodge, Joseph H. Colt, Col. Frederick N. Lawrence, William H. Llewellyn, Col. F. W. Brooks, and J. A. Brown, President of the Chauffeurs' Club.

Life Savers to Receive Medals To-day.

The annual presentation of medals for rescues from drowning by the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps will take place this afternoon in the Aldermanic Chamber. President McGowan will preside, and Alderman Doull will make the presentation speech.

WOMEN DEFY TRAINMEN.

Many Passengers for Bath Beach Refuse to Change Cars.

Sixty passengers, about twenty of them women, refused to leave the last two cars of a West End train last evening when they were told to take the cars ahead for a continuation of their journey from Seventy-fourth Street to Bath Beach. They insisted that the guards at the bridge had announced that the last cars would go through to Bath Beach, and they held their ground.

The rest of the train was sent ahead, and the last two cars were shunted to a side track, where they remained for nearly half an hour before being sent back to Thirty-sixth Street. There the train dispatcher refused to send the cars to Bath Beach, as the passengers demanded, and they left the cars.

They appointed several of their number a committee to carry the grievance to the Public Service Commission, and Commissioner Bassett was reached by telephone and agreed to receive the committee this morning.

MAN OF 83 BADLY BEATEN.

Matthew Flood Murderously Assaulted in Room and Son Arrested.

Matthew Flood, 83 years old, was assaulted in his bedroom in the rear of a candy store which he owns at 411 Warren Street, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning. The police of the Butler Street Station suspect his son, Jeremiah, 47 years old, who was arrested and held later in the Butler Street Court in $500 bail for examination to-day. At present he is charged with vagrancy and intoxication. Mrs. Flood, the daughter-in-law of the aged man, was also arrested with her husband. She was paroled on the charge of vagrancy.

Matthew Flood was removed to the Long Island College Hospital in an unconscious condition. On account of his age the surgeons there believe that his injuries may prove fatal. About fifteen scalp wounds were found on his head, and his arms were badly cut.

Harvard Has More Students.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—The first gain in registration at Harvard University in five years is shown in the figures for this year, announced to-day. Excepting the Summer school, Andover Theological Seminary and Radcliffe College, the total registration for the University is 3,994, a gain of 125 over the registration figures of last year. A gain of seventy-one students in the law school brought the attendance there to 307. The dental school shows an increase of twenty-two students.

Lights Sway Above Electrical Show.

A circle of twelve arc lights of 4,500 candle power each, swaying in a circle about 500 feet above Madison Square Garden, attracted much attention last night. The circle of light, which seemed to float unattached in the air, was fixed to a balloon that hovered invisible against the dark sky, and the whole was one of the displays of the Electrical Show now holding forth at the Garden.

SHIPPERS APPEAL TO ROADS.

Oppose Expected Increase in Freight Rates—To Meet in Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A meeting of important shipping interests of the country is to be held in Cincinnati to-morrow night to consider the prospective action of the railways in the Eastern part of the country toward increasing freight rates in the territory east of the Mississippi River. No determination has been reached as yet by the railroads to increase the rates, but the question is under advisement, and the advance will be made, probably in the near future, if the conditions, in the judgment of the railways officials, justify it.

Apprehending that such an advance is likely, many of the organizations of shippers throughout the Middle Western country have joined in a call for the meeting at Cincinnati. In addition they have prepared a letter which was addressed to W. C. Brown, President of the New York Central lines; Oscar G. Murray, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, and James McCrea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, setting forth the reasons, as they view them, for not making an advance in the freight rates.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—President McCrea of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in a letter to commercial bodies and firms in Cincinnati, Dayton, Indianapolis, and other points east of the Mississippi River, denies that the "question of general advance in freight rates, or in classification, is now under consideration or contemplated." He says further that C. C. McCain, who issues the pamphlet upon which the letters to Presidents Brown, Murray, and McCrea were based, "does not speak for the carriers, but solely for himself."

SEABOARD LINE'S BIG ORDER.

Awards Contracts for Fifteen Passenger Engines and 1,000 Box Cars.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 18.—The Seaboard Air Line Railway at Portsmouth, Va., today awarded contracts for fifteen passenger and five switch engines, 1,000 box cars, 25 stock cars, and one sixty-ton steam wrecking car, together with passenger equipment, including three passenger coaches, three combination passenger and baggage coaches, four combination mail and baggage cars, and five express cars.

The engine contracts went to the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, the freight equipment to the Pressed Steel Car Company of New York and Pittsburg, and the passenger equipment to the Barney & Smith Car Company of Dayton, Ohio. The contract prices were not announced.

PLACING MORE BONDS ABROAD

Speyer & Co. Send $6,000,000 of San Francisco Road's Issue to Germany.

Announcement was made yesterday that Speyer & Co. and their associates have placed $6,000,000 St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad general lien fifteen to twenty year 5 per cent. gold bonds with Lazard Speyer-Ellison of Frankfort and the Deutsche Bank of Berlin.

This does not represent an additional sale of bonds by the railroad, but the placing of part of the bonds previously acquired from the railroad by Speyer & Co. It is understood that these bonds are to be introduced in the Frankfort market by the bankers with whom this block of bonds has been placed.

Some months ago a block of $10,000,000 of bonds of this same issue were placed in Paris.

SUES ON ROOSEVELT BOOKS.

Court Says Man Who Would Pay $10,000 for a Set Incompetent.

Supreme Court Justice Truax heard an application made to him yesterday by Jesse Watson of 60 Wall Street, who had started to buy an edition de luxe of "the complete writings of Theodore Roosevelt," in twenty-two volumes, at $300 a volume. Mr. Watson asked for leave to examine the officers of the Keller-Farmer Company as to a suit brought against him by that firm to recover $6,600 for the books.

In opposition to the application S. P. Goldman said that he paid $10,000 for an edition de luxe of one book by Grover Cleveland, and that the works of Roosevelt were of the value claimed for them.

Justice Truax then remarked:

"Speaking unofficially, and not directing my remarks toward any special writer, author, or purchaser, I am of the opinion that any person who pays $10,000 or any such sum for one of these de luxe editions is an incompetent."

The court then took the case under advisement.

TELL OF KINDBERG WILL.

Landladies Say He Was Ill When He Signed It.

The contest of the last will of Edward O. Kindberg of 219 East Seventeenth Street, whose estate is said to be worth $90,000, was continued yesterday before Surrogate Thomas. The Presbyterian Hospital and Charles A. Kindberg, brother of the testator, are the contestants.

The Misses Susan and Katherine McGee, in whose house Mr. Kindberg boarded, and Henry Clark, who acted as nurse during Mr. Kindberg's last illness, testified that Kindberg and August Reymert, a lawyer, of 17 State Street, who drew up the last will, in which he was named as residuary legatee, soon after the death of Mrs. Kindberg, began to drink heavily together, and often came home intoxicated. The drinking habit, according to the witnesses, grew rapidly on Kindberg, and last March he became ill and died within a few weeks.

According to the testimony, Kindberg was in a comatose condition the last three or four days of his illness, and when Reymert came with the will for him to sign he had to be aroused to sign it. Half an hour later, said the witnesses, Kindberg cried out, asking where Reymert was, as he had promised to come and see him that day.

The contest will be continued to-day.

DANIEL FROHMAN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Margaret Illington Accuses the Theatrical Manager of Desertion.

SHE TIRED OF THE STAGE

Wanted a Domestic Life and Children —Denies She Will Wed Again— Suit Brought in Nevada.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Daniel Frohman, more familiarly known by her stage name of Margaret Illington, to-day filed suit for divorce in the District Court of this city. She alleges desertion and failure to provide. She states in the complaint that they were married on Nov. 22, 1903, in New York City, and that he has not provided for her for the past two years. She states that there is no community property and no children.

Since coming to Reno Margaret Illington has lived very quietly, avoiding all other members of the divorce colony, and spending most of her time in the hills with children or riding with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Light. She has a home on Moran Street, and during the Summer cared for a little garden, where she not only raised vegetables enough for herself, but also for her neighbors. Her principal pastime has been riding, and she had her horse shipped by express from New York to Reno in order to enjoy this recreation.

Margaret Illington and Daniel Frohman, the theatrical manager, were married while Miss Illington was playing the leading part in "A Japanese Nightingale" at Daly's Theatre in this city. Mr. Frohman was then the manager of that playhouse.

Miss Illington's real name was Maud Light, and she was born in Bloomington, Ill. She came to New York in 1900 and applied to Mr. Frohman for a theatrical engagement. Her experience on the stage had been limited, but Mr. Frohman saw in her the making of a good actress and employed her. After playing in many leading parts all over the United States Miss Illington announced in December of last year that she would retire from the stage. She gave as her reason the fact that the exacting work of her rôle in "The Thief" had broken down her health.

On Feb. 14 last Mr. Frohman announced that he and his wife intended to separate. The reason he gave was that Mrs. Frohman desired to live permanently in California, where the climate always agreed with her. At that time an "ultimate" divorce was spoken of, and it was said that both parties had agreed to the action. It was rumored in April that after she had obtained her divorce Miss Illington was to wed Edward J. Bowles of San Francisco. In denying the report Miss Illington said:

"I am to get a divorce from Mr. Frohman, but it is not because I want to marry Mr. Bowles or any one. I left Mr. Frohman because I could not be happy on the stage. The life of an actress is abnormal. I crave domesticity, home life, children. I want to darn socks. When I found that Mr. Frohman intended to keep me on the stage always, my love died. I saw then no chance of the domestic life I craved, so we parted."

Mrs. Frohman went to Reno, Nev., last Spring to stay the necessary six months required to establish a residence there for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

WARNS SCIENCE HEALERS.

Trustees Advise Them Not to Take Property Unless Bought at Full Value.

Ever since the Supreme Court in Brooklyn took away the title of a $16,000 house from Miss Agnes Young, a practitioner in the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, and restored it to Miss Greta M. Arthur, a cripple, the trustees of the Second Church have been investigating the matter. Charges that undue influence had been used by Miss Young were made in court, and Miss Arthur testified that she had been "drugged and stimulated" by the Christian Science practitioner in order to get her to deed over the property for a sum far less than its real value.

The Second Church trustees completed their investigation yesterday, and issued an announcement warning other practitioners to let other people's property alone unless it was purchased at its real value.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

AARON REINHARDT.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Aaron Reinhardt, dealer in millinery, 272 and 274 Sixth Avenue, by Olcott, Gruber, Bonynge & McManus, for these creditors: Morris Goldzier, $150; Max Feist, $400, and Goodkind & Robinson, $108. It was alleged that he is insolvent and made transfers of part of his property to certain creditors to prefer them. Mr. Reinhardt has been in business since 1880. He went through bankruptcy in 1899. Irving L. Ernst of Olcott, Gruber, Bonynge & McManus said that the liabilities are $90,000 and the assets probably $20,000, and he understood an offer of settlement would be made to the creditors soon.

GEORGE W. BUSKIRK.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against George W. Buskirk, stationer, at 649 Sixth Avenue, by these creditors: J. E. Linde Paper Company, $595; Rehahn Printing Company, $80, and Bernard J. Schaefer, $249. It was alleged that he is insolvent, and on Oct. 16 admitted in writing inability to pay his debts, and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt. The business was established in 1864 by his father, and he has carried it on since 1892. The assets are estimated at $10,000 in stock and outstanding accounts.

SAM GREENBERG.—Sam Greenberg, a salesman, of 845 East 155th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $3,770 and nominal assets of $1,579, consisting of accounts, $1,335, and notes, $244. Among the creditors are M. Gutman & Son, $1,600; State Bank, $719; M. Siegler & Son, $802, and Century Silk Company, $379. The debts were contracted in 1906 and 1907 for woolens, silks, &c.

WOLF GOLDSTEIN.—Wolf Goldstein, 213 East 102d Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,643, contracted in 1904, for cloth, and no assets.

ISIDOR GANZ.—Isidor Ganz of 96 Second Avenue has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $4,425, and no assets. He has four creditors, the largest being Philip Reinherz, $3,743, on a guarantee bond, in 1906.

NELSON M. PATTISON.—Nelson M. Pattison, dentist, 501 Fifth Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,607 and assets of $702 in outstanding accounts. The debts are for money loaned, materials, work, and carriage hire.

ZULMA DE LACY ROBINSON.—Zulma De Lacy Robinson, a widow, living at 2686 Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,349 and no assets. She has only two creditors, John P. Scannel, 729 Sixth Avenue, $1,000, loans, and Mary E. Thayer, $349, on a lease.

JOHN G. STEINERT.—John G. Steinert, insurance agent, formerly a shoe dealer at Kingston, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $6,791 and no assets. He made an assignment on Jan. 25, 1909. The assets realized $1,073 and the creditors received a dividend of 15 4-5 per cent.

JACOB COHEN.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Jacob Cohen, cloak manufacturer, 45 West Twenty-fifth Street, show liabilities of $313,038, of which $279,200 are secured and nominal assets of $233,711, consisting of cash in hands of the receiver, $3,000; accounts, $711; claim for fire insurance loss, $70,000; assigned to the State Bank and real estate, $160,000, mortgage for $225,500. He also has some stock in a dry goods company of Kansas City, value unknown, which has been assigned to the State Bank. Among the creditors are the State Bank, $109,200, secured by fire insurance claim, life insurance, mortgages, accounts, and wife's jewelry; Lawyers' Mortgage Company, $170,000, secured; Manhattan Woolen Company, $6,152; American Woolen Company, $2,954; S. M. Hexter & Co., Cleveland, $2,766; Mrs. A. Cohen, $3,000; Harry Cohen, $792; Consolidated Gas Company, $196; New York Edison Company, $86; New York Telephone Company, $70.

BERTHA JOSEPHINE KNOEPFLIN BOENIGER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Bertha Josephine Knoepflin Boeniger, milliner, 32 West Forty-fifth Street, show liabilities of $3,986 and assets of $825 on stock and accounts. She has also an interest in some land in Suffolk County, Long Island, left by her father, the value of which is small.

W. PLATT FISHER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of W. Platt Fisher, boarding house, Catskill, N. Y., show liabilities of $13,245 and assets of $4,954, consisting of real estate, $2,975; furniture, $1,900; horses, wagons, hogs, cows, and hay, $975; cash, $4.

SEMMEL & POLLACK.—Semmel & Pollack, wholesale dealers in live poultry, of 611 East Eighteenth Street, have disagreed, and Judge Blanchard of the Supreme Court has appointed Gilbert D. Montague receiver of the partnership property, in a suit brought by Sigmund Semmel against Mendel Pollack for a dissolution of the partnership, which was formed on Jan. 25, 1905.

Stocks Active and Irregular—Call Money Rates, 3¾@4¾ Per Cent.

INTERBORO ISSUES ADVANCE

Rise in Shares Attributed to Political Situation—Demand Sterling Moves Up Again—Money Trifle Easier.

A sharp rise shortly after the opening yesterday was set down on the Stock Exchange as due to the unexpectedly favorable showing of the local banks in their Clearing House statement on Saturday after the close of business. Whatever its origin, the movement failed to hold, and in response to direct pressure upon the steel shares and Union Pacific the list as a whole sagged, with losses of from 1 to 2 points from the morning's high prices in the more active issues. Late in the day support for Steel and a covering movement in other directions strengthened prices, final quotations disclosing unimportant changes up or down from Saturday's levels. The so-called Hawley stocks, including Chicago & Alton and Missouri, Kansas & Texas, were features of the trading, rising sharply on an unusually large volume of business early in the day and resisting the reactionary tendencies later. Anticipation of improved earnings as a result of the further rounding out of the system of which these roads are a part undoubtedly explains the buying of these shares, although it is quite within the possibilities that speculation is also under way in them. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred and common were likewise strong throughout, and the disposition was to connect their movements with the political situation in this city. The exact bearing of local politics upon these stocks is not too clear, however, particularly so since there is involved in the forthcoming election no change in the Public Service Commission. In a news way the day was rather barren. To take the place of actual developments in the financial world there were for the most part only reports of various kinds. Among these were forecasts of the Union Pacific's annual report to be issued shortly, the earnings of which are expected to show at least 19 per cent. on the stock, and similar predictions regarding the Steel Corporation's earnings for the third quarter of the present year, the actual figures of which will be made public on Tuesday next. Preliminary estimates place the amount at some $38,000,000. Heavy orders for railroad supplies were again announced, Lehigh Valley contracting for over 2,000 cars.

Opposed to the easier tendency of call money rates was the further sharp advance in demand sterling in the foreign exchange market. The drop to 3¾ per cent. for demand loans here is readily explained by the additions to banking surplus on Saturday, and the rise in exchange is perhaps in part due to this decline, although the advance of three-quarters of a cent in something less than a week is exceptional under the circumstances. The Bank of England was able to secure without competition yesterday $3,000,000 South African gold arriving in London, and appears to have imposed its rates upon the English money market. Local banks reported a smaller loss to the Sub-Treasury than in previous weeks, but the outcome of money movements is, of course, still obscure, with the probabilities against any such loan reduction as has been accomplished in the past two weeks.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

SEARS-ROEBUCK IS HIGHER

Activity in the Common Shares Continues with Higher Prices Made—Coppers Irregular but Active.

The new week started well on the Curb yesterday with a considerable volume of trading, though price movements, more particularly in the mining list, were inconsiderable. Among the industrials Sears-Roebuck was again strong and unusually active. The price rose from 129 to 133, 5½ points above Saturday's close, and after transactions of 965 shares closed at 131. Chicago Subway also showed up strongly, continuing its recovery from the recent slump. The close after sales of 4,200 was at 8½. The coppers were somewhat irregular, but both Cumberland-Ely and Nevada Consolidated were strong, the latter selling 9,100 shares.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Expect Record Steel Earnings.

On the floor of the Stock Exchange yesterday the conflicting movements in United States Steel created much curiosity. It was said by traders that at no time since the campaign in Steel began around the level of 40 had the stock seemed so sensitive to either buying or selling orders. One man asserted that when the stock was selling at 92½ it was impossible for him even to guess how far it would have moved in either direction if he had been called upon to execute either a buying or selling order for 10,000 shares. The conclusion from these facts seemed to be that the so-called "floating supply" of the stock is concentrated in an exceptional degree. The only thing discussed in connection with the Steel Corporation itself yesterday was the probable character of the quarterly report to be issued next week, and upon this there seemed to be no difference of opinion, the general expectation being that earnings would amount to at least $38,000,000, and that unfilled orders might approach the highest figures ever recorded.

No Rock Island Report Now.

In place of an annual report the stockholders of the Rock Island, at their annual meeting yesterday, received from an official of the company the information that the earnings of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific for the year amounted to about 8¼ per cent. upon its $75,000,000 of stock. If this were all the Rock Island Company could depend upon as justification for restoring the dividend upon its preferred shares in the near future it would be little enough, but the company since the close of the fiscal year has been in receipt of largely increased earnings, and it is to these and their future growth that the management is looking.

Forecasting Pacifics' Surplus.

Forecasts of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific earnings for the last fiscal year made their appearance in Wall Street yesterday, although the annual reports of the two properties are not expected for ten days or two weeks at least. According to these forecasts the Union Pacific report will show a surplus over charges equal to about 19 per cent. on the outstanding common stock of the road, while that of the Southern Pacific will reveal a surplus of approximately $27,000,000, or 10½ per cent. on its stock. Union Pacific Directors are scheduled to meet on Thursday, and it is expected at that time the organization of the new board will be effected and a President elected. The general belief is that Judge Lovett will be called upon to assume the office along with the Chairmanship of the Executive Committee.

Loans on High-Priced Stocks.

The comment was passed on Well-Fargo yesterday that the jump in that stock from 356¼ to 450 made it more than ever a rich man's stock, by which the Street means a stock selling so high and subject to such wide fluctuations that it takes a lot of money to buy or even to carry it on margin. It is difficult to handle such stocks because of the fact, among others, that banks do not freely loan on such stocks except at prices much below current quotations for them. In this connection it was recalled yesterday that during the panic of 1907 Mrs. Hettie Green offered to the bankers to whom she customarily makes loans to advance money on Delaware, Lackawanna & Western at the ordinary margin under the market. So great was her confidence in the intrinsic worth of the stock that she was willing to take the chance of wide fluctuations occurring during the panic. That she was right about the stock has been shown since the panic, for Lackawanna since October, 1907, has advanced several hundred points.

Concerning Sears-Roebuck Stock.

The rise in the common stock of Sears, Roebuck & Co., which has been marked since the company increased its annual disbursement on this issue to 6 per cent., continued yesterday, the shares going as high as 133. In conection with the dividend declaration an injustice has been done the New York bankers in the Directorate of the company in gossip which intimated that insde sources were responsible for stories that an increase would not be made in the dividend. On the contrary, the company's intention of raising the dividend rate was frankly discussed with stockholders for some months in advance of the action.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

In nearly all instances the low quotations for the day of the Consolidated Exchange were higher than the figures reached on the other board. Trading was heavy, and the total sales were 135,450 shares. Sixty-five different issues changed hands during the course of the day. United States Steel common continued the leader as to volume, with its sales 50,230 shares. Its high price was 92⅞, compared with 93 on the other board, while its low was 90⅝, against 90¼. At the close it was bid for strongly, with the final transactions at 91½, compared with a closing quotation on the other Exchange of 91¼.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—Philadelphia traders in stocks gave little heed to anything in the local market except the speculation in United States Steel shares, which monopolized an even larger proportion of the total transactions than at the close of last week. Fully 75 per cent. of the business done during the first three hours was in Steel common, nearly 20,000 shares of that issue being sold during the period, while the only other stock in which sales exceeded 1,000 shares in that time was Reading. Total sales amounted to 40,537 shares, of which 29,550 were United States Steel common.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Sears-Roebuck common furnished the sensational feature of the local stock market and sold up to 130½ within a few moments at the opening, compared with 126¼ Saturday at the close. During the forenoon it extended its rise to 133, closing at 132. However this may be, the pool has the stock well in hand. Subway also advanced up to 8⅞, eased off some, and closed the day at 8½, while Title and Trust had 1½ points to its credit. Brick was fractionally higher.

WELLS-FARGO UP $93.75 IN A DAY

Express Company Shares Jump from $356.25 to $450—Takes Exchange by Surprise.

NEXT TO HIGHEST RECORD

Advance Beaten Only by the Northern Pacific Corner in May, 1901—No Explanation Offered.

The stock of Wells Fargo & Co. made a jump of $93.75 a share on the Stock Exchange yesterday, which brokers say is the record jump in one day for any listed stock with the exception of the flight upward of Northern Pacific from around 200 to 1,000 during the corner on the famous May 9, 1901.

Wells Fargo stock is seldom seen on the Exchange, but a month ago, just after Mr. Harriman's death, the bid and asked prices began to mount steadily, and on Oct. 9 a sale was made at 356¼, which was a rise of 31¼ points over the last sale made some months before. Yesterday there were 400 shares traded in, 300 of the shares selling at 450, the highest price on record for the stock.

There have been no developments in the company's affairs of late to account for the rise except the very favorable showing made in the annual report, and as far as could be learned yesterday no plans for a distribution to stockholders in any form have been formulated. Specialists in express stocks have, however, been dwelling on this possibility since the death of E. H. Harriman, who had long dominated the company's policy.

Three years ago stockholders fought out the issue of increased distribution of profits, but E. H. Harriman and his associates bought up a large number of the protesting shares and held the company's large surplus intact, placating the minority interest with an increase in the dividend from 8 to 10 per cent.

What the stockholders were then fighting for was some immediate participation in the cash surplus of nearly $13,000,000 which was loaned out on Stock Exchange collateral. There was also in the company's treasury over $5,000,000 in stocks and bonds.

The last annual report showed that the loan account had run up to $17,165,142, and the stocks and bonds owned totaled $6,961,374.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Stock Exchange firm of Newburger, Henderson & Loeb has opened a branch office at 22 West Thirty-third Street, under the management of W. L. MacLellan and A. E. Foran.

Charles H. Carruthers, formerly with Charles G. Carrol & Co., is now doing business under the firm name of Charles H. Carruthers & Co., at 55 Wall Street, making a specialty of bank, trust, and insurance company stocks.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Lanston Monotype Company has been called for Oct. 28, to authorize an increase of the capital stock of the company from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The par value of the shares will be increased from $20 to $100.

The Wall Street Journal will give a dinner to George Paish, editor of The London Statist, at the Waldorf to-morrow.

Twenty shares of Bank of Commerce sold on the Stock Exchange yesterday at 194 and five shares at 193.

Sales of Comstock Tunnel were made on the Stock Exchange yesterday at 32 cents and 31 cents, 400 shares changing hands.

A party of officers of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, including President Clarence Mackay and Vice President C. C. Adams, left for Chicago yesterday on a tour of inspection of the company's properties. The territory to be gone over will extend as far as the Pacific Coast, and the itinerary ebraces about 10,000 miles of lines.

THE FOREIGN MARKETS.

Foreign Gold Demand Checked and Discounts Harden in London.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Money was in smaller supply and dearer on the market to-day, owing to the Bank of England borrowing in order to make the 4 per cent. rate effective. Discounts, therefore, hardened. The higher Bank rate checked the foreign gold demand, which enabled the Bank to secure the bulk of the $3,000,000 available at a reduced price.

Trading on the Stock Exchange was featureless. Consols eased on dearer money, which also checked speculation. Russians were strong among the foreigners, while Paris bought Kaffirs quietly.

After a quiet opening American securities improved under the lead of Union Pacific and United States Steel, and, despite several fractional recessions, the market at noon was steady from ⅛ to 1 point higher than Saturday's New York closing. New York advanced prices in the afternoon, and the market closed steady except in the case of United States Steel, which was easy. Copper shares were strong.

Bar silver steady, 23½d per ounce.

Money, 2¼@2¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3¾ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3⅞ per cent.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm. Rio Tintos were higher on the rumor of the formation of an American copper syndicate. The private rate of discount is 2⅝ per cent., an advance of ⅛.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 75c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 16½c for checks.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was dull.

Bank of Germany.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The weekly statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows the following changes: Cash in hand increased 2,833,000 marks, loans increased 44,248,000 marks, discounts decreased 97,544,000 marks, Treasury bills decreased 58,049,000 marks, notes in circulation decreased 134,723,000 marks, deposits decreased 13,953,000 marks, gold in hand increased 27,843,000 marks.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Statistics yesterday showed world's shipments of 15,104,000 bushels, or the largest in several years, including 9,000,000 from Russia and the Danube, and arrivals at all Western markets were 2,302,000 bushels, against 1,777,000 bushels a year ago. Liverpool closed ⅝d to 1d lower, while Berlin was 1¼c down. The domestic visible showed an increase of 2,564,000 bushels, which, with the Canadian increase of 2,368,000 bushels, made a total gain for the week of 4,932,000 bushels, compared with practically a similar increase last year. A large milling demand in the Northwest accounted for a midday advance. Cash wheat in New York closed easy. No. 2 red, $1.22⅛, nominal in elevator, domestic; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.15, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.22½, free on board, afloat, both nominal.

CORN—Cold, wet weather in the Western belt, the advance of ½d at Liverpool, and lighter carlot receipts at Chicago than expected, accounted for a strong showing yesterday. The visible supply increased 578,000 bushels. A car of new corn in from Indiana graded No. 2 white. Cash corn in New York was firm, although nominal; No. 2, 70¼c elevator, domestic, 70¾c delivered, and 71c free on board, afloat; No. 2 yellow, 71½c.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Nervousness Follows Strength—Closes 5 Points Up to 6 Points Down.

Cotton was very nervous yesterday, and after making new high records early in the day on apprehensions that intensely cold weather in the Northwest would work down into the belt, reacted under heavy realizing, with the close barely steady at a net decline of 6 points, to an advance of 5 points, generally 1 to 6 points lower.

The market opened steady at a decline of 8 points to an advance of 4 points, and developed firmness as the call progressed. Trading was very active and large blocks changed hands. At times New Orleans leaders bid for blocks of 10,000 and 20,000 bales. One of the recent heavy buyers was credited with realizing on fully 20,000 bales during the afternoon.

Liverpool closed steady at a net advance of 6½ to 8 points. Exports were very heavy, and for the season broke all corresponding records, being some 160,000 bales in excess of last year. Slightly smaller port receipts for the day were attributed to unsettled weather last week.

Southern spot markets were telegraphed as follows: Galveston, steady; ⅛c higher at 13⅝c; sales, 500 bales. Memphis firm; ⅛c higher at 13⅜c; sales, 3,300 bales. Houston steady; 1-16c lower at 13⅝c; sales, 172 bales. New Orleans steady; ⅛c higher at 13½c; sales, 4,000 bales. St. Louis firm; ⅛c higher at 13⅝c; sales, 844 bales. Mobile firm; unchanged at 13½c; sales, 200 bales. Savannah firm; unchanged at 13¼c; sales, 6,025 bales. Norfolk steady; ⅛c higher at 13⅝c; sales, 817 bales. Augusta steady; 1-16c higher at 13 9-16c; sales, 1,552 bales.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—There was considerable activity noted in the copper list to-day, and prices were higher as a rule. Superior Copper, which was the local leader, advanced easily to 60½, at which point a gain of 1¼ was shown. Amalgamated was in good demand, and Nevada Consolidated was more active than usual, the price advancing to 25 on what was considered excellent buying. The plan for the taking over of the Cumberland-Ely is regarded with favor on the Street. In the general list there was a full point gain in United States Oil and one of over a point in American Zinc. American Telephone was also higher. Shoe Machinery and United Fruit sagged on small dealings.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Herbert Du Puy Buys Hotel Langham, at Broadway and 103d Street—Deal for Upper Riverside Drive Apartment House.

Herbert Du Puy of Pittsburg, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Crucible Steel Company, who has acquired over $6,000,000 worth of real estate in this city, made another large addition to his holdings yesterday, when he bought, through L. J. Phillips & Co., the Hotel Langham, formerly known as the Marseille, at the southwest corner of Broadway and 103d Street, an eleven-story structure on plot 100.11 by 120. The property, which has been held at $1,000,000, was transferred to Mr. Du Puy for a nominal consideration over a mortgage of $525,000.

Mr. Du Puy's other purchases in this city, all made within the last year and a half, have included the twelve-story National Building, at the northeast corner of Broadway and Twelfth Street; the Hotel Empire, at Broadway and Sixty-third Street; the Van Dyck and Severn apartment houses, covering the block front on the east side of Broadway, between Seventy-second and Seventy-third Streets; the two-story store and office buildings on the west side of Broadway, from Eighty-second to Eighty-third Street, and twenty-two lots in the Dyckman section, on the south side of 211th Street, between Broadway and Tenth Avenue. The aggregate value of Mr. Du Puy's properties in this city is estimated at about $7,500,000.

In buying New York real estate, it appears that the Pittsburg capitalist is only following out a general plan of investment which was popular with his ancestors 150 years ago. Some of the properties owned by the earlier Du Puys are to-day among the most valuable in the city.

The early records in the Register's office show that in 1742 Dr. John Du Puy, one of the foremost Huguenots of New York, now buried in Trinity Churchyard, deeded to his son John for ten shillings and the natural love and affection which parents bear their sons, Lot 56 in Shoemaker's pasture, this being the property now known as 128 William Street. It was bought by Dr. Du Puy for £125 in 1721 and sold by his heirs for £292 in 1767. He also owned the adjoining lot, now 130 William Street, which he bought in 1714 at a little over $100. It was sold by his heirs in 1764 for $830. The two were known as his "Great Garden."

Another interesting deed shows that Dr. John Du Puy also owned the property now 27 and 29 Pine Street, the site of the building until recently owned and occupied by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. This he sold in 1742. It was then known as his "Little Garden," and was directly opposite the French Church. He also owned the northwest corner of William and Pine Streets, which was sold by his daughter, Mrs. Moshell, who inherited it. His own house, which he bought in 1714, was on the plot now known as 59 and 61 Pine Street.

Riverside Drive Apartments Sold.

Felix Fittichauer & Co. and Henry Fox have sold for the Riverside Viaduct Realty Company, Joseph Newmark, President, to H. B. Davis the six-story apartment house at the northeast corner of 127th Street and Riverside Drive, known as the Alabama.

Harry Schiff has sold through Henry Oppenheimer to an investor the new twelve-story apartment house, known as the Netherlands, at 340 to 346 West Eighty-sixth Street, on plot 100 by 102.2. The property has been held at $750,000.

Frederick Zittel & Sons have resold for Thomas J. McLaughlin 274 West Seventy-third Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on lot 17.3 by 76.8.

Deal on Maiden Lane.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd have sold for George W. Hunter and Edith H. Bourne the five-story building 166 Maiden Lane on lot 19 by 36 and irregular. This property adjoins the southwest corner of South Street and has been in the sellers' family since 1825.

37th Street Sale, Near Broadway.

F. E. Barnes and C. Patrick have sold for Louis Bernstein to a client of Arnstein & Levy, 136 and 138 West Thirty-seventh Street, old buildings on plot 48.8 by 98.9, between Broadway and Seventh Avenue.

$170,000 Loan by the Lewisohns.

Emanuel Doctor has borrowed $170,000 from Walter Lewisohn and others, as executors, on the property at the southwest corner of Edgecombe Avenue and 150th Street, 99.11 by 100. The mortgage is for five years at 5 per cent. interest.

The Tourneur Realty Company has secured a building loan of $110,000 from Sender Jarmulowsky on the property on the north side of Ninety-third Street, 425 feet west of Central Park West, 75 by 44.4 and irregular.

The Title Insurance Company of New York has made a building loan of $225,000 to Weschler & Noel on the property 169 to 175 West Seventy-ninth Street.

Operators Sell on 57th Street.

Lowenfeld & Prager have sold to an investor 448 West Fifty-seventh Street, a five-story double flat, on plot 33.4 by 100.5.

Margaret H. Todd has sold 263 West Twenty-second Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 18.9 by 98.9. The buyer is understood to be Joseph H. Hoadley, who owns 261 and 265, adjoining.

Canfield Leases a House.

Charles Minzesheimer & Co., bankers and brokers, have leased from Richard A. Canfield the four-story dwelling at 9 East Fifty-fifth Street, opposite the Hotel St. Regis. One of the branch offices of the firm is located in the hotel. This will be moved to the new quarters after extensive alterations to the building have been completed. The lease was negotiated by the Taylor-Sherman Company.

Goerck Street Property Sold.

The Brown Realty Company has bought from Isaac Lartin 125 Goerck Street, the four-story front and six-story rear buildings, on lot 21.3 by 100, adjoining the northwest corner of Stanton Street.

Justice Bischoff of the Supreme Court has appointed Leon A. Carley receiver of the rents of 3 West 137th Street pending a suit brought by John Staudt, as executor, against Samuel Schenker and others to foreclose a second mortgage of $12,000.

Jacob Katz has been appointed receiver of the rents of 65 Willett Street in a suit brought by Sigmund Kraus against Ida Hoffman and others to foreclose a mortgage of $8,000.

Tenant for Cortlandt St. Store.

George Ketchum has leased the store and basement at 65 Cortlandt Street to William A. Jensen for a term of years.

Heil & Stern have leased for the Brody, Adler & Koch Company in the new building they are erecting at 37 to 45 West Twentieth Street, two lofts containing 20,000 square feet of space for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $40,000.

The Ruland & Whiting Company has leased 321 Pearl Street to the New York and Brooklyn Paper Company, 388 Water Street to Nicholas Brussa, the store at 214 and 216 William Street to the American News Company, the third loft in 24 Cliff Street to Charles Letsche Company, the top floor in 480 Pearl Street to Copper & Maguie, the store at 146 Fulton Street, in conjunction with A. H. Matthews, to James A. Whitcomb; the second loft at 40 Fulton Street to Joseph Delpino, and the first loft in 93 John Street to Frank A. Weeks.

M. & L. Hess have leased the dwelling 64 West Thirty-seventh Street for Joseph J. O'Donohue for a term of years.

Charles J. McKenna, for several years connected with Frederick Fox & Co., and Folsom Brothers, has opened an office at 147 Fourth Avenue, where he will transact a general real estate business.

Company Gets Brook Ave. Property.

The Standard Lithographing Company took title yesterday to the plot, 70.5 by 112.5, on the east side of Brook Avenue, 377.8 feet south of 167th Street. The transfer was made by August F. Schwarzler for a nominal consideration over a mortgage on the property for $6,000. Another mortgage on the property for $26,000 was made by the new owners to the City Mortgage Company.

Cahn & Cahn have sold for M. Stichtenoth 360 and 362 East 169th Street, two three-story two-family houses on plot 40 by 95; also, for George Sauer and F. Shober, 597 East 136th Street, a four-story triple flat on lot 25 by 100.

Last week the Title Guarantee and Trust Company made eleven loans in the Bronx aggregating $206,550, this being in addition to a fair volume of business in Manhattan. The sales of mortgages in all departments of the company amounted to over $750,000 for the week, this total being made up of 220 separate mortgages.

Estate Sold at White Plains.

The country estate of Charles C. Lloyd on Soundview Avenue, White Plains, has been sold to Michael Kirtland of this city. Cooley & West negotiated the sale. It is understood that Mr. Lloyd was holding the property at $85,000. The buildings were completed only two or three years ago.

On Saturday George W. Bard sold on the premises thirty-three lots in Mount Vernon, just beyond the New York City line. The sale was well attended and a total of $21,000 was realized.

Clifford V. Brokaw to Build.

Clifford V. Brokaw will erect a Colonial residence, costing about $200,000, on the Walter E. Duryea estate at Glen Cove, L. I., which he purchased recently through William L. Hicks for $150,000. Plans for the dwelling, which will measure 200 by 60, have been prepared by Little & O'Connor. The Duryea estate comprises fifty-two acres.

FORCED LOT SALE AT BAYSIDE BEYOND FLUSHING.
Owing to the press of circumstances I have to sell my few remaining BAYSIDE lots at far below their value. BAYSIDE is improving every minute; its railway service will soon be perfect, but some one else must make the big profits, I cannot wait. North of Broadway is the beautiful McKnight estate, with its large and handsome residences. South of Broadway, across the street, are my lots, and these MUST BE SOLD. Free fare trains will run from Long Island City to Bayside Saturday at 1:30 P. M. and Sunday at 10:20 A. M., Oct. 23 and 24, and carriages will meet you at the Bayside station. My PRICES will be RUINOUSLY LOW—as low as $150 for some lots—and terms very easy. If you want lots for a BIG RISE and SURE PROFIT, be sure and come and bring your friends. I have arranged to have your money paid to the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, who will indorse all contracts, making you absolutely safe as to deed and title. For plans and prices address in our houses. We have the kind of apartments that are always in demand. Last Spring we had several hundred suites of but people came from every section—from Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx, New Jersey—and now we have comparatively few left. But those remaining are just the same as those which have rented so fast and proved so popular this Fall; electric lights, hardwood floors, Hill clothes dryers, wall safes, large closet space, modern refrigerators, steam heat, hot water, and above all, larger rooms than you are accustomed to. We really cannot tell you in type of all the superior points of these houses. But we are sure that should you once look into them you would be our tenant.

Renting Never Stops

6 and 7 Rooms at $30 to $42

Suppose you just jump on a Lenox Avenue express subway train and ride to Simpson Street Station in the Bronx. There you will find our 'bus, which in two minutes will have you at the prettiest apartment houses you have seen. As you approach the houses notice our PRIVATE PARKS for the exclusive use of tenants and their friends, with their tennis and croquet courts, swings, seesaws, sand piles, etc., where grown folk can have healthful recreation and children be free from street dangers.

OUR PRIVATE 'BUS SERVICE takes tenants to and from the subway station from 7 A. M. to 1 A. M. and takes the children to the district schools.

a.	11,275 shares of the capital stock of Baltimore and Harrisburg Railway Company, (Eastern Extension), of the par value of	$563,750
b.	23 shares of the capital stock of Potomac Valley Railroad Company of West Virginia, of the par value of	1,150

All corporate or other rights, privileges and franchises of Western Maryland Rail Road Company for or pertaining to the construction, maintenance use or operation of the above-mentioned lines of railroad, or any part thereof, and all privileges, franchises, properties, (real and personal,) rights and things owned by Western Maryland Rail Road Company for the purpose of or in connection with any of the above-mentioned lines of railroad, and any and all property of every kind and description owned by Western Maryland Rail Road Company and covered by and embraced in the General Lien and Convertible Mortgage of said Railroad Company as ascertained and determined by the decrees of foreclosure and sale hereinbefore mentioned and referred to.

II.

The above-mentioned property and premises will be sold in one parcel and as an entirety, subject, however, to the mortgages and liens upon the whole or upon various portions of said property and premises, as ascertained and set forth in said decrees and therein declared and found to be prior and superior to the lien created by said General Lien and Convertible Mortgage. Said liens are substantially as follows:

a.	Western Maryland Rail Road Company First Mortgage 4% bonds (amount authorized $50,000,000) outstanding	$42,518,000.00
b.	Potomac Valley Railroad Company First Mortgage 5% bonds, (the sinking fund held by the Trustee under this mortgage amounts to about $185,613.82)	1,300,000.00
c.	Piedmont and Cumberland Railroad Company First Mortgage 5% bonds	650,000.00
d.	West Virginia Central and Pittsburg Railway Company First Mortgage 6% bonds	3,250,000.00
e.	Coal and Iron Railway Company First Mortgage 5% bonds	1,000,000.00
f.	Prior liens on purchase-money mortgages and similar obligations	81,978.00
g.	Certain properties in Baltimore City, Hagerstown, Westminster, and Penn-Mar in the State of Maryland, used for station or terminal facilities, are subject to certain annual ground rents amounting to	2,180.97

III.

The Special Master will receive no bid from any one offering to bid at such sale, unless such person so offering to bid shall have first deposited with the Special Master, as a pledge that he will make good his bid in case of its acceptance, the sum of $250,000 in cash.

The Special Master will accept no bid for said railroads, franchises, property and premises less than the sum of $6,500,000; and unless such sum shall be bid, the Special Master will adjourn the sale.

Any deposits or payments required by the terms of this notice or of said foreclosure decrees to be made in cash, may be made by delivery of a certified check or checks, or a certificate or certificates of deposit upon or issued by The Equitable Trust Company of New York, or upon or issued by any National bank or other trust company, in favor of or to the order of the Special Master and satisfactory to him. In case any bidder or purchaser shall fail to make good his bid upon its acceptance by the Special Master, by making any of the additional payments as provided in said foreclosure decrees, in consummation of his purchase, then the sums paid or deposited by such bidder or purchaser shall be forfeited as a penalty for such failure, and shall be applied toward payment of the expenses of resale and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property shall be sold at a less price upon such resale, and to any other and further purposes which the Court may direct.

Upon the acceptance of any bid, the person or persons making the same shall make payments in cash, or in cash and General Lien and Convertible Mortgage bonds and unpaid past-due coupons appertaining thereto, at the rate at which said bonds and coupons shall be receivable, as hereinafter stated, of the sum remaining due upon such bid after the application thereto of the amount theretofore deposited by him, as follows:

25% within thirty days after confirmation of sale;
25% within forty days after such confirmation;
25% within fifty days after such confirmation;
25% within sixty days after confirmation of sale. The right is reserved to the purchaser to anticipate either or all of said payments.

The balance of the purchase price, not required to be paid in cash, may be paid either in cash, or the purchaser may satisfy and make good the balance of his bid in whole or in part by turning in to be canceled or credited General Lien and Convertible Mortgage bonds and coupons to be paid out of the proceeds of sale upon distribution thereof, and such purchaser shall be credited therefor, on account of the purchase price, with such sums in cash as would be payable on such bonds and coupons out of the proceeds of sale if the whole amount of the purchase price were paid in cash.

If any sale for which a deposit has been made shall not be confirmed by the Court, such deposit shall be returned to the bidder; and the deposit of any unsuccessful bidder shall be returned to him when a bid has been accepted.

The Special Master has the power and right to adjourn or cause to be adjourned said sale, from time to time, by announcement at the time and place appointed for such sale, or for such adjourned sale or sales, and, without further notice or publication, may proceed with said sale on any day to which the same may have been adjourned.

IV.

The purchaser or purchasers, or his or their successors or assigns, shall, as part of the consideration and purchase price of the property purchased and in addition to the sums hereinbefore and in said foreclosure decrees required to be paid, take said property and receive the deed or deeds therefor, upon the express condition that he or they, or his or their successors or assigns, shall pay, satisfy and discharge—

(1) Any unpaid compensation which has been or shall be allowed by the Court to the Receiver or his solicitors and counsel, and all unpaid indebtedness and obligations, if any such there be, which shall have been legally contracted or incurred by the Receiver in the operation or on account of said property at any time before said property shall be delivered to the purchaser or purchasers.

(2) Any indebtedness or liability contracted or incurred by Western Maryland Rail Road Company prior to the appointment of the Receiver which is superior in equity to the General Lien and Convertible Mortgage and which shall not, at the time of delivery of possession of the property sold to the purchaser, have been paid or satisfied by the Receiver, upon the Court adjudging the same to be prior and superior in equity to the General Lien and Convertible Mortgage and directing the payment thereof.

V.

The purchaser or purchasers, or his or their successors or assigns, shall, as part of the consideration and purchase price of the property purchased, and in addition to the sums hereinbefore stated as required to be paid, take the said property and receive the deed therefor upon the express condition that he or they, or his or their successors or assigns, shall pay, satisfy and discharge, or make provision satisfactory to the Court for the assumption and payment of all Receiver's obligations and certificates of indebtedness mentioned in said foreclosure decrees and which remain outstanding and unpaid at the time of said sale, and upon such payment or upon making satisfactory provision as aforesaid for such assumption and payment, shall be entitled to have, hold and possess all of the rolling stock and equipment specifically pledged as security for certain of said certificates of indebtedness free from all right, claim, lien or interest of any other person or persons whatsoever, and shall also be entitled to all of the rights, interests, powers and remedies of the holders of such of said certificates as are secured by the deposit of certain shares of stock. And the Receiver is directed by said foreclosure decrees, upon the request of said purchaser or purchasers, his or their successors or assigns, to sell or cause to be sold all or any part of said shares of stock, and the purchaser or purchasers under said foreclosure decree or his or their successors or assigns, shall have the right at any such sale to bid for and purchase all or any part of said shares of stock, and, upon such purchase, to own, hold and possess the same free from any and all right, title, claim or interest of any party to said cause, or any person or persons claiming under such party.

The Receiver's obligations and certificates mentioned and referred to in said decrees and now outstanding, are as follows:

(1) Equipment Certificates, Series A, dated January 1, 1909	$510,000
(2) Equipment Certificates, dated March 1, 1909	2,000,000
(3) First Mortgage Interest Certificates, dated October 1, 1909	600,000
(4) George's Creek and Cumberland Certificates, dated April 1, 1909	1,250,000
(5) Receiver's Note, dated April 1, 1909	323,850

VI.

Upon payment of the purchase price for the property sold, the Special Master will execute and deliver a good and sufficient deed or deeds conveying the property purchased to the purchaser or purchasers, or his or their successors or assigns; and the Western Maryland Railroad Company and The Equitable Trust Company, as Trustee under said General Lien and Convertible Mortgage, will, at the time of the execution of the deed or deeds by the Special Master, execute their deed or deeds, or join with the Special Master in the execution of the deed made by him, and convey and release to the purchaser or purchasers, and his or their successors and assigns, all of the right, title, and interest of said Railroad Company and said Trustee in and to the property so conveyed by the deed of the Special Master.

VII.

For a more specific description of the property to be sold, the liens and obligations to be assumed by the purchaser or purchasers, and the terms and conditions of such sale, and the rights of the purchasers thereunder, reference is hereby made to the above-mentioned foreclosure decrees, and to the report of the Special Master and the schedules filed therewith.

Dated October 19, 1909.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Marbles of Genuine Agate Are "Toys," Not "Unset Precious Stones."

R. F. Lang, an importer of this city, was unsuccessful yesterday before the Board of United States General Appraisers in an attempt to secure lower duty on marbles. The marbles in question were returned for duty by Collector Loeb at the rate of 35 per cent. under the provision in the Dingley tariff for "toys."

Mr. Lang's contention was that inasmuch as the marbles are composed of real agate, they should be permitted to enter at 10 per cent., under the paragraph providing for "precious stones advanced in condition, but not set." General Appraiser Sharretts takes the position, in overruling the claim, that the provision for toys is more specific than that for precious stones. The General Appraiser also makes the point that the marbles in question are not intended for settings within the meaning of the Dingley act. The protest is accordingly overruled.

Judge Waite in a decision for the board denies claims filed by F. G. Khoury & Brother regarding the classification of pistachio nuts covered with a thick coating of sugar. Collector Loeb took the view that the article is dutiable as "confectionery," with a tax of 50 per cent. under the Dingley law. The importer maintained that lower duty should be accorded either as a "sweetmeat" or as almonds or nuts. The further claim was made that the composition should be classified as an "unenumerated article," with duty at 20 per cent. All of the protests are overruled.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A portion of the Western storm has moved eastward, causing rains in the Middle and North Atlantic States. The lowest barometer is in the Southwest, also accompanied by rain.

The cold high area now covers the central portions of the country. The temperature has begun to rise in the extreme Northwest.

The tropical disturbance, while not developing to any extent, is now apparently central south of Jamaica.

Following rains in the Atlantic States Tuesday morning generally cool weather will prevail for several days in eastern and central districts.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate to brisk northwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk northwest to north; South Atlantic Coast, moderate variable.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate to brisk north to northwest winds, with showers, followed by fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST, TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Tuesday, Wednesday fair, continued cool; moderate to brisk north to northwest winds.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy Tuesday, with rain in the morning; Wednesday fair, continued cool; moderate north winds.

3 A. M.	65	43	4 P. M.	81	45
6 A. M.	63	44	6 P. M.	80	44
9 A. M.	70	46	9 P. M.	73	44
12 M.	77	44	12 P. M.	71	43

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 44; for the corresponding date last year it was 72; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 55.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 45; at 8 P. M. it was 44. Maximum temperature, 46 degrees at 9 A. M.; minimum, 43 degrees at 8 A. M.

Humidity, 59 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 85 per cent. at 8 P. M.

KIDNAPPED; A STORY ABOUT AN INVENTOR

Being a Veracious Account of How Two Desperate Men Abducted Little Mr. Cove.

SAYS HE CAN TAP THE SUN

Wilfred Doe (Not Related to the Justly Celebrated John) Starts Sleuths on the Trail.

The whole Police Department of New York got worked up yesterday over an alleged kidnapping case. While the mystery lasted Police Headquarters was at fever heat and when it was all over and the kidnapped person found there yet remained a suspicion in the minds of all the sleuths concerned that they had been badly hoaxed.

If the kidnapped person had set out to get some free advertising, which was the conclusion reached by Inspector McCafferty of the Detective Bureau, the most resourceful Broadway press agent couldn't have achieved greater results.

The tale has to do with a meek-looking little man about forty years old, named George H. Cove. He wears glasses, has a high bald forehead, and a drooping mustache. He lives with his wife in a boarding house at 331 West Fifty-eighth Street. The little man proudly informed the detectives when the search for him was over that he is the President of the Sun Electric Generating Company, with offices at 118 Maiden Lane.

Cove modestly admits being the inventor of an electrical machine which is designed to extract heat from the sun for the purpose of generating power. The machine consists of an arrangement of mirrors bound around with wire, all forming a box about four feet square. He admitted that business had been dull of late, which fact, Inspector McCafferty thinks, was probably responsible for the deep purple plot which is here unfolded.

It all began at about 8 o'clock on Sunday night. A messenger boy at that hour arrived at Cove's residence with a telegram signed with the name of Dr. O. B. Bachman of 256 West 108th Street, asking him to come to his house immediately. Cove thought it suspicious that Dr. Bachman should write when he always had telephoned, but he kissed his wife good bye and departed. He appeared at Dr. Bachman's house all right, leaving there about 9 o'clock.

Not Related to John Doe.

Living with Mr. and Mrs. Cove is a pale, dreamy-eyed young man named Wilfred Doe. He emphatically told the police that he was not related to the justly celebrated John Doe. He said he was Cove's secretary.

When Cove did not return home at midnight, Doe called up Police Headquarters and asked that a general alarm be sent out for the inventor. Detectives Betts and Dale were sent up to the Fifty-eighth Street house to see what the trouble was all about. They met Doe, who told them about one Frederick W. Eustis, who, he said, had often besought Cove to allow him to put on the market his wonderful sun-rays electrical device. When Cove refused, said Doe, Eustis used threats, hinting darkly that some one might kidnap Cove sometime. The detectives went to Eustis's home and found him asleep. They made him dress and go to Headquarters, however, just to have a chat with Inspector McCafferty.

It was at this point that the disappearance of Cove took on a thrilling interest. Policeman Kiel of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station was plodding through West Thirty-fifth Street about 3 o'clock yesterday morning when, as he got in front of 315, something white on the pavement caught his eye. It was a half-torn letter on the stationery of Dr. A. W. Slaught, Coroner of Wapello County, Iowa, and read:

> My Dear Sir: I have just been reading in The Ottumwa Courier a report of your wonderful discovery. Have you perfected those sun electric generators so as to be of practical utility?

The rest was torn off, and Kiel was about to throw it away when he turned it over. His eyes bulged as he read the following, written faintly in lead pencil:

> I was forced into an automobile and brought to this house, where I am being held by two men I have never seen before, and for what I do not know. Have been alone for some time and just light enough to see to write. The room is on the third or fourth floor, with one window. Will try and throw this directly in front of the house. Cannot give description of men, as it was dark when they were here.
> GEORGE H. COVE,
> 331 West Fifty-eighth Street.

Ha! Sleuths on the Trail.

Kiel looked around, but there wasn't any sign of a kidnapped person, and he made fast time to the station house. The alarm went to Headquarters, and in half an hour ten sleuths were scouring through the West Thirty-fifth Street block where the note had been found.

The place was an ordinary west side tenement. On the ground floor was a tailor and a plumbing shop, on the second the janitress lived, while on the third was a respectable German family. On the fourth was found an Irish family who had lived there six years. But there was no trace of Cove, nor was he in any of the other houses in the block.

The police rested on their oars after that until word got to Headquarters about 10 o'clock that Cove had been heard from. By that time every one around 300 Mulberry Street was anxiously awaiting the solution of the mystery. Inspector McCafferty sent Detectives Hyams and Hughes to Cove's furnished rooms in Fifty-eighth Street, and two more sleuths to his shop in Maiden Lane. These latter found at No. 118 a five-story brick building, where in a loft on the top floor Cove had his office. There was no name on the door, nothing but the word "enter." Two clerks seemed to be busy with some work, but they did not know where Cove was.

At a firehouse across the street the firemen reported that Cove had often said he was afraid some inventor would kidnap him and steal his patents. Dr. Bachman showed up before the detectives left. He said he was Cove's partner, and that the company financing Cove's inventions was incorporated under the laws of Arizona. He was quite mysterious about it all.

Along about 11 A. M. Detectives Hyams and Hughes appeared at Headquarters with the missing inventor. They had intercepted him as he was about to enter his home, and he willingly accompanied them to Headquarters. Cove was dressed in a black overcoat, a good suit of clothes, and a black derby. He appeared to be somewhat dazed, and it was some time before Inspector McCafferty could get his history from him.

Two Men and a Room.

Cove started off by saying that he had never been in a sanitarium or treated for mental trouble. He said he went up to Dr. Bachman's house after receiving the telegram, and when he left there he took a Columbus Avenue car as far down as Fifty-ninth Street. As he turned into Fifty-eighth Street, he said, two men stepped out of a hallway and pushed him into an automobile that was waiting at the curb. He said he did not remember anything else until he found himself in a room that looked out on the street. The detectives recalled after a time that there are several rooms fitting that description in New York. Two men were with him, he said, and they wanted him to give up his rights in his invention. When he refused they went out of the room. It was then, he said, that he wrote the note and threw it out of the window.

"If you had the window open why couldn't you yell?" asked Inspector McCafferty.

"I was afraid they would hurt me," replied Cove.

Continuing his narrative, he said he must have lapsed again into unconsciousness, for the next thing he remembered was being put out of an automobile in a park. He wandered around until daylight, he said, and found he was in Bronx Park. He then went to a hotel, hired a room, and went to sleep. Waking up he telephoned his wife of his whereabouts and then went home.

Inspector McCafferty said he would look up the antecedents of all the persons concerned. He thinks he may thus evolve some interesting genealogy.

OBJECT TO SALVATION ARMY.

Long Branch Residents Say It Brings People from Slums to the Resort.

In Jersey City yesterday cottagers of North Long Branch petitioned Vice Chancellor Garrison to have the Salvation Army enjoined from living in their neighborhood. At the request of Alexander Simpson, attorney for the Salvation Army, argument was adjourned for three weeks.

The petitioners include Arthur B. Gritman of Brooklyn, owner of the premises directly opposite the Salvation Army headquarters in North Long Branch; Oliver Dowd Byron, the actor; Mary Kate Byron, his wife, a sister of Ada Rehan; Hortense B. Hammerslough, Mrs. Alphie James, wife of Louis James; Stewart Cook and Jeanette C. Curtiss. They say that the Salvation Army each Summer brings to Long Branch women and children from the slums of Manhattan, and that these women and children are housed in the attics of two cottages, in stables, and even in cellars, while the officers and their families occupy desirable rooms of the cottages and have exclusive privileges with respect to the front verandas.

It is also charged that the children from the slums annoy the actors, play on their lawns, and that the officers play croquet in swimming costume. The petitioners also say they are offended by the continual singing of hymns, the crying of babies, and the sight of women of the slums parading about the lawns.

PARENTS REGAIN PROPERTY.

Conveyed It, They Said, to Man Who Threatened Their Son.

Vice Chancellor Emery, in Newark, N. J., has handed down a decision that certain properties in Newark and at Deal that were conveyed by John B. Ball and his wife to Sydney S. Ward must be reconveyed to the Balls on the ground that the conveyance was made under duress. Arthur D. Ball was married to Ward's only daughter, and it was alleged represented to his father-in-law that he was with a syndicate of strong backing.

On the strength of this representation, Ward said he loaned Ball, his son-in-law, $23,500 and also indorsed a note for $3,000 for him. Ward consequently learned, he asserted, that the syndicate was a myth, and when he tried to make his son-in-law return his property he found the latter had conveyed to his parents the Ball home in this city and a Summer residence at Deal.

He threatened to have young Ball arrested, and the elder Balls say that in order to save their son they conveyed the property to Ward. This constituted duress, according to the court, which ordered the conveyance set aside.

MUST SERVE IN CZAR'S ARMY.

Russian-American Forced to Return to Save His Mother's Property.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 18.—Rudolph Gluck, a Russian, 19 years old, will return to his native land within the next few days to serve three years in the army, and thus save his mother's property at Kaprin, near Warsaw, from confiscation.

Gluck came to this country when about eleven years old, with an uncle. He was educated here, and is thoroughly Americanized. His father died in Russia about three months ago, leaving a wife and three children. Rudolph thought all was well until Saturday, when he received a letter from his mother, saying that she had been ordered to produce him for service in the Russian Army on pain of having her home confiscated by the Government.

The young man promptly made up his mind to sacrifice his plans here to save his mother from destitution. He has asked advice of the Russian Consul in New York.

HOLD 'YOGI' GARNETT FOR DUPING WOMEN

Fortune Teller Wanted Here for Mining Stock Swindle Caught After Years' Search.

TRIES TO BRIBE DETECTIVES

Offered $1,000 for His Freedom—Brooklyn Girl He Married Returns to Her Parents.

"Yogi" William F. Garnett, the seer and fortune teller whose offices, at 215 West Forty-fifth Street, were filled two years ago by throngs of gullible women seeking his advice on matters of the heart and fortune, was locked up in Police Headquarters last night by Detectives McConville, Gegan, and Keon, charged with swindling.

Assistant District Attorney Kindleberger said Garnett is the last of a trio consisting of Henry T. Rodman, a white-haired old man, and "Big Mitt Bill" Hennig, Rodman's nephew, who conducted one of the most ingenious swindling games ever perpetrated in this city.

Garnett's picture is in the Rogues' Gallery, according to the police, who say also that he is known variously as Prof. Garnett, George Wilson, and Bernard Cunningham. Garnett, who only recently returned to this city, was picked up in 125th Street, near Eighth Avenue, yesterday afternoon. Rodman was arrested last year and Hennig left the city. Should he return, he will be arrested, said Mr. Kindleberger last night.

It was in August of last year that the operations of "Henry T. Rodman & Co., investments," with offices in the Cambridge Building at Thirty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, came to an end. There were two complainants, Mrs. Martha A. Taylor of 84 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., and Mrs. William C. Thompson of 58 Voorhees Street, Newark. Both accused "Henry T. Rodman & Co." of having sold them stock and thereby swindled them. It was only when the District Attorney's office put them through a close questioning that "Yogi" Garnett was brought into the case.

It developed that the women had made the acquaintance of Garnett at about the same time, which was May of 1907. Mrs. Thompson said she took "spiritual treatment." Both women paid several visits to Garnett before the subject of finance was broached, but according to both women Garnett finally advised them to invest in mining properties controlled by Rodman. Both women followed the advice, as did Lena Brabenc of 2,677 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, who bought $800 worth of stock in the Lynwood Gold and Copper Company of North Carolina.

"Big Mitt Bill" Hennig was in Rodman's office and conducted the negotiations, according to the police. Andrew Eberlein of 288 Third Avenue was another investor who finally became alarmed when he heard nothing further from the brokers after he had invested in the mining stock.

It was when these complaints came into the District Attorney's office that detectives were put on the case and Rodman was arrested. Hennig had left town and Garnett could not be found. Recently the police learned something of his movements since his disappearance in 1908.

According to the police, Garnett went to Brooklyn after leaving Forty-fifth Street and there assumed the name of George Wilson, under which he lived at 4 South Portland Avenue. There he met Ethel Heinrich, the daughter of Charles Heinrich, a well-to-do resident of 412 Franklin Avenue. Garnett wooed the girl with automobile and carriage rides, and on her eighteenth birthday, last year, married her despite the objections of her parents. After a month's honeymoon in a hotel in Brooklyn, the couple moved to Boston.

It was not long after this, according to the police, that the girl returned to her parents. The story that she told of Garnett's treatment of her was shocking, say the police. With his wife gone, Garnett moved to Springfield, Mass., where, as Prof. Leon, he worked his old financial game and cleaned up $2,000, according to the police. Complaint was made to Marshal Quilty, head of the Springfield police, who raided Leon's place of business. Leon had flown, however.

This was just before the recent Hudson-Fulton Celebration, and Garnett turned up here in time for that. The police got track of him, and McConville and his mates were set on his trail.

According to the police, Garnett was arrested here in November, 1907, for telling fortunes, and in February of 1900 he was arrested as a suspicious person. He was arrested first, according to the police records, in August, 1899, for grand larceny, but was discharged.

The detectives say that yesterday he tried to bribe them with $1,000 to let him go.

TWO RECTORS RESIGN.

Mr. Ladd Retires at Jamaica and Mr. Aitkin at Huntington.

The resignations of the Rev. Horatio O. Ladd, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Jamaica, and the Rev. James Floy Aitkin, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Huntington, L. I., were announced yesterday by the Vestrymen of the two churches. Neither gave a specific reason for his resignation, although it is known that the retirement of Mr. Ladd was requested by his Vestry shortly after the boy choir of the church had struck.

The rector, however, says that his resignation and the choir trouble had no relation whatever, and that he himself proposed some time ago to the Vestry that he either have an assistant or be permitted to resign. He has been made rector emeritus, with a pension ample to support him during the rest of his life.

Mr. Ladd has been in the ministry forty-five years, and has seen his own parish in Jamaica grow from 78 families to more than 400. He expects to live in Manhattan and devote the rest of his life to literary work.

Mr. Aitkin has been rector of St. John's Church for over ten years, during which the parish has built a new church edifice. He gave no reason for his resignation.

POLE HITS SELIGMAN AUTO.

Top of the Limousine Smashed and Banker's Wife Has Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Albert J. Seligman of 52 West Fifty-second Street, wife of the banker, narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday while her chauffeur, William Campbell was driving her in her new limousine auto rapidly down Central Park West.

As the car approached Seventy-seventh Street an iron pole was being lowered across the street gradually. It was at a considerable angle as the car came to it. Just as the car went under a rope slipped, and down on the limousine came the pole, splintering the wood and covering just above the chauffeur's head. At the same instant he shut off his power and threw on the brakes. The car stopped dead. The pole was quickly removed, and Mrs. Seligman went on with the top of her car badly smashed.

IN NEW JERSEY.

In Jersey City yesterday John Tobin of New York pleaded guilty before Judge Robert Carey to a charge of conspiracy against the election laws during the recent primaries in Hoboken. It was reported at the County Court House that he had made a confession involving several Hoboken men. Judge Carey declined to verify the report of the confession.

Mark M. Fagan, Republican candidate for Mayor of Jersey City, gave out a statement yesterday in reply to charges made against him by Mayor H. O. Wittpenn, who has been renominated by the Democrats. Mayor Wittpenn charged that Fagan when Mayor incurred a debt of over $2,000,000. Fagan declares the only deficit there is was due to the failure of the Wittpenn Administration to sustain valuation on shore front railroad property, and that the Wittpenn policy is one of "vacillation, inactivity, and failure."

United States Judge Rellstab sentenced in Trenton yesterday Eugene R. Wiltbank, former note teller of the Second National Bank of Atlantic City, to five years in the Atlanta Federal Prison after the mother of the man had made an appeal to him for clemency. The sentence was the minimum under the statute. Wiltbank took $7,000, and pleaded guilty before the Court.

The Republican campaign was opened in Newark last night, when Representative Charles B. Landis of Delphi, Ind., spoke at a mass meeting in the Krueger Auditorium. Judge Benjamin F. Jones presided, and other speakers were Robert S. Terhune, George E. Russell, William Mungle, Duane E. Minard, Coleman E. Kissam, Harold A. Miller, and Harry R. O'Connell.

The Cooke Works in Paterson of the American Locomotive Company will be reopened and running on full time within a short time, according to instructions which Supt. Frederick W. Cooke received yesterday from the main offices of the company. This will mean much to the iron workers in Paterson, who have been out of work since the Cooke and Rogers works both closed down.

In Red Bank yesterday Lloyd Smuthersk, chauffeur for A. O. Headley, and Charles Gordon, an employe of P. Sanford Ross of Long Branch, met with a serious accident. The auto, being driven at a forty-mile clip, struck an embankment near the Eatontown school and threw both men out. The car, belonging to Mr. Headley, jumped twenty feet, landing diagonally across the highway. The men were thrown fifty feet, and landed on their heads. One sustained a scraping scalp wound, and the other was cut over the eye and badly shaken up. The injured men were taken to the residence of Dr. J. C. Rush, where their wounds were dressed. They were later removed to the Long Branch Hospital.

TIFFANY DIAMONDS GONE AND NO CLUE

Valuable Jewels Disappear from the Repair Shop and Cannot Be Traced.

FAITH PUT IN EMPLOYES

Necklace and Pendant Disappear First—Princess Ring Goes Next—Jewelers Won't Discuss Case.

Tiffany & Co., the jewelers, refused to discuss yesterday a report which has recently been circulated that on two separate occasions during the last month articles of jewelry have mysteriously disappeared from one of the repairing rooms in the upper floors of the Tiffany establishment, at Thirty-seventh Street and Fifth Avenue. John C. Moore, the President of the Tiffany Company, would not deny the disappearance of the jewels.

At Police Headquarters it was said that no formal complaint had been made by the Tiffany Company of any robbery, but individual policemen whose beats are near the Tiffany establishment said yesterday that they had heard from outside sources that some jewels were missing from there.

Supt. Dougherty of the Pinkerton Agency was asked what he knew about the alleged robbery, and he said that the reported value of the missing jewels—between $10,000 and $15,000—had been "greatly exaggerated." He would add nothing further.

As the street story goes, the first disappearance of jewelry from the Tiffany repair rooms took place about a month ago. A necklace of diamonds from one to three carats each disappeared then. A star of sapphires was attached to the necklace as a pendant. The entire piece was valued at $10,000, according to the report.

This necklace had been sent to Tiffany's by its owner to have some minor change made in its setting. It was turned over, it is said, to one of the firm's expert repairers. This man worked on the necklace until luncheon time. Then, after placing it in a box on the work table, he left the room for a few minutes. When he returned and looked into the box, his exclamations attracted the attention of all his fellow-workmen. The necklace was gone.

The loss was immediately reported to the firm, and an investigation was made. The expert, who had the necklace in charge was an old and trusted employe. The other workmen in the room were able to prove that they had not been near his work table during his absence. Subsequent investigations by private detectives developed nothing more.

Excitement over this incident had not died away when a diamond princess ring, set with sixteen one-carat diamonds, arranged in four rows, was lost. It had been sent in by a customer to have a loose setting fixed. It was turned over to another workman in the repair department. When some one was sent upstairs from the office to get the ring, the workman explained in surprise that he had already sent it downstairs.

The Turk, The Christian And The Holy Sepulchre

A Feature of Much Import in The Times Next Sunday

READERS of The Sunday Times have been made familiar with James Creelman's graphic portrayal of the terrible scenes which attended the Adana massacre. From the Cilician plain, reeking with the blood of the thirty thousand Christians slain by the fanatic hordes of Asia Minor, from the burned villages and ruined churches, Mr. Creelman turned to the holy scenes of the Nativity and Crucifixion, to the city whose very name thrills the religious world, to find, not peace, simplicity and love, but hatred, strife, greed, vanity and deceit, a spectacle that the writer describes as "more disheartening than was even the twentieth century murder of 30,000 Christians," a stupendous crime that had been committed without fear of retribution, and which yet remains unpunished.

It is a strong statement that one may find in Jerusalem conditions more disheartening than were the scenes of the monstrous crime of Adana. But in his narrative the writer draws a pen picture which will amaze. At the Holy Sepulchre itself, where for more than sixteen centuries Christendom has wept and prayed over the rock-hewn chamber which held the body of the dead Christ, Mr. Creelman found an armed guard stationed to prevent disorder, and the Church of the Nativity he found filled with Turkish soldiers, whose bayonets were for the purpose of keeping the peace among the Christians who visit that sacred spot. Mr. Creelman describes the hatred and bitterness that is displayed, and tells of many acts of violence and disorder. The opening instalment of this important article will be published next Sunday.

Readers of The Times are advised to place their orders for next Sunday's edition with their newsdealers as early as possible.

See This $60,000 Bright Spot

No other show held in the Garden was ever so expensively—so brilliantly illuminated, nor so beautifully and harmoniously decorated as the Electrical Show, which closes Thursday night, October 21st. The illumination and decorations have cost over $60,000.

Take Your Family—The Children Too

This is the one great Show of the year that appeals to every member of the family—from children to venerable grandparents. Novel and spectacular features galore. Hundreds of interesting displays and demonstrations show the economical use of electricity for health, comfort, and happiness in the home.

The morning and afternoon hours are suggested for close personal inspection of the exhibits. Show open from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M.
